A ROLL OF HONOR

Names of Officers and Men In The Newton Constabulary M. S. G.

The past week has smoothed out most of the wrinkles in the system for policing the Back Bay district of Boston by the Newton Constabulary unit of the Mass. State Guard. The men are divided into two details, consisting of two companies each, and each detail is on duty at Station 16 for 48-hour periods, returning then to headquarters at the Mechanics Building. The rules have been modified so that each man is entitled to a day's leave, during the period of rest, provided no emergency arises, reporting in the morning to the sergeant of his company. While on duty at Station 16 the men also are at liberty after performing their tour of duty and go home to sleep or to business as they please.

So much publicity has been given to the statement that the Newton Constabulary is made up of millionaires, it may be of interest to analyze the facts.

37 different occupations are noted on the enlistment blanks of the men, and nearly every trade and profession is represented by at least one man.

There are 39 salesmen, 19 lawyers, 13 managers, 13 manufacturers, 12 clerks, 12 students, 11 insurance men, 8 architects, 8 merchants, 6 treasurers, 5 builders, 5 carpenters, 5 civil engineers, 5 teachers or professors, 5 superintendents, 5 publishers, 5 secretaries, 5 machinists. Among the other occupations include a blacksmith, a tinsmith, several painters, chauffeurs, gardeners, plumbers, accountants, two physicians, a clergyman, a brush maker, a burlap bag maker, a knitter, an organist, a farmer, a barber and a nickel plate.

16 of the men were born in Canada or the provinces, 9 in England, 2 in Italy and 1 each in Germany, Norway, China, Ireland and Poland.

33 of the men have been in the U. S. Army or Navy in the late war besides a number of the younger men who were in the R. O. T. C. or S. A. T. C.

Lieut. Colonel William N. Dudley, Major James R. Chandler, Lieut. Elias B. Bishop and Lieut. Harold W. Hayes were present last Friday afternoon at the meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs held in the vestry of the New Church in Newtonville. The ladies were told of the work being done by the Constabulary in protecting the city of Boston and the need of more recruits to lessen the amount of work to be done by each man. Emphasis was laid on the patriotic nature of the work, and they were urged to uphold and to encourage their husbands and brothers who were already in the service and to assist in persuading others to enlist for the present emergency.

Every evening at Mechanics Building there is some kind of entertainment for the men in quarters. Mr. Fred E. Mann of Newtonville, has furnished a gramophone with records, the Red Cross and the Knights of Columbus have sent in cigarettes and the latter has furnished khaki handkerchiefs. Company D, has been especially favored with the gift of a number of pairs of spirals and more are promised.

There is quite a rivalry between the companies in the matter of company songs. Company D, being the first with the following.

Oh, there's Company A and Company B

And we've even heard of Company C But the best Company

In the whole jamboree That ever came from Newton is Company D.

Company "A"

Tune: "I've Got My Captain Working For Me Now"

Listen, boys, to a brand new ditty, Listen, fellows, while I

Sing about the army to which we belong.

Not so very big but still it's going strong;

There's no doubt it can guard the city,

No more riots they'll try;

Just let me say that Company "A"

Of old Newtonville's the goods and here's why.

Chorus

CAPT. HAMLIN RETIRES

Newton Centre Man has Served in State House for 45 Years

Capt. Edward F. Hamlin of Newton Centre, on Tuesday retired from the service of the state, having served 42 years as executive secretary of the Governor's council. Before taking that position, he was a clerk in the office of the adjutant-general's office for three years.

The captain ends his connection with the state government under the act that permits veterans of the Civil War to retire at half-pay after they have held office 10 years, if they choose to do so.

The esteem in which Capt. Hamlin is held by his fellow-workers at the State House was expressed by Secretary of State Langtry, who, with Treasurer Burrill, Deputy Auditor Hawley, Tax Commissioner Trefry, and Insurance Commissioner Hobbs, went to his office and told of their appreciation of his long and faithful service and wished him all possible happiness in his freedom from official cares. The captain was taken by surprise, but returned his thanks for their thoughtfulness and kind wishes.

Capt. Hamlin served in the civil war as a sergeant in company I of the 52d Massachusetts volunteer regiment. He returned to his home in Northampton, resuming his retail shoe business until appointed to the adjutant-general's office by Gov. Washburn. He was then captain of the Northampton company of the Massachusetts militia.

Gov. Rice and his council elected Capt. Hamlin, clerk of the council in 1877. Formerly the clerical work for that branch of the government was done by the staff of the secretary of state. The captain has served in that position without a break, only one

FAREWELL TO PASTOR

Rev. Thomas S. Roy Leaves the Lincoln Park Baptist Church

Rev. Thomas S. Roy, who left on Wednesday for his new parish at London, Ontario, was tendered a farewell reception on Tuesday evening in the Lincoln Park Baptist Church at West Newton, of which he has been pastor for the past four years.

A purse of $100 in gold was presented to the minister by little Marjory Lane. Music was furnished by an orchestra, comprising Miss Mildred Colby, pianist; Miss Irene Forte, violinist, and Miss Helen Sawyer, cellist. Rev. Mr. Roy and Mrs. Roy were assisted in receiving by Deacon Samuel N. Waters and wife and Deacon H. K. Burris.

The Lincoln Park Church was his first parish after graduation from the Theological Seminary. Previous to that time, he had preached in the Beth-Eden Baptist Church in Fitchburg.

There has been no successor named to the Lincoln Park pulpit. Rev. Mr. Roy is a member of the A. F. and A. M., having been chaplain of Dalhousie Lodge in Newton for the past three years. He was this year to have assumed the duties of chaplain of the Royal Arch Chapter of Newton.

He was born in Newcastle, N. B., and received his early education at Acadia College. He is vice president of the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor Union, a member of the board of the Northern Baptist Educational Society and a member of the social service committee of Massachusetts Baptist Commission.

THE BOY SCOUTS

Newton Troops Start the Fall Season Under Slight Handicap on Account of State Guards

The season has started for all the scout troops in the city, and from the present indications, all the boys are "on their toes" ready to make this the most successful year that Newton has ever seen in scout work.

Several of the troops are slightly delayed in starting work on account of their officers being members of the State Guard, and on duty in Boston. Troop 1, Newtonville, is without their scoutmaster, Lt.-Col. Wm. N. Dudley, who is on duty. However, the first meeting of the season opened last Tuesday at the High School Gymnasium under the leadership of Mr. Talbot, the Scout Executive. Troop 2 of the Highlands is minus one assistant, who is on duty, and Troop 4 has scoutmaster and all but one assistant in the State Guard. Troop 7 of West Newton, is getting along without the services of Asst. Scoutmaster Robert Perry, who is now a "traffic cop" in Boston. Troop 10 of Waban, has their scoutmaster, Major Chandler, on duty and Troop 13 also has their scoutmaster, Mr. Tully, in the service.

A hike was held last Saturday on Oak Hill, the Scout Camp ground, led by Mr. Talbot, and many tests were passed there, after dinner, cooked in the open, of course, the scouts hiked to Dudley road and spent some time in cutting trees for one of the many friends of the scouts. Several scouts succeeded in passing their axe tests for felling and trimming timber. Scouts from Troops 8, 5 and 7 were represented. Today Mr. Talbot takes a party of Scouts on a hike to Weston, where more tests will be passed.

Several troops are reregistering this month, and all are weeding out all the "dead wood" as so many boys are anxious to join that those scouts not attending meetings must give way to those that do.

Last Sunday a meeting of the scout officers was held at the Newton Club, and plans for the coming season discussed. The reports from the various troops was most encouraging, all looking forward to a very successful year. The meeting was in charge of Commissioner J. C. Irwin.

Mr. John H. Eddy, president of the Norumbega Council, Boy Scouts, appeared before the School Committee at their last meeting, and obtained, thru their kindness, the use of the High School Gymnasium for Troop 1 meeting place. The school committee did this, after Mr. Eddy explained that according to leading educators, as Pres. Elliot of Harvard, and David Snedden, the scouts were an educational institution. Mr. Eddy quoted statements from several of the educational leaders to this effect.

What

Makes A

Really Good Coffee?

A question easy enough to ask but wise, indeed, is the man who can rightly answer. There are so many grades—so many kinds with so many different characteristics—so many processes from seed to finished product that seldom does any one feature explain the goodness of any particular brand.

The right seed—the right soil—the right climate—intelligent cultivation—all these play their part in our

Coronation Coffee

Careful selection, scientific blending and perfect roasting are the final steps that contribute to the all round goodness of the cup which comes to your table. Coronation is not simply a blend which we think is good but rather the embodiment of those qualities which years of experience have taught us were requisite to the satisfaction of thousands of our retail customers.

Roasted under our own roof and ground to your order it combines with all its other good qualities the added one of absolute freshness which means so much to the flavor of the cup you serve.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Some Impressions and Experiences in a Summer Trip to the Pacific Northwest

Friday afternoon, August 8, and Portland. We were a tired and dirty looking set as we entered the Imperial Hotel, which was to be headquarters during our stay in Portland, and a few hours' rest would have been welcomed by many. But only a few minutes were allotted us in which to remove cinders, etc., and soon we were again on our way, automobiles taking us to a spot called Laurelhurst Park.

Let me, if I can, paint a rough picture of the scene which met our gaze as we left the automobile—thick, velvety green grass, beautiful flowering shrubs, a small pond, row after row of long tables covered with snowy white cloths and all sorts of nice things to eat. Towering above it all as though on sentinel duty stood immense fir trees, straight as arrows, their big heads lifted to the late afternoon sun whose rays filtered thru the branches and fell below, making varied and fantastic patterns upon Nature's soft green carpet. The whole scene demanded that we forget how tired we were which we proceeded to do immediately and settled down to complete enjoyment of it all.

In this attractive spot we had dinner, served by the Portland Caterers' Association, and the dinner was certainly in keeping with the surroundings if compared in the qualitative degree.

After the speaking, we took automobiles again for an evening drive. We were fortunate enough to have the

The Highway is a hard surfaced road extending about fifty miles along the bank of the Columbia River which is the dividing line between Oregon and Washington. It is a marvelous feat of engineering, the grade in one place being so steep that the road has been made to form a double figure 8. Magnificent bridge work is an added testimonial to the skill of the engineers.

The Highway was two years in the building and cost two million dollars. All along the way the hand of man has done everything possible to perfect the roadway, so that an automobile glides as smoothly over its glassy surface as the dancer over the polished floor of the ballroom. And on each side of this work of man God's handiwork is wrought. Falls, some of them over six hundred feet in height, shimmer and sparkle as they gracefully drop like a misty veil into the streams below. Gorges, awesome in their silent depths, where only an occasional sunbeam is ever privileged to dance, and the huge rocks, towering majestically into the infinite, fill the beholder with the realization of his own insignificance.

Still wrapped in the wonder of it all, we arrived at Eagle Creek, where a bear and trout breakfast was served us as guests of the U. S. Forestry Department. This was the first time that our party had eaten at one table, but on this occasion we all sat around one table over five hundred feet long—quite a Thanksgiving party. The few remaining minutes until train time were devoted to the inspection of Salem's public buildings. Over head a couple of aeroplanes performed stunts for our benefit and Governor Olcott gave us an official welcome to the state.

Then with a toot and a waving of hands, we left Salem behind and rode into dreamland. I wager that more than one of us went back to "the City of Roses" that night, bought one of those beautiful homes, and settled down to enjoy life in a real city, the city which has a heart, the city to which many hearts are off.

But dreams are like chaff—they blow away with the slightest breath of wind and in the morning we awoke to find that the wind which blew our dreams away was that which was wafted down to us from the pine-topped hills of Medford.

ENNES-PERKINS

Last Monday evening Miss Millicent Perkins of 131 Charlesbank road, Newton, daughter of Mrs. Alice E. Perkins, was quietly married at her home to Mr. Edward Rowe Ennes, son of Mrs. Charles Ennes of Hillsboro, N. H. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William A. Knight, formerly of the Congregational Church, Brighton. The bride wore a simple dress of embroidered crepe de chine, a tulle veil, and orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Miss Helen Perkins, sister of the bride, wore a gown of blue embroidered voile. The best man was Mr. John Hillenbrand of Pennsylvania. The ushers were Mr. Lucian E. Bates of Brighton, and Mr. Clarence Burleigh of Brookline. A reception at the house followed the ceremony. The house was very tastefully decorated with autumn leaves, roses, dahlias, and gerberas. Miss Doubly sang "O, Promise Me," and the Lohengrin march was played by Miss Laura Murray.

After a trip to the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Ennes will live in Hillsboro, N. H.

CAPTAIN CORMERAIS RETIRES

Henry D. Cormerais, who has been serving at the headquarters of the Department of the Northeast as personal aide to General Edwards, terminated his connection with the Army Tuesday in order to resume business in private life. Captain Cormerais applied for his discharge some time ago but remained on duty at the request of General Edwards. He was the recipient of a gold cigarette case, a present from Mrs. Edwards, the wife of the general, as an acknowledgment of Captain Cormerais's courtesy to her. Captain Cormerais entered the service as commander of the Newton company in the Fifth Massachusetts Infantry, which subsequently became the 101st. After his arrival in France he served as zone major from Oct. 1, 1917, to the end of the year. He then returned to his regiment and took command of the headquarters company. Captain Cormerais was wounded June 16, 1918, at Berncourt. Before the war he was in the public warehouse business in Allston, and will resume that occupation.

AUBURNDALE IS ALERT

Upon the suggestion of the Rev. Dr. Edward Payson Drew, members of the congregation of the Auburndale Congregational Church, at the close of the morning services Sunday, signed their names to the following appreciation of the stand of Gov. Coolidge in reference to the Boston police strike:

"We, the undersigned, voters in this commonwealth, accepting the opportunity offered by the pastor of the Auburndale Congregational Church, do hereby express our profound appreciation of the courageous and patriotic stand taken by Calvin Coolidge, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, for the maintenance of righteous law and order and for the preservation of a just and righteous government.

"We desire for all our fellow citizens an equitable reward for their labor, but are mindful that none of our material interests, whether individual or organized, can be permitted to take precedence above our sacred obligations to the commonwealth, our country and the world."

EDITORIAL

The Republican party of Massachusetts should state its position on the League of Nations in no uncertain language. No one wishes a return of world wide conditions which existed before the war, but it is possible that the theoretical ideals which President Wilson so persistently advocates, are not the ideals of the American people. We can, at least, go so far as to endorse the position of Senator Lodge, a position which appears to be both sound and logical.

While the Newton Constabulary unit of the State Guard has shown a most commendable spirit in enlisting for the present emergency in Boston, far greater praise should be given the Newton Company of the State Guard, Co. A, 11th Regiment. These men are performing the hardest kind of duty in the busiest part of Boston, and are said to be living in crowded, inadequate quarters in the South Army.

Members of the State Guard, who are serving the State in the present crisis in its history, will have the satisfaction of knowing that they had a hand in the preservation of law and order. Each of them can say with Virgil "All of which I saw and part of which I was." Why don't you join?

Let us not forget that the best way to show that Newton and Massachusetts are behind Gov. Coolidge in his stand on the police desertion in Boston is to see that every man votes for his reelection next month. Preach this doctrine persistently until election day.

Appropos of the selection of Mechanics Hall for the Newton Constabulary, one observing person has noted that Paul Revere Hall is a most appropriate place to quarter the "Minute Men of Newton."

CONSTABULARY NOTES

Lieut. Child in charge of the Commissary department at Mechanics Hall, has had great difficulty in obtaining good ice for the use of the men. This week Major Janes, the medical officer and Lieut. Child made an inspection of the plant of the Purley Ice Co. on Beacon street, following which Manager F. H. Williams delighted them with the offer to furnish the Constabulary with all the ice needed without cost.

The wives and families of men in the Constabulary service are invited to visit Mechanics Hall, any Sunday between 2 and 6 P. M. Next Sunday afternoon the Newton Constabulary Band will provide a band concert.

ELLIS-JEFFORD

On Wednesday Miss Lillian E. Jefford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Jefford of 18 Orchard street, Newton, was married to Mr. Roger C. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Ellis of 38 Willow street, Newton Centre. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Laurens MacLure of Grace Church. The wedding was a quiet home wedding; the bride looked lovely in a gown of pussy willow silk with a veil of tulle and orange blossoms. She carried roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Mildred Colby of West Newton played the wedding march, and Miss Martha Boothby sang, "O, Promise Me." After a trip to the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will be at home at 36 Willow street, Newton Centre.

GIRL SCOUT HIKE

The senior Girl Scouts of Troop III of Newton, with Captain Ordway of that troop and Captain Burdett of Troop IV, went on an overnight hike to Oak Hill on Friday night, September 26. The studio of the late Horace K. Turner was put at the disposal of the girls through the kindness of the Boy Scouts, who have rented it. The girls rolled themselves in blankets and slept on the porch; on Saturday, after seeing the sunrise, they spent an interesting morning in hiking and following trails.

Medals for excellent school garden work during the summer have been given to these pupils: John Regan, Fannie Candela and Estherina Vara.

Stearns School

Child Welfare Clinic

Henceforth the Child Welfare Clinic at the Stearns School will be held on Wednesday afternoons at 3 o'clock instead of Monday afternoons at the same hour. A doctor and nurse are always in attendance, ready to examine children up to five years of age and tell the mothers how to keep them well. Please spread the gospel and help us to make Newton's infant mortality record second to none in the state.

The Girls' Club began their work for the season Tuesday evening, Sept. 30th. Committees for the ensuing months were announced and included the following:—membership, educational, social service, program and finance. On Oct. 14th at 7.30 P. M. Miss Mildred Guttererson, secretary of the Massachusetts League of Women Workers will address the Club, telling them what is necessary to join the League and pointing out the advantages of so doing.

There is already a large enrollment of the Millinery Class which will hold its first meeting Oct. 7th at 7.30 P. M. There are a number of pupils desiring work outside of school hours. Any person who may be able to give work to a boy or girl this Fall should communicate with Principal Winslow.

An interesting football game was played on the playground Tuesday afternoon. Stearns School defeated Bigelow by the score of 54-0.

Students are expected to hear from the other districts regarding games and promises to double the score on its next opponent.

Country Day School

Country Day School football team has about 40 candidates out and Coach Rufus Bond is rather well pleased with the material. The team is captained by Louis Nichols, brother of Franklin Nichols, an ex-Noble & Greenough captain. The other veterans back are, James J. Phelan, Jr., Harry Pratt, Morgan Harris, Stanley Howe, John Toulmin and Capt. Nichols.

Manager Soule announces the Country Day schedule today as follows: Oct. 4, Newton High 2nd at Cabot field, Newton (A. M.); 11, Allen Military School at Cabot Field (P. M.); 18, Milton Academy at Milton (P. M.); 25, Roxbury Latin at Cabot Field, Newton (A. M.); Nov. 1, Dummer Academy at Cabot Field (P. M.); 8, Browne & Nichols at Cabot Field (A. M.); 15, Noble & Greenough at Dexter Field, Brookline (P. M.).

The faculty of the Country Day School has nominated the following boys for membership in the Students' Council: Class I, William L. Garrison 3rd of West Newton, Frank M. and Richard W. Dwight of Boston. From this list, the boys of the school will elect three from Class I and two from Class II. Hold-over members of the council are Harry N. Pratt of West Newton and James J. Phelan, Jr., of Boston.

Roger Wolcott School

The enrollment of the Roger Wolcott School grows daily. At the present rate of increase it is probable that larger quarters will soon be needed. The school is very fortunate in having secured Mrs. Colton as teacher of the fourth grade.

Mr. Ernst Herman, Director of the Waban playgrounds, has co-operated with the Roger Wolcott School, thus making it possible for the playground material and equipment to be used in play before and after school, and during recess.

The 7th and 8th grade Fall baseball series continues in spite of the fact that the 7th has won the first two of the three game series. Six innings of the third game have been played and the score stands 4-3 in favor of the 8th.

Hyde School

The eighth grade held a class meeting and, using the Australian ballot method, elected their officers for the year. The following were chosen: Vernon Lewis, president; Albert Terkelson, vice-president; Dorothy Denning, treasurer; Elinor Newton, secretary.

A very interesting debate was held last week by the members of the seventh grade. Question: Resolved, that the New World should have been named for Columbus rather than Vesputius.

The affirmative team: Madolin Powell, captain; Dorothy Smith, Rachel Smith, Joseph Lane, Burval Smith, Lillian Noyes. The negative team: Mildred MacDonald, captain, Harold Carver, Evelyn Ellms, Charles Timbie, Elizabeth Savage, Katharine Bonner.

The judges who were Ernestine Wilder, Virginia Mason, Frances Amburn, Almond Tewksbury, Jr., and Sam Patten, decided in favor of the negative side.

Lasell

The Rev. Edward T. Sullivan of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, will speak at the Vesper Service next Sunday.

Thursday, Dr. Leon Vincent gave a lecture at the school on "Theoreau and His Inland." Mr. Charles W. Towne, formerly connected with the Americanization work in Massachusetts, has been appointed Assistant Principal of the school.

WINS FIRST GAME

Newton High opened its football season at Clafin Field, Newtonville, Friday afternoon, defeating Needham High, 18 to 0. Newton has the makings of a good team, but as yet the playing shows need of practice and better team work.

Capt. Robert Garrity was the star for Newton and gained almost at will. He made several good runs, although none figured directly in the touchdowns. Herbert Garrity, quarterback, made two good runs on forward passes and Blodgett, halfback, also pulled off a long run on a forward pass.

SECOND PLATTSBURG

The Norumbega District Sunday School Association will conduct another Plattsburg in Sunday School subjects this fall. The success of last year assures a fine response. The dates are October 13 to 17 inclusive, five evenings instead of six; The place, Central Congregational Church, Newtonville. Miss Margaret Slattery, Rev. Frank M. Sheldon and Professor H. Augustine Smith, are among the attractions.

Why She Can Talk Longer.

That women can talk longer than a man is attributed to the fact that she uses less force than a man does.

The autumn wood-path

"The woods are never so full of interest and fascination as when the first frosts have touched the leaves and purified the crisp, nipping air, and filled the forest with that expectant hush that follows the insect-hum and bird-music of summer. Then, as one walks along the quiet wood-path, he experiences again something of the vanished child-sense of fairyland. The forest aisles are full of mystery; the glint of sunshine in near-by glades and the flicker of falling golden leaves mingle like fact and fancy; and in the hush and glimmer and beauty of the scene one expects to see anything, from fairies dancing on the moss, to princes and princesses riding suddenly across the path, with plumes and jewels and jingling bridles. An enchanted place is the October wood. You wonder at the change that has come over it since the thrush and the vireo and the warbler packed their flutes and started slowly and silently southward. Strange how grateful it is to the ear, sometimes, not to hear the birds singing! But it is because you have heard them singing all summer long that you can be pleased with the October silence. The sweetest song needs silence after it to fill the measure of its delight. . . .

I would like to say a word about the flowers one may find, even in October, along the wood-path and scattered over the upland pastures, I may simply name a few of the blossoms I picked, last fall, between the first of October and the fifth of November:—fringed gentian, purple aster, golden-rod, blue lead-flax, fall dandelion, Canada violet, spurge, yarrow, white alder, trumpet-weed, witch-hazel, moth mullein, knotted-weed, thorn-apple and ladies' tresses."

The above is from "Where town and country meet," by James Buckham (M.B.855w). Among other enjoyable books that sing the praise of autumn are "Afield with the seasons," by the same author (M.B.855). "Autumn," from the journal of Henry D. Thoreau (M.T.39 a). "Seeing nature first," by Clarence Moores Weed (M.W.41 s) and "The whole year round," by Dallas Lore Sharp (M.S.53 w).

Newtonville

The Newton Trust Co. is building a bank of brick and terra cotta at the corner of Walnut and Austin streets.

The flowers for Central Church were given by Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Strong, in memory of their son, Lieut. Elsworth O. Strong, who fell in battle, Aug. 25, 1918.

One hundred and ten members of the Woman's Association assembled for the first all day gathering of the season, Wednesday. Cordiality, daintily viands furnished by Mrs. Nickerson and her committee, Mrs. Davidson's kind and sympathetic story of "Six Weeks among the Mountain Whites," and Red Cross garments to work on, all conspired to make an auspicious beginning. The program for the year promises great things for both Home and Foreign work.

The next Woman's Association meeting will occur at the home of Mrs. Walter T. Kelley, 240 Upland road, Wednesday at 2.30, under direction of Mrs. Titus, Chairman of the Foreign Department. Miss Annie M. Parker of the Gedik Pasha School, Constantinople, will be the special speaker. The past five years' experience at her post qualify her to interest all who can attend. Mrs. Baker will report her attendance at the Northfield Conference. The daughters of members are especially invited.

Miss Marie Bartlett gave readings at the first social and entertainment given at the Universalist Church in Cambridge last Wednesday evening.

Miss Abigail Elizabeth Leete, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William White Leete of Newtonville, who graduated from the Newton High School in 1916 and who is now a senior at Mount Holyoke college has announced to a circle of her classmates, her engagement to Mr. Sherrod Emerson Skinner, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward John Skinner reside at Maple Hill, New Britain, Conn. Mr. Skinner was at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., in the class of 1918. He left the Institute to enter the navy and during the war became an ensign. He has now returned to his last year at Rensselaer, finishing the mechanical engineering course.

Both young people are prominent in class and college affairs, and a large number of friends will hear with much interest of this engagement.

The bride was dressed in a gown of white beaded georgette crepe over satin. She wore a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Bartlett Schakford, of Hanover, N. H., wore white georgette and carried Russell roses. The maid of honor, Miss Blanche Higgins, sister of the bride, was dressed in blue tulle and carried pink roses.

The best man was Mr. Roger Hall Bacon, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Arthur Southwick of Waban, and Mr. Alan M. McIntire of West Roxbury.

An aisle of ribbon was formed by two small couples of the bride. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. After a trip to Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Bacon will live at 74 Circuit avenue, Eliot.

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

The home storage of vegetables is an interesting topic of discussion among home gardeners at this time of the year. Most every one has a surplus of vegetables in the garden. In order to save these for home consumption during the winter they must be placed in proper storage this month.

There are three different kinds of storage required for garden products. The first of these is the cool storage, such as a moist, dark cellar or pit. Potatoes should be kept in bins in this storage. Beets, carrots, salsify, turnip, Kohl-Rabi and parsnips should be buried in sand. Other vegetables which may be kept in this cool moist storage are cabbage, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and celery. The roots of these vegetables should be set in sand. The temperature in the cool moist storage should be kept between 35 and 40 degrees.

The second type of storage is the cool dry storage such as an unheated room in the dwelling. Onions, eggplants, peppers and tomatoes keep best under such conditions. The temperature of the cool dry storage should be regulated between 35 and 40 degrees the same as for the cool moist storage.

The third kind of vegetable storage is the warm dry storage such as is usually found in a partially heated room or cellar with a furnace. Squashes and pumpkins keep best in such places where a temperature ranges from 50 to 60 degrees.

There are several things to remember when storing vegetables. The vegetables must be free from bruises and decay, well matured and dry when put in storage. Stored vegetables should not be piled to a depth of more than two or three feet. Decayed vegetables should be sorted out and removed at intervals during the winter to prevent spreading decay to sound products.

A cool storage in cellars with a furnace can be provided by partitioning off a part of the cellar farthest away from the furnace. This room should contain a cellar window for ventilation which should be closed in severe cold weather.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE RED CROSS

The annual meeting of the Newton Branch of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, was held on Wednesday evening, October 1st, at 8 P. M. at the Hunnewell Club.

The report of the Workroom Committee, read by Miss Rose Loring, showed that 989 garments have been made in the workroom between Jan. 10, when the Branch was formed and June 18 when the workroom was closed for the summer.

The Home-work Committee report from its chairman, Mrs. E. P. Brown, gave 803 garments and 48 layettes as the work done through this Committee since its organization in March. The village has been divided into districts with captains and assistants, and the work is systematically given out and called for. By means of this committee the sewing has gone forward energetically through the summer.

Mrs. Robert G. Howard reported 596 knitted articles turned in since March first. These articles have been chiefly stockings and sweaters for refugee children, with some shawls for women and mufflers.

The Sewing and Knitting for Refugees will be carried on until January 1, 1920, and it is the hope of the Newton Branch that large numbers of garments may be made in this village in the coming three months. This can be done only by the hearty cooperation of all those interested in Red Cross work.

The Treasurer, Mr. F. E. Jewell, presented his annual report, and explained the present method of financing the work of the Branches by the Chapter.

The contribution of Wards 1 and 7, which comprise the Newton Branch, to the March drive for clothing for refugees was eight large truckloads of substantial garments. The success of this drive was due to Mrs. Edmund I. Leeds, chairman and the Captains who worked with her.

Following the reports the Directors elected for the ensuing year were: Mrs. Samuel Braman, Mrs. S. W. Bridges, Mrs. E. P. Brown, Miss Helen Cobb, Miss Sally A. Old-Time Drinking Vessels. Wine was first drunk out of the mazer bowl, made of light maplewood, highly polished, and afterward out of a bugle horn. Silver bowls were next introduced and about the time when Queen Elizabeth's sun was setting vessels made of Venetian glass first made their appearance at state banquets. Beer was usually carried from the cellar to the table in the eighteenth century in large leathern tankards, called "blackjacks," lined with silver or provided with a silver rim.

Rubber Preservative. A preparation that may be used for preserving rubber may be made by getting a saturated solution of turpentine in denatured alcohol. The point of saturation is known by a drop of undissolved turpentine remaining in the alcohol. A little more alcohol is added to dissolve this drop and the solution is saturated. Rubber articles should be occasionally painted or swabbed with this solution.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

Once again the Club Editor extends greetings to the clubs and to the club women of Newton. The year just opening presents new problems requiring the earnest thought and serious study of both men and women—problems more grave than any the world has yet faced. The outcome cannot be foretold, but one thing is certain, there can be no peace until all the people bend their efforts towards building up rather than tearing down civilization. The clubs can do their mite in this great work and they will not shirk their duty. The world has no room for the club which exists merely for itself. This does not mean that all clubs must do civic work and that the study club has no place; no, by no means, for only by a thorough knowledge of all the factors entering into any problem can it be properly solved—knowledge of History, of literature, of art, of music, which can be applied toward working out solutions. As with the scholar who acquires information for the mere pleasure of acquiring, so with the study club which studies merely to pass the time—such are not contributing their full share towards the world's work.
The plea this year should be for thoroughness rather than superficiality, for simplicity rather than elaborate undertakings and above all for sincerity, and for the good cheer which begets courage.

Contributions for this column are earnestly sought. It is not easy to keep the run of all the organizations, so will club correspondents be prompt in sending in their notices that no one be disappointed in their not appearing at the proper time. They should be mailed not later than Wednesday afternoon, except by special arrangement, and should be addressed to Miss Grace M. Burt, 94 Charles-bank road, Newton, and not to the Graphic office. The Club Editor will be glad to confer with any of the correspondents at any time either by mail or over the telephone, Newton North 923-M.

Local Announcements
The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. opened its season with a meeting at the home of the president, Miss Josephine Ayers, on Monday of this week. Mrs. E. G. Swift was in charge of concert even covering the period which has elapsed since the close of last year.

Next Monday Mrs. H. B. Rogers, 112
Charlesbank road, Newton, will be the hostess and Miss Mary E. Hyde will begin the study of Bohemia.

October 6, the Monday Club of Newton Highlands will hold the first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs.
O'Connor of Erie avenue.

The Christian Era Study Club meets for the first time this season on Monday afternoon, October 6, at the home of Mrs. J. F. Dunton, 39 Williston road, Auburndale. Italian literature of the 16th century will be considered.

Mrs. Horatio Dresser will speak on "The Purpose of the Food Economy Kitchen and what it has Accomplished" and Dr. William R. P. Emerson on "The Under-Nourished Child," before the Brightelmstone Club at its meeting next Monday afternoon.

Tuesday morning, October 7, the Auburndale Review Club holds the first meeting with Mrs. W. H. Blood of Woodbine street. The study of Poland will be begun.

The Newton Community Club will hold its first meeting of the season at the Hunnewell Club House Thursday afternoon at 2.30. Member's tickets signed by the treasurer must be shown for admission. In addition each member is requested to have her calling card conspicuously pinned to her person.

After a short business meeting, when the chairmen of the various departments will present their plans for the year, there will be brief addresses by Mrs. George Minor Baker, president of the State Federation and Mrs. Arthur W. Lane, of the Newton Federation, the guests of honor. A reception and tea will follow.

The club has been very fortunate in securing Prof. George H. Blakeslee of Clark University to conduct a class in current events for six successive months beginning on the first Thursday of November. Dr. Blakeslee has conducted such a class for the Worcester Woman's Club for several years and those who have heard him are enthusiastic in their praise of his able presentation of current affairs.
There will be a slight fee for members of the club and a proportionately larger one for non-members, who will be most cordially welcomed. Details regarding arrangements and the securing of tickets will be announced in due season.

RELIEVED FROM ACTIVE DUTY

350 Officers and Men of the Newton Constabulary Return From Three Weeks Duty in Boston

The tour of duty of the Newton Constabulary unit of the Mass. State Guard came to an end Wednesday evening when the entire unit was relieved and ordered home. Notice of the coming event was given late Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning was spent in knocking down the cots and preparing to vacate the building. Both at the noon and evening mess there was great cheering and rivalry among the different companies in the way of songs and huzzas. After retreat that night which was held after mess, Col. White complimented the men for the work they had done and thanked them for the hearty support they had given him. Capt. Joseph A. Bryant of Company A then stepped forward and surprised the Colonel by presenting him, in a neat speech with a gold wrist watch from the officers of the unit. Col. White was very much affected and could hardly express his thanks for the gift. Company D showed its pleasure at the fine work done by Top Sergeant E. S. Drowne of Newton Highlands and gave him a Colt army revolver and holster.

In the afternoon, the unit was honored by a visit from Lieut. Governor Channing H. Cox and Adjutant General Stevens.

One of the buglers distinguished himself during the afternoon by taking in two men who were betting on the ball game just outside Mechanics Building. When one of them drew out a revolver and threatened the other, the Guardsman stepped in and took both men to the guard house holding off a group of men who attempted a rescue in the meantime.

Col. White has received a letter from the Trustees of the Mass. Charitable Mechanics Association to the effect that "this Association should give its expression of support and encouragement to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and its Chief Executive, to the city of Boston and its Mayor, in the present crisis," and for forwards a receipted bill for the use of the Exhibition hall and the incidental expenses necessitated by its occupancy by the Constabulary "no charge whatever being made for the services rendered." In his letter of acknowledgment,

Col. White says in part,—"I note that the actual cost of this concession amounts to $75 per day or a total of $1575 for the 21 days during which we have been on duty, and I wish to thank you in behalf of this Command for the generous and patriotic action of your Association, which was founded by Paul Revere and has shown in this instance, as in many others, its spirit of helpfulness and patriotism."

Sunday was quite a day on account of the presence in Boston of the King and Queen of Belgium and Cardinal Mercier. All passes were omitted so more than the usual number of men were in barracks. It was planned to have all the men lined up on the sidewalk to salute the King and Queen as they passed by on their way to the Cathedral, and at the appointed time the men were ready. After a wait of some time, it was reported that the royal pair would go another way on account of their late arrival in Boston. So the men filed back into quarters and were dismissed, most of them making their way to the recreation hall in the gallery. All at once the call to "Fall in" was heard and the response was so rapid that in an incredibly short space of time, these men had put on overcoats, cartridge belts, and full equipment and were lined up and presented arms as the procession of automobiles rolled by. It was a fine piece of work and illustrates the spirit and the manner in which the men are on the job.

In the afternoon the Newton Constabulary band gave an excellent band concert and a large number of visitors were also present. The retreat at 5.30 was also made most impressive, with the band playing the national anthem. Lieut. Child of the Commissary department also made a hit that day with his menus. For breakfast there was Escaba melon, mush and syrup, liver and bacon, potatoes and coffee. For dinner, roast lamb, dressing, sweet potatoes, squash, and ice cream. For supper, cold ham, potato salad, cocoa, and ice cream.

ROUTINE CITY BUSINESS

Few Matters of Public Interest at Meeting of Aldermen on Monday

There were twenty hearings assigned for the meeting of the aldermen last Monday evening, altho most of them were mere routine.

President Harriman was in the chair and the only members absent were Aldermen McAuslan, Allen, Holt and Clement.

The following hearings attracted no attention, Purity Ice Co. for private 7 truck garage off Beacon street (subsequently granted) Edison Co. for pole on Seminary avenue, laying out and for building line on Windermere road, Ardmore road, Ardmore terrace, Adams street north, Chandler street, for sewers in Bridges avenue and Roslyn road, and for curbing on Middle, Green and Chapel streets. Messrs. Garcelon, Burnham, Nelson and Wright spoke in favor of the laying out and establishing a building line on Algonquin road, with some modifications of the proposed plan. Mr. Richard Ashenden spoke in favor of a sewer in Fair Oaks avenue and it was strongly opposed by ex-alderman Charles F. Avery.

Mayor Childs withdrew his request for $300 for guarding the city magazine as the Fire Prevention Commission no longer required this action. The Mayor also sent in the request of the Charity Dept. for two small additional appropriations.

The board of health recommended sewers in Commonwealth avenue, Auburndale and in Playstead road, Newton. Petitions of Orazio Senaggio for pool tables at 200 Adams street, W. A. Sweatt for auctioneer license, Harry A. Johnson, Orient avenue, and John T. Burns, Jr., Pulsifer street, for private garages and of Wm. E. Meehan, Newton Garage and Automobile Co., Henry O. Turner, Nonantum Garage, J. D. McMullin, Elite Garage and Newton T. Turner for automobile dealers' licenses were granted. Other petitions were received for sewer in Commonwealth avenue, for laying out of Eden avenue, for widening of Walnut street, north of Washington street to 70 feet, for drainage of Cold Spring Brook near Beethoven avenue, John Dolan Co. for private garage, off Concord street, M. L. Flaherty for 4 bowling alleys, 357 Watertown street, Gian-

NEWTON GIRL SCOUTS

Looking Forward To An Enthusiastic and Prosperous Season

The Girl Scouts of Newton are looking forward to a most interesting and successful year and all the troops in the city are starting their meetings with great enthusiasm and a large enrolment of Scouts. Many new girls are entering the troops and the Leaders feel confident that much Scout work will be accomplished and many good times held during the coming season. October is an ideal month for out-door work and the leaders are making the most of the beautiful Autumn days by having outdoor meetings for the girls, or, when that is not possible, by having the games which form a part of every Scout meeting, out of doors.

Hikes are, as usual, very popular and every week a troop of Scouts may be seen in Cabot woods, on the Quinobquin road by Charles river, or somewhere on Oak Hill, this latter through the courtesy of the Boy Scouts.

Troop 1 had its first meeting on Tuesday afternoon, October 7th, under the leadership of Miss Beatrice Eddy. It was an outdoor meeting, a treasure hunt and supper hike in Cabot woods. The Scouts met at 4 o'clock and at the entrance to the woods on Cabot street divided into two groups and the hunt began. It was a good hard hunt, laid by Captain Eddy and Miss Caroline Freeman, Local Director for the Newton Girl Scouts, but at last the treasure was found. A pocket compass hidden in the hollow stump of a dead tree. Supper came next. Three fires were built and in the approved Scout fashion, without paper, in spite of the fact that the wood was rather wet on account of the recent rains. Each girl took her own supper and quite a varied menu was cooked over the fires while Miss Freeman made cocoa and flap jacks for all. The good time ended just as the sun was going down and all said that it was a first-class meeting and a first-rate way to start the year. The Newtonville Troop is indeed fortunate in having Miss Eddy for its captain. She joined the troop last March as a lieutenant and this Autumn she accepted the commission of captain. The former captains of the Troop have been: Miss Elizabeth Westgate, who organized the troop at

BIBLE PLATTSBURG

National Speakers to be at Central Church, Newtonville next Week

The possibility of condensing into a short period a great amount of valuable training was demonstrated in the training camps for officers at Plattsburg. This idea of intensive study by big men under expert instruction for leadership appealed to a group of men and women in this district as being applicable to meet the needs of training of leaders in religious work. Accordingly, they proceeded to make plans to bring into the District an intensive period of instruction and conference similar to that which has characterized the best of the summer school conferences, and yet possessing the very great advantage of being conducted in the evening in such a way that no one needed to leave their home or neglect their business.

The great difficulty last year lay in bringing this new idea of an institute at home, and in convincing people that it is possible to attend such a series of meetings on five consecutive evenings. The result last year was most gratifying, for it was found that if people appreciated the value of the opportunity offered, and planned a little in advance, they could attend, and they did. Many who did not understand last year what the idea was, and the worth of the meetings, did not start until late in the week, or were prevented from getting full benefit by previous engagements.

The program presented for the local institute, or "Plattsburg," this year is of such strength and such a

CO. A, 11th REGIMENT

A Brief Chronicle of the Splendid Work Done by the Newton Company of the State Guards

A hurry call! A quick trip to the South Armory, Boston! Rapid transit thence to Dudley Street, Roxbury! A crowd of howling men, women and children! Such was the introduction to duty which A Company, Newton, experienced the very day after the policemen of Boston stepped down and out.

It was a thrilling moment and one for which the men had long held themselves in readiness. For Company A of Newton was the first company of the entire State Guard to muster in when it became clear two years and more ago that a State Guard for Massachusetts would be needed. Composed of substantial business and professional men, the Company has drilled faithfully week after week, and each year it has put in its prescribed tour of camp duty. The call September 10th found the men fit and ready for service.

And those days in Roxbury! The Company was put on the streets without delay, the men working twelve, fifteen, eighteen hours a day without let up and often without food except for "handouts" by generous citizens, a condition of affairs inevitable at the beginning. Excitement was in the air and trouble was on the streets. But the Company's motto, "A smile and a nod before the butt and the prod," helped. Wise handling of each incident as it came up kept the streets orderly and fairly quiet.

There were, however, entertaining moments. One man on post at two A.M. heard a cry. He and his companion in arms rushed to the house opposite to find three brothers fighting, striped to the waist, cut and bleeding, two sisters in "nighties", and a distracted mother. As the patrol wagon pulled up, one of the belligerents escaped but was discovered in a barrel in the back yard. Seeing the bayonets, he shouted, "Don't shoot!" And out he came meek as anything. Again, a corporal of the Company saw a man running with an officer in pursuit. The corporal, an expert rifle-man, but wise in his generation, did not shoot. Instead he deftly tripped the fellow so that he fell and fell heavily. Friends of the fugitive were out after that "to get" the corporal. But there was nothing doing, for the corporal, loaded for bear, stood ready with bayonet fixed. Another incident—a guardsman, getting a tip that there was trouble, broke down the door of an apartment to find men and women carousing and a girl being dragged around by the hair. Some tragedy! But what impressed the guardsman most was the large roll of yellowbacks one of the party vainly offered for immunity from arrest. Ah—"they were the happy days!"

The Company remained in Roxbury only three days. Early on a Sunday morning, the entire outfit was transferred to Boston where it now has charge of the important section bounded by LaGrange, Tremont, Winter and Washington streets. During the first week in Boston men of the Company did notable work as traffic officers. All along the line, in fact, a high standard of efficiency is maintained. And this is proved by letters of appreciation received at headquarters sent by leading business houses in the district. This is gratifying to the men of A Company who realize that the issue at stake is vital and are out to give their best.

81st MEETING

The Suffolk West Association held its 81st meeting at the Eliot Church, Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The first speaker of the afternoon session was the Rev. Edward Payson Drew, who spoke on "What Shall We Do With Our Creeds?" in part as follows: "The emphasis today in our churches seems to be on the deed rather than on the creed. There is a decadence in religious conviction, and a demand for the church in action."

The creed is, however, genuinely important in religious life. It is a concise, accurate statement of religious conviction, and such convictions are essential.

But the creed should not be used as a test for church membership, since it is the result of mature thinking. The young Christian cannot yet know the creed fully.

The creed is progressive in nature, increasing with religious experience. The creed of the church, like that of the individual, should be progressive.

Following a brief discussion the second speaker of the afternoon, the Rev. Edgar Park of the Second Church spoke on "Are Owned or Rented Pews Christian?"

He said that the real question at issue was, "Are Free Pews Practicable in the Modern Church?" He then went on to show the good and bad points of each system concluding with a strong argument in favor of the free pew system.

Among his arguments were the following: "Under the free pew system it is absolutely necessary to be on time to obtain a favorite seat; this system is absolutely democratic; the minister is sure of having his congregation in front of him; this system necessitates the contribution on the part of every member of the church towards the expenses of the church."

He concluded with the statement that in his own church the free pew system had been tried with great success. A brief discussion followed Mr. Park's address. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer then spoke on "How Can We Democratize Socially. Our Democratic Churches?"

She said in part: "Our democracy can never be complete unless we have within our churches true friendliness. This spirit of friendliness must be shown not alone on Sunday, but whenever members meet. The church home presents the greatest opportunity for social democracy."

As practical means of tying up the church with every day life, she suggested that church buildings be open more often during the week, that more opportunities for recreation be given the young people of the church, and that the church make a greater use of community singing than has ordinarily been done.

A period of discussion, followed by a brief business meeting concluded the afternoon program.

Supper was served at 6 o'clock. The evening session was devoted to the topic, "Christianity in Action."

The speaker, Mr. Daniel A. Polling, LL.D., of the Society of Christian Endeavor, spoke of the need of a great Christian Crusade today. "Christianity," he said, "must go into action in industry. We must apply the principles of Christian Brotherhood to the nations. It is the Golden Rule or Anarchy today." He concluded with a prayer for consecration to this task.

Making it a Family Affair.

Junior was much interested in his mother's approaching marriage. A short time before the date set for the wedding his mother was ill with tonsillitis. Junior was in distress and going to his mother he said: "Mother, hurry up and get well, for it won't do for you to be sick when we marry Richard."

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Some Impressions and Experiences in a Summer Trip to the Pacific Northwest

We reached Medford in time for an early breakfast, which was served in several places on account of the numbers in our party, which now included many of the members of the Oregon Press Association. After breakfast there was some time spent in distributing us among the automobiles which had been generously furnished by the cities of Medford, Ashland and Grants Pass. We were fortunate enough to be assigned to the car of Mr. T. E. Daniels, one of the leading business men of Medford.

Our course took us through what is known as the Rogue River Valley, and the extensive orchards at once impressed us with the great possibilities of this section. A particularly fine sight was the immense pear and apple orchards owned by the late Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago.

For some few miles the road was very good but later we struck the worst road I have ever seen. It looked exactly like a plowed field and the dust was so thick that it was hard to see a car a short distance ahead.

We stopped at Prospect for a box lunch and later at a gorge where I received a small surprise. I saw someone pick up a rock as large as a man's head and throw it into the water. I could scarcely believe my eyes when I saw it float away—it was pumice of which there seemed to be a great quantity lying about.

The next ten miles was through a beautiful forest, the road winding in and out among splendid trees. One, a Dinner over and darkness beginning to settle back of the Lodge an immense bonfire was made around which we all gathered for a talkfest.

I do not recall all that was said, but the remarks of Prof. Vining, one of the noted orators of the Northwest made a deep impression on everyone. The words coming out of the semi-darkness surrounding the camp fire were as clear cut as if each sentence had been first edited and carefully revised, and his voice was a delight to hear. It was most impressive and notwithstanding our fatigue there were a straggling away while he was speaking. He told the Indian legend of Crater Lake and applied its lessons to the problems of the present day in a most impressive manner.

Briefly told the story is this: The home of the great god Liao was in the blue waters of the lake. One day a young Indian climbed the mountain and looked out upon the lake. There he saw Liao and his spirit fairies. The brave descended to the water's edge where Liao bestowed upon him great powers to conquer his people.

Venturing forth he succeeded in defeating all his people and soon he became Chief.

He then turned to the god of the Lake and while on his way was seized by the thought that he might become god of the water too. So he killed one of the spirit fairies. Immediately he was seized, his throat cut, and his body thrown into the lake. For years no Indian would look into sugar pine and king of the forest, measured about nine feet in diameter. Through this forest the National government is cutting a highway, and along the sides we saw huge piles of burning wood. The good wood is supposed to be taken away and the poor wood burned, but it looked to us as if it was easier to call it poor and burn it than to take it away. It was quite a pity to see it burning in this fashion when there are so many people in the world suffering for fuel.

All the time we were climbing higher and higher until we reached seven thousand feet elevation. Then with a mighty heave the car pulled up the last grade and came to a sudden stop. Behold, we were on the rim of the crater and at our feet, one thousand feet below, lay cradled the deepest, the bluest lake in the world, the "Lake of Mystery," the "Sea of Silence," as it has been called.

Obtain a sapphire of vivid blue, look long and intently into its very heart, let your imagination magnify it until it is five miles in diameter. Then put this wondrous gem, two thousand feet in depth, into its setting—cliffs of pearly gray dotted here and there with the green of the pines and the white of the snow—and you have a mental picture of Crater Lake.

Many years ago there stood a mountain, a mighty mountain, a volcanic mountain—Mount Mazama. One day, as the story goes, the earth opened and the mountain fell within, but as though the aperture were not sufficiently large to retain the whole, part of it surged back forming three small volcanoes within the cavity.

In the course of time this yawning hole was filled up with the water from springs and the two smaller volcanoes eventually became covered leaving the third, known today as Wizard Island, a lone survivor.

In the exact spot where once stood the proud and haughty Mazama today lies Crater Lake whose silent lips tell no tale as to what lies beneath it. It is for the spectator to gaze, to muse, to wonder, to unfold, if he can, the mystery which is its shroud.

Everywhere around the lake are numerous trails. Some lead up, some lead down. Those of the party who ascended the trail looked out upon the lake from greater heights, saw its waters change to a deeper or a lighter hue with the shifting of wind and clouds. They saw too the boats floating on its surface—boats which from the heights seemed but toys, mere specks.

Those who trod the descending trail looked out across the level of the lake and saw the Phantom Ship, a rock formation, in contour closely resembling a ship under full sail. In certain lights the ship entirely disappears—it is gone, a veritable phantom.

It was at the water's edge that an amusing little incident occurred.

A young girl who had been in wading was just out of reach of her shoes and, seeing two gentlemen in the vicinity, called to one of them "Hey, kid, will you pass me my shoes?" She did not know that she was then speaking to the Mayor of Portland.

But the Mayor was equal to the occasion and turning to his companion said, "Here, boy, pass the young lady her shoes."

The "boy" did so and the girl later learned that he was the Governor of Oregon.

But up or down, in whichever direction inclination led, at six o'clock sheep brought all the sheep back to the fold and a wild scramble ensued for first place at dinner which was served at Crater Lake Lodge located on the edge of the lake's rim.

the lake and even today only the educated Indian will override his superstition and gaze into its depths.

As the mythical words fell into the night the stars one by one studded the heavens and then the full moon in unclouded grandeur rose over the hills and laid her crown of glory upon the scene. A soft, seemingly she breathed an "all is well" and a soft "good night," and reluctantly we turned our steps toward the hotel.

An announcement that all who were not in bed within fifteen minutes would be minus a bed sent everyone hurrying and scurrying to find a sleeping place.

Unfortunately there were too many heads and not enough beds on which to put them, so at the end of the stated time a door to door canvass was made and anyone not at home was "out of luck," as he found "standing room only" when he finally turned in.

Those who could not find even a third, a quarter, or a fifth of a bed were relegated to tents or drove some five miles down the road to another camp or sat by the fire all night.

One man who spent the night in a tent was asked in the morning if he found it cold out there, to which he replied, "I didn't take off anything but my hat, and I'm sorry I took that off."

At daybreak most of the party were up and out to see the sunrise on the lake. Weird was the light which the newborn day cast upon the water, but soon a faint tint appeared in the east heralding the approach of the monarch of the skies. Each varying shift of color was reflected in the waters of the lake and it was disappointing to have a bank of clouds hide the sun until it was high in the heavens.

After breakfast came the return trip. This time we traveled by way of Klamath over what is known as the Dead Indian Trail—small wonder that they died. We stopped for lunch at Lake of the Woods, a beautiful little lake in a beautiful little spot.

Where the road going up was rough, this road was rougher, where the other was full of potholes, this road was full of rocks and to make a long story short, where the other road was bad this road was rotten.

The road for many miles was nothing but a cart path and wound in and out thru a forest of splendid trees, among which we had to creep at a snail's pace in order to save our tires. But all things must end, even bad roads and so late in the afternoon we arrived in Ashland.

Here Mr. Daniels left us. He left us, but he little realized what else he left. With us remained a sincere delight that it had been our privilege to meet him, a hearty commendation for his expert driving and gratitude for all that he did to make our short visit one of extreme pleasure.

Most of the party went immediately to the Sulphur Baths at the Natatorium and came out refreshed and vigorous—the Dead Indian Trail was now a thing of the past.

A delicious supper was served in Lithia Park, all the eatables being home grown, home cooked, and without exception the best we ever tasted.

After supper we visited the beautiful Chataqua Building. It cost $21,000 to build, has a seating capacity of 4200, and has marvelous acoustical powers, a pin dropped on a table at the front being plainly heard in the rear of the building. Bee hive in shape, 80 feet high, 180 feet across it stands on concrete walls, 10 feet in height and 10 inches thick at the base. The roof which has no pillar or girder for support is made of strips one and one-eighth inches wide and a half inch thick. The strips are nailed every six inches and go round and round between the rafters which extend in a curve from the concrete base to the top of the building.

Ashland was the farthest point of our journey. It was only a few miles distant from the California line and several mountains in that state can be plainly seen from the city. Ashland will in time undoubtedly become one of the noted resorts of the Northwest. It has sulphur and lithia springs in abundance, a most delightful climate and its fame is spreading rapidly. The members of our party thoroughly enjoyed the brief visit we were able to make and carried away pleasant memories of the city and its people.

At 8.15 we renewed acquaintances with the train and went back to Medford where we waited an hour for several unfortunates who were still bumping over "Dead Indian."

We cannot leave Medford without saying a few appreciative words for what these friendly people have done for us. It was no small matter for them to give us two days of their time and drive their cars over such abominable roads. To each one of them we wish to express our profound appreciation of their great kindness.

elli and Puccinelli for transfer of pool room to 74 Elmwood street, A. J. Jones for private garage, 79 Central avenue, for widening of Walnut street south of Washington street, and for sewer in Beaumont avenue.

On recommendation of committees T. E. Ackroyd, was granted permit to sell gasoline on Oak street, W. H. Purdy, Beach street, and M. J. Donohue, 721 Walnut street were granted permits for private garages, C. & D. Hagopian, victualer license, 1007 Chestnut street, automobile dealers' licenses to A. S. Kligman, Newton Highlands Garage, Frederic A. Cahill and Sam Bram. The Edison Co. was granted a relocation of poles on Watertown street and Highland avenue, a pole location on Holly road, the Telephone Co., attachments on Cypress and Beacon streets and permit to remove poles on Walnut street and Centre street. The Gas Co. was also granted permit to open certain streets for gas mains. Leave to withdraw was granted the Edison and Telephone companies for a joint pole on Winthrop street and on a petition for sewer in Lothrop street.

A public hearing was ordered for the next meeting on petition for permit for a jitney service from the Watertown line to Upper Falls, after Aldermen Blake and Whidden had made brief remarks.

Hearings were assigned on sewers in Bailey place and Mayflower road and on the widening of Walnut street south of Washington street.

Permits to enter the sewer at a 1 per cent grade was granted F. B. Hopewell, Watertown avenue and Mrs. Annie B. Fahey, Adams avenue.

The report of inexperience by the Finance committee on 4 additional police officers was accepted without debate.

While the License committee had recommended fixing the automobile dealer's licenses at $5 for an agent, $25 for a used car dealer and $50 for a motor vehicle junk dealer, Alderman Hollis presented an amendment to reduce the fee to $2, $8 and $15 respectively on the ground that as they expire January 1st, it was not fair to make the present applicants pay the full yearly fee. Alderman Whidden opposed the amendment as he believed it to be the better policy to discourage this class of business as much as possible and the city he argued was no loser if it was done. The amendment was adopted however, by a vote of 12 to 3.

The order for $920 for two months' contribution to the M. & B. St. Rwy. Co. for the Newton Centre service was passed after Alderman Cole had stated that the figures showed that the company was only receiving about half its expenses on that particular line.

Orders authorizing the Mayor to come to an agreement with Wellesley for a new bridge at Wales street on a fifty-fifty basis, for sewers in Chandler place, Elliott terrace, Bridges avenue, Roslyn road, Prentice road and for curbing on Middle, Green and Chapel streets were referred to the Finance committee.

Alderman Blake caused quite a debate and then withdrew his order that the Rules committee should prepare an ordinance regulating the use and speed of motor vehicles on Walnut street. Alderman Heathcote opposed the order saying there was altogether too much automobile law now and local governments ought not to impose too many special requirements.

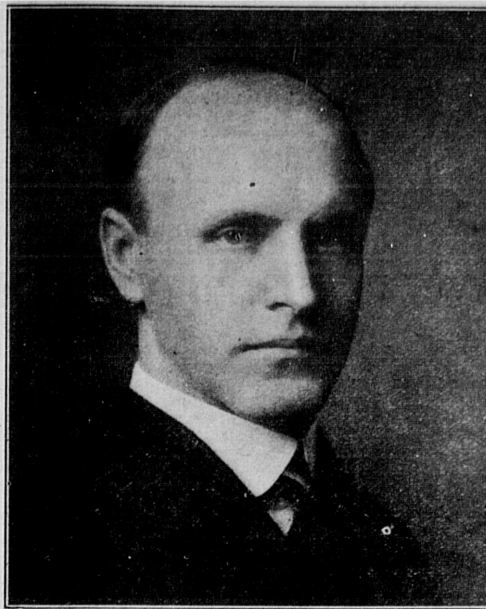

Alderman Cole introduced an order for the committee on Schools of the board to investigate the school administration with a view of making recommendations for the school budget of 1920. Mr. Cole said he cast no reflection on the school committee but it was impossible for the Finance committee in the short time usually allowed for the budget to grasp the mass of statistics and he thought it would be a great aid to the next board of aldermen to have this information and recommendations of a committee of the board. The order was adopted.

Rolling places for the state election were also ordered by the board.

Alderman Nichols presented a draft of an ordinance allowing the payment of wages and salary to city employees who were on duty with the state guard. The ordinance was adopted. The board adjourned at 9.35.

education and the problems of the day which depend upon this type of education for their solution, and those who are actively engaged in church and Sunday School work.

Miss Margaret Slattery is an outstanding national figure in this field. She has spent most of the present year abroad, studying conditions there. For any community to have her for a series of meetings such as this is very unusual, and her addresses alone constitutes an unusual privilege.

Rev. Frank M. Sheldon, as General Secretary of the Congregational Educational Board, has a strategic position in directing the important work of that board in its nation wide activities. Prof. H. Augustine Smith, since he came to Boston about three years ago, has proved time and again his ability to make other people see something of the vital interest which lies in Music.

Rev. Raymond G. Clapp adds this year the benefit of his six months' experience as director of the entire Bible Study work in the A. E. F. in France, while the other Conference leaders in department work are all well qualified for leadership in their special fields.

Last year demonstrated the fact that such a series of meetings is of very great value. This year with such a program as this, the church should be filled every night, appealing not only to those directly interested in Sunday Schools methods but also to all concerned with the big problems of the day.

EDITORIAL

With registration for the State election closing next Wednesday evening, everybody who intends to support Gov. Coolidge should see to it that all the names possible are registered in time. Gov. Coolidge should receive the vote of every real American for his courageous stand on the desertion of the Boston police force.

The appeal of the West Newton Music School for funds will undoubtedly meet with hearty response from our people. The School is doing excellent work in a rather unusual field and should be encouraged in every way possible.

The proposed investigation of the school department by the aldermen is merely to obtain information in regard to the financial needs in a more leisurely manner than has been possible in the past in the consideration of the annual budget.

The relief of the Newton Constabulary from its duty of protecting the city of Boston is most welcome to over 300 business men of this city who have made great sacrifices during the past three weeks.

A new combination fishing and hunting license law goes into effect today. All interested should apply to the Commissioners on Fisheries and Game at the State House for further information.

The trustees of the Mass. Charitable Association show that they are good sports in giving the free use of their hall to the Constabulary.

The visit of Sir Alfred Davies, to the schools of this city shows that Newton schools have more than a local interest.

Does any one in Newton favor the proposed increase in railroad fares?

GROWING RAPIDLY

At a largely attended meeting of Newton Post American Legion, held at the State Armory in West Newton, Monday night, it was announced that 850 paid memberships had been obtained, and indications are that 1000 members will be on the rolls before the close of the present campaign next week, according to a statement by Capt. J. A. Waters of the executive committee.

Nine delegates and nine alternates were elected to the State Convention to be held at Worcester, October 13, 14 and 15. Those elected as delegates were: Edward Edmunds, Jr., Henry D. Comerai, Rev. William J. Farrell, James A. Waters, C. Sinclair Weeks, Henry J. Ryan (Sailor Ryan), Oswald J. McCourt, Joseph Boughan and William Noone. Those elected as alternates were: E. R. Woodfin, Levett Saltonstall, Henry C. Allen, Aldrich Taylor, Robert J. Holmes, Howard F. Fanning, M. J. Murray, Heywood S. French, and Charles Nicholson.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by John E. Barwise, who sang several original selections, composed while in the trenches in France; he was assisted by Edward Sikes, pianist, and by an exhibition of fancy dancing, and a farcical monologue.

Following the regular meeting and entertainment an impromptu smoke talk took place in an adjoining room of the Armory, at which the boys declared that plans must be made for an appropriate celebration of November 11th, Armistice Day.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

A large and enthusiastic gathering of members and guests gathered in the first session of the Newton Community Club at the Hunnewell Club yesterday afternoon. Brief reports of work planned were announced by the chairmen of the various committees. Mrs. John T. Alden, chairman of the Music Committee, urged members to join the chorus. Mrs. Ralph C. Henry, speaking for the Committee on the Conservation of National Resources, emphasized the latter part of the title of her committee, saying that in the minds of most people today the word "conservation" means merely food, while the work which is proposed is of a much broader scope. Classes to study these problems are being planned. There will be a class to study birds in the spring under the leadership of Miss Margaret Tucker and if enough desire to study their winter habits and to learn some of their characteristics preparatory to the outdoor work in the spring, such a class will be formed.

The Current Events class was announced and tickets offered for sale. These may be obtained from Mrs. F. E. Stanley. If the seating capacity of the hall permits the class will be open to non-members as well.

Among the subjects to be considered by the Home Economics Department will be child welfare, the home and clothing. Mrs. Sidney Peterson is in charge of this work.

Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Jr., told of the work of the West Newton Music School and of the Drive for funds which is coming off next week.

Mrs. Arthur W. Lane, president of the Newton Federation, brought greetings and told something of what is being planned for the year, including the Philanthropic Fund which is being raised.

After a selection by the chorus Mrs. George Minot Baker, the new president of the State Federation in a graceful speech told of the plans of her organization, particularly along the lines of Industrial and Social Conditions, the Thrift and Americanization work.

A social hour followed the meeting. In the receiving line in the parlor were the president, Mrs. Franklin E. Smith, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Lane, Miss Helen F. Hull, the corresponding secretary, Miss Edith R. Fisher, the recording secretary, and Miss Emma F. Walker, the treasurer of the club. Miss Jessie M. Fisher, Miss Edith Jamieson and Mrs. Sterling Elliott, vice-presidents, and Mrs. Francis E. Stanley, chairman of the Program Committee, presided over the tea table, while a large group of the younger members assisted in the serving.

BAD FIRE

Two boys, one so small that he has not yet discarded dresses, turned firebugs in Newton Wednesday evening and set a blaze that caused damage estimated at $10,000. Much of this represented the value of textile machinery which was stored in the building, a wooden structure 100 by 60 feet, in the rear of 201 California street, Nonantum. The building was three stories in height and was occupied by John J. Healy of Newtonville, who deals in second-hand machinery and also maintained a shop there for repairing and rebuilding textile machines, particularly those used in the manufacture of woolen cloth.

Healy recently built a new storehouse and much of his stock had been moved there prior to Wednesday. He had no insurance on what was lost. The fire spread so quickly that one side of the building and the entire roof were ablaze within fifteen minutes.

Two alarms were rung from box 245.

DEATH OF MR. WALKER

On Saturday Mr. Oscar William Walker died at his home, 2 Albion street, Newton Centre. He was born in Springfield, Mass., 64 years ago, but had lived in Newton 18 years. He was for years a member of the Boston City Club, of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, of the Newtonville Club, and of the Dalhousie Lodge of Masons, Newtonville. As an active business man he was connected with the Lithographic Publishing Co. of Boston.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Edward M. Noyes Tuesday afternoon, after which the body was taken to Charlestown, N. H., for burial.

Mr. Walker leaves a widow, a son, Mr. Harold Walker of Dover, Mass., and a daughter, Mrs. Helen B. Hall, of Newton Centre.

LED TO RESCUE BY DREAM

Tug Captain's Confidence in Vision He Had Proved Fortunate for Two Fishermen.

Guided by a dream, Capt. Adam Paczocha of a Lake Michigan tug found two men who had been drifting about helpless in a broken motor-launch for four days. The rescue was just in time to save the men's lives, for the feet of one were frozen and the other's hands were frostbitten and they were exhausted from cold and hunger.

Captain Paczocha had his dream while taking a nap at his home in Milwaukee one afternoon. When he awoke he described to his family how he had seen a launch drifting about helpless in the storm-swept lake and how he had swung his boat alongside and saved two men.

"I'm going to find them," said the captain after telling of the dream vision.

He set out the next morning and by mid-afternoon he had located the launch. The two men in the launch were George Costigan and Joseph Budzicz, Jones Island fishermen who had met with misfortune while out hauling their nets. Driven about by a sudden storm that arose on the lake they sought to make shore until the gasoline engine in the launch gave out. Then they drifted about helpless.

The rescued men's first request was for cigarettes. They had been unable to smoke for four days because their matches had become wet.

IMPORTANT DATE IN HAWAII

Modern History of Islands May Be Said to Have Begun on October 23, 1819.

The one hundredth anniversary of the departure of the first missionaries from the United States to the Sandwich Islands, as they were then known, will be celebrated at Honolulu, October 23. On that date in the year 1819, the brig Thaddeus, Captain Hunnewell, sailed from Boston for Hawaii. The vessel anchored at Kailua, Kona, Island of Hawaii, April 5, 1820, and the missionaries landed that day to begin their work of civilizing the natives and converting them to Christianity. Those who arrived in Hawaii on the Thaddeus were Asa Thurston and Hiram Bingham, ordained missionaries, with their wives; Daniel Chamberlain, Thomas Holmes, Samuel Whitney, Samuel Ruggles, Elisha Loomis and four Hawaiians—Honoli, Hopu and Kanui—who had received some education at Cornwall Institute, and George Humuhonu, son of Kaunualoa, the king of the Island of Kauai. The Hawaiians had been taken to the United States in trading vessels. Traders and whalers had been visiting Honolulu for some years before the arrival of the missionaries, but it is from the latter event that the modern history of Hawaii dates.

Wonderful Slot Machine.

Most people are familiar with the machines which sell chocolate and chewing gum. An interesting development in this field is a large apparatus that dispenses bottled beverages, sandwiches and chewing gum. Its cooling chamber has space for the accommodation of 96 bottles, while a precooling compartment, in which bottles are chilled by immersion in the water that drains from the ice, has an equal capacity. In order to encourage patrons to return empty bottles to the machine a stick of gum is discharged when a bottle is placed in the receiver provided for it. A counterfeiter detector rejects spurious coins. A complete record of all transactions is kept by a sales-registering mechanism. The only attention the machine requires is that involved in stocking and icing it.

Untasted Emergency Ration.

A correspondent, writing from the front before the fighting came to an end, said that the emergency ration supplied to our soldiers still remained a mystery to them. Few indeed have even tasted this scientific life-saver of which the army boards are so proud. It looks like ground oatmeal; but it is said to be the last word in concentrated calories and protein. It contains the juices and sustaining parts of all meats and vegetables known to man, with a little gluten thrown in. Most soldiers have not dared to taste it. A court martial threatens anyone who eats the emergency ration unnecessarily, and almost never, so they say, did any soldier find it necessary. Hot meals from rolling kitchens were virtually always to be had.—Youth's Companion.

Farm Products by Parcel Post.

Wilmington, Del., is to receive farm products by parcel post truck service. The service between that city and Salisbury, Md., began recently, two large army trucks bearing eggs, butter, fish, oysters, crabs, berries and such direct from land or sea to the consumer. Stops are made at every town along the route which can claim a post office. Provision has also been made for acceptance of parcel post material for New York, transfers to be made at Chester; and through truck service from Wilmington to Philadelphia will be established.

A Little Learning.

"Do you subscribe to the theory that a little learning is a dangerous thing?" "Yes," replied Gadspar. "I thought I knew enough about my automobile to take it apart and put it together again, but this bill of $154.17 from a repair shop proves that I didn't."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

ness and is not only enthusiastic himself over his work but he has the faculty of making the men interested as well. He has shown some marvellous work in handling the butt end of a gun, and a squad of men trained under him should have no trouble in handling a mob. It is interesting to note that all the movements he teaches are offensive only, as he naively says "The American army has no need for defensive work."

The ladies of the Newton Chapter of the Red Cross helped a great deal in the way of sewing for the men. They were given the use of rooms in the adjoining Y. W. C. A. and were kept quite busy in various ways. It is needless to say that the men appreciate their good work.

The roster of the unit as printed last week should have one or two corrections and several additions. The name of Sergt. Joseph B. Ross of West Newton was inadvertently omitted from the men in Company C and the name printed as H. Keith in Company A should have been Walter B. Keith.

The following recruits were added to the roll during the week.

COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL

Interest at the school this week has centered in an unusually close election of first and second class delegates on the Students' Council. Four ballots on successive days were necessary before majority votes were cast for three representatives from the first class, and two from the second class. Frank M. Seamans, Louis R. Nichols, Whitthorn S. Clapp, John E. Toulmin, and William S. Reid, 3rd, were finally elected, and with Harry N. Pratt and James J. Phelan, Jr., hold-over members from last year, will make up this year's Council.

Allen and Country Day meet this afternoon on Cabot Field to settle the private school football championship of the city. Allen will outweigh the Country Day players, but the latter are confident that their speed and aggressiveness will count more than the extra weight. Country Day last Saturday started its season well by defeating the Newton High second team, 16 to 6. The team showed its expected strength in the backfield and on the ends, but the line play was rather disappointing. Coach Bond has been working all week to remedy the defects and the team showed a great improvement in a practise game with the alumni Wednesday afternoon which was won, 20 to 10.

The first issue of "The Megaphone," the school paper, appeared Wednesday and was a distinct credit to the new board of editors headed by Frank M. Seamans. The short stories selected for publication this month were written by Winthrop S. Clapp and Lincoln F. Brigham. Announcement was made of a cash prize of $2 to be paid each month for the best short story submitted for publication.

Members of the Mandolin Club will begin their rehearsals next week under the leadership of Morgan M. Harris. Trials for new members will be held Tuesday afternoon.

N. H. S.

Newton High won its third straight football game of the season Tuesday, defeating Dean Academy second team, 25 to 7. Capt. Robert Garrity of Newton was out of the game, owing to injuries. His brother, Herbert Garrity, played finely, scoring three of the four touchdowns for the "Garden City" eleven.

Newton scored once in the second period, twice in the third and once in the fourth, while Dean's only touchdown was made in the third on straight football. John Seavey of Newton suffered an injury to his knee and was replaced by Smith. The playing of Gullian, Bjorkman and Coady for Newton was good, while McBey, Hedges and Trask excelled for Dean.

PHILLIPS-TRACEY

Monday evening Miss Anna Priscilla Tracey, daughter of Mrs. Albina Tracey of Chestnut St., West Newton, was married to Mr. Fred Gordon Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Phillips of Newark, N. J. The ceremony took place at the rectory of St. Bernard's Church, West Newton. The best man was Mr. Reginald Stuart Phillips, brother of the groom. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Burke of West Newton.

BRITISH EDUCATOR HERE

Sir Alfred Davies, permanent secretary of the British Board of Education, and head of the Welsh Educational system, was a guest of the School Department officials yesterday. He spent the forenoon looking over the Vocational and Technical High Schools, with Headmasters Murray and Palmer and was entertained at lunch by the Domestic Science Department, of which Miss Jeanne Kenrick is the head. The lunch was prepared and served by the girls attending the school, and was greatly enjoyed. Sir Alfred is making a study of American educational systems both in the United States and Canada and is in Boston and vicinity for a three days' visit. In addition to his other titles, Sir Alfred is chairman of the British Prisoners of War Book Scheme Education, knight commander of the British Empire, commander of the Bath and a Deputy Lieutenant and is representing the Minister of Education in this country.

Following the luncheon, he was the guest of Supt. G. Wheeler at a meeting of the upper grade teachers, held in the assembly hall of the Technical High School, where Dr. Thomas M. Balliet of New York University gave an address on Vocational Guidance.

ORGAN DEDICATED

Perhaps from an artistic point of view, the musical service given Wednesday evening at the Methodist church when the new organ was dedicated, surpassed anything ever given in this village. The organ is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Montgomery in memory of their daughter, Susan Alice. The following programme was rendered by well known musicians, Mr. John Hermann Loud, organist at Park St. Church, Boston, Miss Marion Harper, soprano soloist of the Methodist Church, Mr. M. Cella, harpist soloist of Boston Symphony, and Mr. Adolph Bak, violin soloist of Boston Symphony, the selections by the organ were, "Concert Overture in C Minor," "Carillons," "Will o' the Wisp," "Echo Bells," "Improvisation," "Toccata in G Minor," the harp selection was "Andante," the violin selection was "Andante Religioso," and the vocal selection was "Aria." Nearly 500 were present at the recital.

LUXURY IN EARLY TRAVEL

"Safety Barges" Instituted for Those Who Feared Hazard of Voyage on Hudson River.

The frequency with which boilers blew up on the early Hudson river boats led to the use of what were known as "safety barges," and these, in their day, were considered the utmost luxury in travel, comparable to the private cars of the magnates of today. The barges were boats with main and upper decks and were almost as large as the steamers which towed them. The rabble rode on the steamers, inhaled the smells of the barges and the freight holds, endured the noise of the engines, and took the chances of explosions, while on the barges behind the elite traveled in luxurious state. Food was brought from the boat kitchen to the barge saloon over a swaying bridge between the vessels and was served with great aplomb under the direction of the barge captain, who was a noble figure in the setting.

The upper decks of the barges were canopied and decked with flowers, with promenades and easy chairs from which to view the scenery. At night the interiors were transformed into sleeping accommodations much the same as a modern Pullman, except that they were more commodious. Not the least attractive feature of these barges, according to a chronicler of their excellence, was "an elegant bar, most sumptuously supplied with all that can be desired by the most fastidious and thirsty."

Recent news dispatches which tell of plans to establish floating cafes on the ocean just outside the three-mile territorial limit when the nation goes dry, indicate that luxurious floating establishments somewhat similar to these "safety barges" may again come into use.

SCIENTIST TELLS OF TRIUMPH

Professor Claims to Have Perfected System for Underground and Submarine Messages.

Speaking recently of his work for the navy, Prof. James R. Rogers, the inventor of a wireless system for underground and submarine transmission, stated: "Six or seven years ago, I began experiments with the transmission of electric impulses by the ground. They were renewed during the war with the aid of the navy, which renders the receiving apparatus more sensitive. I first established contact with nearby points and before long received with perfect distinctness impulses sent from Europe. I placed my antennae in trenches radiating from a center and pointing by the compass toward the distant station from which I wished to receive. I demonstrated to the navy department that eight operators may receive at once from eight separate wires. My system was installed at New Orleans, the Great Lakes station, and Belmar, N. Y., and is now used at the principal wireless stations in the United States. I have found the best results with my wires buried six feet below the surface in damp ground. Some of my experiments were conducted in water 25 to 50 feet deep."—Scientific American.

Monkey as Labor Possibility.

The pig-tailed macaque or brok of the Malays is a highly intelligent animal, and the Malays train them to pick coconuts. The modus operandi is described by R. W. C. Shelford in "A Naturalist in Borneo." A cord is fastened round the monkey's waist and it is led to the coconut palm, which it rapidly climbs. It then lays hold of a nut, and if the owner judges the fruit to be ripe for plucking he shouts to the monkey, which then twists the nut round and round till the stalk is broken and lets it fall to the ground. If the monkey catches hold of an unripe fruit the owner tugs the cord and the monkey tries another. I have seen a brok act as a very efficient fruitpicker, although the use of the cord was dispensed with altogether, the monkey being guided by the tones and inflections of his master's voice.

Burgundy at Its Best.

Burgundy wines of 1915 are reported by the most eminent connoisseurs of Paris to be the best since 1865. In fact their verdict is "perfect." The summer of 1915 was hot, so was the autumn, with light rains now and again at exactly the right intervals. M. Mathieu, celebrated savant on the subject of wines, writes: "Since 1865 there has been no Burgundy like that of 1915 in delicacy or strength. The 1915 vintage is a remarkable synthesis of bouquet, aroma, body and flavor." But of course all this is of merely academic interest to us.

Less Crime, Fewer Carpets.

There does not at first glance seem to be much connection between crime and carpets, says the London Daily Mail, but it is a fact that the decrease in crime brought about in India, as elsewhere, by the war has led to a decrease in the supply of Indian carpets. The reason is that most of these carpets, especially the finer and more expensive kinds, are made by convicts, notably in the great jail at Poona. They are made entirely by hand, so it is a case of few convicts few carpets.

Hard to Distinguish.

"In Shakespeare's day the liver was thought to be the seat of love." "Maybe the Elizabethans were not so far wrong, after all. The symptoms of love and an acute bilious attack are very similar."

Rainy Day and Business.

Someone figured that a rainy day cost New York an unconscionable amount of money. Women, he explained, disbursed 85 per cent of the money earned by men. On rainy or dark days they remain indoors mostly. Store sales were curtailed, traffic reduced and nearly every class and character of business was affected adversely. Theaters, movie shows, ball games and general amusements suffered seriously.

GIFT FOR MR. HARRIMAN

President Henry I. Harriman of the Newton board of aldermen, and who has just retired after two years' service as president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, was the guest of honor, Tuesday night at the Brae Burn Country Club at a banquet tendered to him by the directors of the Chamber with whom he has served. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful sundial, the presentation speech being made by Mr. John R. Macomber, president of the Chamber.

The sun dial rests on a limestone shaft weighing 500 pounds. It is three feet in diameter and rests on a limestone base. The shaft is fluted spirally. It was carved by an Italian sculptor from a design made by Arthur Shurtleff, a Boston landscape architect and designer.

The dial is of brass and is heavily and elaborately engraved. The upstanding piece is set for the latitude of Boston.

The following inscription appears on the dial:

"Presented to Henry I. Harriman by the directors of the Boston Chamber of Commerce in appreciation of his efficient leadership as president of the chamber in 1917-18 and in 1918-19."

The Latin phrase also appears: "Umbra illuminat horas."

—WILBUR THEATRE—One of the really delightful events of the theatrical season in any city, is the appearance of the droll comedian, William Hodge, especially in this case when he appears in a new play. One of these worth-while occasions will occur locally at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, next Monday, Columbus Day, Oct. 13, when Mr. Lee Shubert will present William Hodge in his brand new play "The Guest of Honor." It is a comedy romance of New York life, in three acts. So consistently successful have been the several plays in which Mr. Hodge has appeared in since his phenomenal success in "The Man From Home," that his legion of devoted admirers apparently never question in advance the success of a new play. In this instance, it is said, this faith and confidence will be more than justified, for Mr. Hodge believes that in "The Guest of Honor" he has the happiest vehicle of many seasons.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs is setting three new pieces of work before the clubs.—Thrift, Americanization and Community Service. The Thrift work is already pretty well laid out. It is an outgrowth of the War Savings Division of the Treasury Department of the Government. Mrs. Myra B. Lord of Newton is director of the bureau of Women's Organizations in New England, while Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, past president of the Massachusetts Federation, has been appointed to represent Massachusetts, holding a similar position to that of Mrs. Lord, only being responsible merely for this state.

Our own Massachusetts woman, Miss George A. Bacon, holds the chairmanship of this work in the General Federation, while Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, is chairman for the State Federation and under her have been appointed district chairmen, one for each of the eight districts into which the State has been divided by the Massachusetts Federation. Mrs. Nathan N. Denison has accepted the chairmanship for the Sixth district to which the Newton clubs belong.

This may seem wheels within wheels, but careful organization has been the secret of much of the efficiency of the war work and it is hoped it will prove to be equally so in this. The chief thing to bear in mind is that all questions and applications for literature coming from the clubs should go to the Federation representatives, Mrs. Palmer or Mrs. Denison.

This work presents "an opportunity not only to show the same patriotism in peace time which had been its pride in time of war, but also an opportunity for its two million members to make a systematic and concerted effort to apply in their homes the principles of good management in the business of living or thrift," says Mrs. Palmer in the current number of the Federation Bulletin.

"It has become generally recognized that conditions in home life, in industrial and social life have been changing so rapidly during the past years that women have been finding it hard to keep pace and to adjust themselves. They have been spending their time, their strength, their energy and their money without getting proper returns in comfort, satisfaction and enjoyment. This means that the American home life needs readjusting and simplifying. It needs thrift which is commonsense in every day action and which results in getting the most out of one's time, one's money and all of one's resources."

"The Thrift Campaign, then, in its broadest conceptions and greatest possibilities appeals to the women of America as deserving of their hearty support. The General Federation of Women's Clubs is one of ten National Organizations which have endorsed the Thrift work."

Newton Federation

The Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will meet in the New Church parlors, Highland Avenue, Newtonville, Monday morning, October 20, at 10:15 o'clock. There is much important business to be taken up, and the meeting promises to be of especial interest, since representatives of the Newton social agencies will give brief accounts of their various organizations. In view of the Massachusetts Conference of Social Work to be held in Boston, October 29-31, and of the unprecedented importance of social questions just now, these reports should be of great value. Will all members of the Board please make an effort to be present? All meetings of the Executive Board are also open to any member of any club belonging to the Federation. This meeting will not be announced by postal card, since a notice has been sent with a calendar to members of the Board and delegates.

SHUBERT THEATRE—Direct from nearly six months at the Shubert and Casino Theatres, New York, Lew Fields and "A Lonely Romeo" Company comes to the Shubert Theatre (Boston), opening with a special Columbus Day matinee next Monday, Oct. 13th. This rollicking musical comedy has enjoyed great prosperity during its New York engagement which opened early in June and has continued without interruption up to the present time. The musical comedy is in three acts and seven scenes with twenty musical numbers many of which have already gained much popularity. Mr. Fields, himself, is seen in the dual role of a staid business man who at night disguises himself as a young cabaret devotee in order that he may join the night life of New York. Owing to his disguises many amusing complications ensue which provide Mr. Fields with unusual opportunities for his broad field of comedy. He has been seen in this city in many different plays and characters but it is thought that the role which he portrays in "A Lonely Romeo" is best suited to him of any he has ever attempted.

TREMONT THEATRE—But little time remains in which to see Geo. M. Cohan's Great Character Comedy, "A Prince There Was" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, with Grant Mitchell (of "A Tailor-Made Man" fame) and his clever company of associate players. Notwithstanding the fact that capacity crowds have greeted every performance "A Prince There Was" must terminate the Boston engagement shortly, as the play is booked in Philadelphia for a long run that cannot be postponed. Therefore, "A Prince There Was" will positively enter upon the final week in Boston, Monday evening, October 19. Accordingly the management request out-of-town patrons to get their mail orders at the earliest possible moment in order to avoid disappointment as the advance demand for the few remaining performances is unprecedented.

COPILEY THEATRE—"The Irresistible Marmaduke," which is next week's play to be given by the Henry Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre, is a three-act comedy written by Ernest Denny, who gave to the stage "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy" and other successful comedies. This is a play quite new to American playgoers, and its production by these players is in line with Henry Jewett's established policy of giving his public pieces of high literary quality which have not been seen before in Boston. In fact, this play will be the tenth that has been given at this theatre for the first time here. On its production at the Haymarket, London, "The Irresistible Marmaduke" received unqualified approval from the critics of that city.

DELANO-HOLMES

The marriage of Miss Hazel Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Holmes of Waverley, and Mr. Merrill Potter Delano, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Delano of West Newton, was solemnized last week Thursday evening in the Waverley Unitarian Church by Rev. H. H. Sanderson of the Brighton Unitarian Church. The ceremony was attended by about 300 friends and relatives, who remained for the reception, which was held afterward in the parlor of the church, and the dancing that took place in the parish house.

The bride was added bit of sentiment was woven into the romance of the bride, for she was the first baby christened by Rev. Mr. Sanderson after his ordination to the ministry and while he was pastor of the Waverley Unitarian Church. The bride wore a gown of ivory white satin and a beautiful veil trimmed with pearls which was fastened by a pearl coronet. She carried a bridal bouquet of bride roses and white orchids. Another sister, Miss Doris Holmes, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Delano, a sister of the bridegroom; Miss Winifred Hall, Miss June Raymond and Mrs. William Woodbridge. They were all gowned alike in yellow taffeta with overdresses of blue silk net, the maid of honor carrying a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and blue larkspur, and the bridesmaids old-fashioned bouquets of sweetheart roses and baby's breath with centers of small blue flowers. Mr. Frederick Stephens of Brookline was best man. After their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Delano will reside in New York.

"Like a Humming Bird?"
"Yes, she does run pretty quietly."
"Why? Well you see I'm very particular about keeping her engine correctly oiled. That has a lot to do with keeping motors quiet, smooth-running and powerful."
"Sure. There's never been a drop of anything but Polarine in her oil reservoir since your father bought the car."
"Yes, Polarine keeps her timing system running right and her cylinders, shaft bearings and all the other parts from wearing loose and shaking her all out of whack. Just as good in winter as in summer."
Polarine retains its body and lubricating qualities at all cylinder heats. Suits all types of engines. Saves wear and tear and expense. Buy Polarine where you buy power-full SoCony Motor Gasoline—where you see the red, white and blue SoCony Sign.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL

Drive To be Made Next Week to Secure funds for Increased Activities

Throughout the Newtons, a Drive will be conducted during the week Oct. 13-18, under the management of Mrs. Arthur Howland, to raise funds for the greatly increased activities planned for the West Newton Music School. It is hoped that a very large number of new subscribers will be secured from all sections of the city. The committee asks for contributions from $1.00 up. It is desired not only to raise funds for the present year, but to interest everyone in the school as a permanent organization. An endowment fund is greatly needed, to ensure a permanent policy.

The School now has three centers, and is about to open a fourth at the Hyde School in Newton Highlands, to serve the towns on the south side of the city. The Peirce School in West Newton serves West Newton, Newtonville and Auburndale; that at the Stearns School, Nonantum, co-operates with the Stearns School Centre, and serves Newton, and the congested district of Nonantum, with a largely foreign population. Vocal work is carried on at the High Schools, Newtonville.

Community choruses will be opened at the Stearns School and the Peirce School, and elsewhere, as funds permit. Several new orchestra ensembles will be opened in grammar schools, during regular school hours.

Owing to war conditions the school has refrained during the past three seasons from all appeals except to its established subscribers. With the constant, though limited, support of those whose confidence it had already gained, and with the self-sacrificing loyalty of its workers, it has held its organization together and now stands ready to take up its part in solving the problems that confront us, of reconstruction and readjustment. It is confidently believed that the people of Newton, if they realize how valuable a part this may be, will stand behind the school and will place it on a broader, assured, financial basis; one that will enable it to do full justice to its great opportunities for service to the community.

It was natural that in its early, experimental years the Music School should have drawn its support chiefly from the limited number primarily interested in music. But the last few years have brought about a general understanding of the real value of music as a vital factor in the national well-being. In the 18 months of our participation in the Great War we were, as a people, fully awakened to the absolute need for measures to democratize this great agency for good in our communities. In the West Newton Music School, the City of Newton has an established organization that has been developed in obedience to local conditions and on the highest standards. It has gained, on the one hand, the confidence of the people to be served, and on the other, that of every one of the many activities for social betterment throughout the city. The close and valuable co-operation of the Newton Public Schools enables it to operate so that contributed funds are most effectively employed; to reach the localities, and individuals

POLICE NOTES

The new uniform for Newton's police will be of interest chiefly because of the elimination of the helmet. Chief Mitchell intends to inaugurate the use of the police cap, as worn by the guardians of the peace in New York city. Another change, which will be a boon to the police, will be the elimination of the expensive and practically useless "dress coat." The garment, which the patrolmen seldom have a chance to get any real benefit from, will be entirely done away with and the regulation blouse will be worn at all times. There will be no change in the overcoats this winter.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Mothers' Rest Association of Newton Centre will be held in Trinity Parish House, Homer street, Newton Centre, on Thursday afternoon, October 16, 1919, at three o'clock.

Reports of the year's work will be given by the officers, chairman of committees and the matron and nurse of the Rest. Election of officers and members of the Board of Managers. All members of the Association and the public are cordially invited to be present.

that most need its work; and to carry on the valuable group-work in a most practical way.

Many letters of endorsement and appreciation have come to the school from educators and social workers who are in sympathy with its work and aims. One authority on social work with reference to Americanization writes "As I see these children develop under this magic influence, American and foreign born alike, I wonder if the public realizes that this is one of the antidotes for the poison that exists in the present condition of unrest."

The Music School is on the threshold of opportunities for timely service—service that stresses the social spirit and develops capacity for team-work, and that exerts a forceful influence in strengthening the qualities and ideals that are of supreme importance in American life. Surely the many large-hearted and broad-visioned citizens who have the welfare of the City at heart, will feel it a duty and a privilege to come to the support of a work that promises real results in lifting the general plane of citizenship; that makes a real contribution to the cause of Americanization and that by providing healthy and uplifting resources for pleasure, combats the flood of evil ideas that assail the idle or discontented girl or boy.

The committee in charge of the Drive for the West Newton Music School are as follows:

Chairman of the committee as a whole, Mrs. Arthur Howland of West Newton; Mrs. John Eaton, West Newton; Mrs. David Baker, Newtonville; Mrs. Benjamin Fredericks, Newton; Mrs. Thomas Proctor, Chestnut Hill; Mrs. Charles Bennett, Newton Centre; Mrs. Edgar Smith, Newton Highlands; Mrs. Gifford Le Clear, Waban; Mrs. Herbert Locke, Upper Falls; Mrs. Irving Clarke, Lower Falls; Miss Mabel Eager, Auburndale.

The following letter has been received from the director of the New England Conservatory of Music—one of the foremost American musicians, endorsing the work of the West Newton Music School.

My dear Miss Fyffe:
I am in hearty sympathy with the work you are doing in the West Newton Music School and I am very much interested in the larger plans that are on foot. I believe that as a nation we are sorely in need of the spiritually uplifting influences of music, and that efforts to bring its pleasures and study within the reach of all may have a very real value to the cause of music and to the general welfare.

The special development of the West Newton Music School in its affiliation with the large and important Public School system of Newton, puts it, I believe, in an unusually advantageous position to reach the people who most need its opportunities, and to carry on its various activities in a most effective way. I hope that your city will realize this and that the school will obtain the permanent support that will enable it to carry out the perfected plans, which are fully justified by its record and its present opportunities.

Yours very truly,
G. W. Chadwick.

SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by Dorothy Drake

Newton High School (Classical)

One of the most important events of the year, took place last Wednesday, when the returns from the Senior Class elections were announced by Mr. Adams at the class meeting. The voting was not as close as it might have been, but at the same time spirit was not lacking. The results were as follows: President, Edgar Crosby, Vice President, Eleanor Lyon; Secretary, Stanley Lyon; Treasurer, Robert Strong. The members elected to the Student Council from this class were: E. Learned, Dorothy Dunmore, Helen Gordon, Gwendolyn Currier, Eunice Harrison, John Seavey, Stanley Lyon, and Belden Sly.

Results of the other class elections were reported as follows: Junior Class: President, Alfred Stafford; Vice President, Charles Fawcett; Secretary, Warren Hill; Treasurer, Frances Hatch.

Sub-Senior Class who usually has joined in with the Junior Class, this year has organized separately and chosen its own officers. President, Robert Garrity; Vice President, Fredrick Blodgett; Secretary, Catherine Jones; Treasurer, Herbert Garrity. Sophomore Class: President, Edwin Loughrey; Vice President, Edith Frost; Secretary, Mary Richard; Treasurer, Edward Stimpson. Freshman Class: President, Howard Whitmore; Vice President, Caroline Cummings; Secretary, William North; Treasurer, Margaret Williams.

The Boys' Debating Club held its first meeting last Monday morning, and at that time discussed plans and programs for the ensuing year. No definite plans have been made but probably each meeting will consist of a 20-minute debate, preceded by a declamation of 5 minutes. In this way it is hoped that able speakers will be developed so that a winning team may be formed when the Triangular League Debating Contest is held. Previously Newton has not made an excellent showing in this work, but under the direction of its President, Walter Lovejoy and advisers such as Mr. Underwood of the English Department a fine year is looked forward to, by all.

The Girls' Debating Club also has organized and with their President, Helen Hardy, hope to win better success than they did last year.

Football practice has now been in session for nearly a month, and by the showing of the fellows so far, a winning team is in the making. The backfield is well organized and with Robert Garrity, who is Captain, in the position of fullback, Keith at right half back, Cowing and Brooks for left half back, and Herbert Garrity at quarter back, it is doubtful just how many teams are going to equal this quartette. The Garrity brothers are "letter men," and the remainder of the backfield candidates although new at the game, seem to be progressing well under Coach Dickinson's methods of training. The line is made up of three "letter men," Seavey, centre, Crosby, left tackle, and Rave, end. G. Gulian, a brother of the Gulian who played for Newton last year, Arthur Smith, Bjorkman, and Coady are the other men in the line, and each one plays the game well. There is of course a lot yet to be done, but with two victories so far, Needham 18-0, Wakefield 33-0, the prospects are very promising. If the results are as satisfactory as the material shows, Newton will be seen leading the Suburban League, or at least very near the top.

Clafin School

The eighth and two fifth grades have an excellent record, having had no tardy marks in four weeks.

The Clafin School football team played the Stearns Playground team at Cabot Park on Tuesday. The Stearns Playground won, the score being 56 to 0. The best runs and feature playing were by Raymond Woolston of Clafin School.

The fourth grade went on a Geography ride Thursday in automobiles, visiting all the points of interest in Newton. The trip was made possible through the generosity of the parents in furnishing automobiles.

Lasell

Dr. Leon Vincent gave a very interesting lecture on Emerson at the school Thursday afternoon.

Next Sunday the Rev. Grant Person of Eliot Church, Newton, will be the speaker at Vespers.

The try-outs for the canoe club are already in progress.

The domestic science club began Wednesday. The girls take turns in keeping house.

Two daughters of Louis Cabrera, head of the recent commission from Mexico to the United States, are this year at the school.

Peirce School

The Peirce School is to have a school paper this year. The way in which the editor-in-chief is chosen is very interesting. The person who can write the best composition on "Thrill" is to be the editor-in-chief.

Last year our school adopted a French war orphan, and we saved money and sent it to our French brother in France. Each year we try to send him a certain amount of money. All the children in school are interested in having an unseen brother, "way across a deep, blue ocean," and each one is saving his pennies, nickels, and dimes to send "Over There" and let our friend know that we are thinking of him very often. This year we have a new system in our studies. This is called departmental work. So far as we have gone we enjoy it, and the seventh and eighth grades have learned to pass very quietly through the corridors. This prepares us for high school.

Miss Forte is to give violin lessons to pupils of the Peirce School. She is a member of the West Newton Music School.

There was a meeting of candidates for the Peirce School Orchestra Thursday morning.

The Peirce School will be furnished with exit lights to put over the doors in the assembly hall, so that moving pictures may be shown in the evening. It is necessary before giving regular "shows" to have these exit lights over the doors.

Miss Seavey, the cooking teacher, is giving interesting lessons to the girls of the school. They have learned what is good for them to eat and the number of calories in what they have eaten. Last Wednesday, they took their first lesson in making things that were good to eat. Cocoa and toast, made by the beginners, were especially successful.

Allen School

The Allen School played Huntington School, Boston, last Saturday, defeating them with a score of 12-0.

Straub and Hickman made the touch downs. The material for football this Fall is unusually promising.

The school is already getting ready for basket ball, and the rink is being made ready for hockey.

Newton Vocational School

At the Monday Morning Assembly, Oct. 6th, Miss Margaret McGill, Head of the History Department of the Newton High School, addressed the pupils upon her experiences abroad in the interests of the Intercollegiate Unit and the Y. M. C. A. and emphasized the need of a broader and better teaching of History in the reconstruction of the world.

On Oct. 13th, Mr. Franklin S. Hoyt, a member of the House of Houghton Mifflin Company will speak to the school upon the theme: "Education—A Life-long Process."

Country Day

Last Saturday the Country Day School won a victory (16-6) over the Newton High School at the Cabot Field gridiron. The new coach, a former Harvard back, had reason to be proud of his charges. Harry Pratt scored for the Country Day by the aerial route, the first period. In the 3rd period, Capt. Louis Nichols of the Country Day scored a touchdown on an end run but the goal was missed. On the side of the Newton High School, Offert, Stafford ran 15 yds. for Newton's only touchdown.

Industrial Arts Department

Some of the boys of this department are engaged in making plant boxes and hanging baskets for decorating the school rooms.

The Assembly Hall is to be fitted with new opaque curtains for use with the Projectograph during lecture periods. False casings on the windows will be necessary to insure a perfect dark room. The boys from Grade 8 will install these casings themselves. The 6th Grade class from the Horace Mann was added to this department last Tuesday.

Stearns School Notes

Miss Ruth H. Dowd, the building

assistant, finished her work in Newton last Friday. She will be married October 15th, to Mr. George A. Shulke. After an extended trip, Mr. and Mrs. Shulke will live in Decatur, Illinois.

At the recent exhibition of the Newton School Garden products in the High School Gymnasium, the Stearns School took second prize.

Miss Sara Washburn, who has been teaching at the Bryant and Stratton School, and who for several years was a teacher in Everett, has been added to our teaching force and is now working in Grade I.

Physical tests are being given to all children from Grade IV through Grade VIII. These include eye and ear tests, lung capacity, chest expansion, height and weight.

Records are kept for inspection.

The West Newton Music School is giving violin, piano, and cello lessons to our pupils after school hours. This work is continued from last year.

Dressmaking and Millinery Classes were formed Tuesday evening, October 7th. Three of the teachers were added to the list.

The Baby Welfare Clinic has been changed from Monday to Wednesday afternoon. Hours, 3 to 4.

Stearns football team continued its winning form by defeating Clafin Tuesday afternoon at Cabot Park by the score of 57-0. Spectacular running by Bryson of Stearns featured the game.

Mason School comes to Stearns field Thursday afternoon.

Where Huns Were Interior.

There is a noteworthy example of the preservation of valuable military secrets in the interesting article written by the secretary of the British Geographic society entitled "German War Maps and Surveys." British methods of survey and mapping were far superior to the enemy's, and one conspicuous success was scored in the scientific development of sound ranging for artillery. They used a self-recording apparatus, an ingenious and delicate piece of mechanism, which was used during the battle of Arras in April, 1917. The idea upon which it was based must have been known to a great many persons, both soldiers and civilians, but it never reached the enemy, though how much he desired to obtain it was revealed by Ludendorff's issue of an order in which he insisted upon the importance of capturing a set of these instruments. Until practically the end of the war German sound ranging was done with stop watches, a hopelessly crude and inaccurate arrangement in comparison with the scientific British system.—Indianapolis Star.

Find a Moth Exterminator.

Experiments of the bureau of entomology, United States department of agriculture, have demonstrated that naphthalene is uniformly effective in protecting woollens from clothes moth infection and in killing all stages of the insect, says the Des Moines Register. A red cedar chest readily killed all adult moths and showed considerable killing effect upon young larvae. It did not prevent the hatching of eggs, but killed all of the resulting larvae almost immediately. Red cedar chips and shavings, while not entirely effective in keeping the adult moths from laying eggs on the flannel treated, appeared to protect it from appreciable damage when used liberally.

Not New to Her.

Beatrice was invited to a birthday party and, womanlike, she wanted a new frock. Her mother, finding the child's party dress in good condition, refused to buy another. Her father, trying to console his little daughter, said: "Let me see the dress, Beatrice."

She brought it and he said: "Why, Beatrice, it is very pretty! I've never seen it before."

"Well," responded the child, "I've seen it often."

Jerusalem's Walls.

Jerusalem is enclosed by a wall 384 feet in height with 34 towers, forming an irregular quadrangle of about two and a half miles in circumference. The old wall as rebuilt by Nehemiah about 445 B. C. is thought to have been something more than 150 feet high, and at least 250 feet high at the corner towers.

DEATH OF MRS. COBB

Mrs. Laura March (Lillie) Cobb, widow of Darius Cobb, died on Wednesday at her home on Boylston street Newton Upper Falls, where for some time, especially since the death of her husband last April, she had been in failing health. Her final and more critical illness, due to heart trouble, lasted throughout the past month.

She was in her seventy-fourth year, having been born on April 18, 1846, in Boston, the daughter of old-time Boston residents, Thomas Edes Lillie and Harriet Maria (Codman) Lillie. They were of well-known ancestry.

Mrs. Cobb traced her lineage from prominent people of earlier times, including John and Priscilla Alden.

Laura March Lillie attended the school of Boston, including the Boston Normal School, after which she taught for a short time, but she was married to Darius Cobb when she was nineteen years of age. Her sister, Emma Lillie, at the same time, became the wife of Mr. Cobb's twin brother, the late Cyrus Cobb, who became distinguished as a sculptor.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Darius Cobb lived for a time in Cambridge, but since 1876 the family home had been at Newton Upper Falls. Mrs. Cobb had been since 1880 an active member of the C. L. S. Club of Newton Highlands. She was an ardent student of the problems arising in the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy, and her research had convinced Mrs. Cobb that Bacon was the writer of the plays ascribed to Shakespeare.

The result of her long study of this subject Mrs. Cobb had embodied in a paper which she had read before various women's clubs and other organizations.

Surviving Mrs. Cobb are three sons and four daughters, who are: Messrs. Frederick W. Cobb of Reedy, Calif.; Stanley Cobb of Washington, D. C.; Rev. Percival Bartlett Cobb of Chertsey, Md.; Miss Lillie Alden Cobb and Miss Cora Stanwood Cobb, who live at the family home in Newton Upper Falls; Mrs. David S. Wheeler of Gloucester and Mrs. Edith Cobb Myers of Akron, O. There are also nine surviving grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in the Newton Highlands Congregational Church on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Some Impressions and Experiences in a Summer Trip to the Pacific Northwest

We little dreamed what was in store for us when we awoke the next morning en route to Portland, for the next two days held for us one of the most wonderful sights of the entire trip, Mt. Rainier, or as our Tacoma friends insist, Mt. Tacoma.

On account of the long wait the previous evening at Medford for the stragglers from the trip to Crater Lake, our plans for a hotel breakfast at Portland had to be changed and a box lunch put on the train instead. The Portland ladies relieved the situation, however, by gifts of roses and by decorating the entire train with flowers.

We reached Tacoma about noon and were entertained at lunch by the Commercial Club and then took automobiles for the sixty mile drive to Ranger National Park, the official name for the national park, to which even the residents of Tacoma agree.

The trip to the park was the exact opposite from the trip to Crater Lake. Where one was rough and extremely tiresome, the other was over paved and gravel roads which were most pleasant to experience. For the first 22 miles out of the city the road was of asphalt, the remainder of the trip was over a substantial gravel road, which when we had entered the park area itself wound in and out among high fir trees in a most delightful fashion. Our driver, Mr. W. J. Milford was an expert automobilist, and certainly proved it, while we were his guests. Forty-five miles an hour was his usual speed and whereas we were about the last of over sixty cars to leave the Commercial Club, there were only twenty cars ahead of us when we reported at the park entrance.

There are two hotels within the park, one at Longmire Springs, the other at Paradise Valley. Our party was so large that it was divided between the two hotels. At both places the usual hotel accommodations were augmented by tents, some of which were electrically lighted and heated. We were guests at Longmire, from which there is a good view of the mountain top, but little else. Those who went 15 miles further that evening to Paradise Valley told us later that they had a most wonderful view of the mountain and the surrounding valleys that night by moonlight. In place of this, we had the trip up the mountain in the early morning with magnificent views down the ravines, occasional glimpses of the mountain top, and views of the surrounding mountain ranges. The road winds in and out, with figure eights and many hair pin turns as it climbs steadily upwards. The last part of the journey possibly for ten miles or so, there is an automobile control of the road. Upward bound cars are allowed to move on the even hour, and downward travel on the odd numbered hours. The number of cars passing one control is telephoned to the other station and nothing is allowed to move the opposite direction until every car is accounted for. There is quite a little travel involved in this plan as we were told that over 2800 people had visited Paradise Valley the previous Sunday. The lower control is located near the snout of the Nisqually glacier and most of our party made the trip to the glacier, while waiting for the time limit to expire. The glacier looks like dirty colored rock and not at all like ice, while the water which flows from underneath is a dirty clay color.

Never shall I forget the scene which met my eyes. When we reached Paradise Valley.

Before me lay the valley—indeed rightly named, for there is a paradise of beauty this side of Heaven, here it is. On our left rolled the green valley flecked with the darker green of the firs and cedars, and completely covered with a gorgeous floral carpet. For miles the eyes rest upon this beautiful valley, then they fall upon the rugged mountain peaks of the Tatoosh Range wrapped in their armor of ice and snow, a veritable army of soldiers, awaiting their general's command.

Across the valley, high on the opposite bank, the silvery thread of one road winds its way and above it can be seen the hotel, Paradise Inn. All this our eyes take in at a glance and then they stop, spellbound, fixed to one spot. There stands the general—Mt. Rainier, stalwart and kingly, he stands, his proud head with its crown of dazzling white reaching far

GOV. COOLIDGE HERE

Guest of Newton Catholic Club at Columbus Day Observance

The Newton Catholic Club observed Columbus Day last Monday with a banquet in honor of its 162 members who served the country in the late war. Over 100 of them were present that evening and were given a most enthusiastic reception. About 300 members and guests were present and the occasion was honored by the presence of Governor Calvin Coolidge, who made his first public appearance since his recent illness. It is needless to say that he was given an ovation. Another honored guest was General C. R. Edwards, who arrived while the banquet was in progress and was received with great cheering and applause.

There are four gold stars on the Catholic Club's service flag and these were not forgotten. At the start President William D. Nugent, who served as toastmaster, asked all present to stand while he read the names of the boys whose seats were vacant. They are Walter J. McCann, Robert Dowling, Henry De Rucha and Edward J. Riley. The tribute ended with a simple prayer for the repose of their souls.

Like all Catholic Club banquets in the past top-notch speeches formed an important part of the evening and the success attendant on the affair reflects great credit on the committee that arranged the details. Other speakers were: Rev. William Devlin, S. J., president of Boston College; Mayor Edwin O. Childs; Rev. John F. Keleher, pastor of St. Bernard's parish and spiritual director of the club; State Senator John J. Walsh; Captain Henry D. Cormier, formerly commander of Company C of the 101st and Captain Edward Edmunds, Jr., who later led that same company and who now commands the Newton Post of the American Legion.

CLAFLIN GUARD VETERANS

Hold Annual Meeting and Banquet at Hotel Westminster

The Claflin Guard Veteran Association, Inc., held its 24th annual meeting and dinner on Tuesday last, at the Westminster Hotel, Boston.

At the meeting, the Act of Incorporation, and the list of associate members was read by the secretary, this all being accomplished since the last meeting of the Association.

The officers elected for 1920, are as follows: President, Hon. Henry E. Bothfield, vice-president, Martin C. Laffie, junior vice-president, Walter H. Stearns, secretary, Major Fred P. Barnes, treasurer, Francis G. L. Henderson.

The members were enthusiastic over plans for a grand celebration of their 25th anniversary next year, with a large increase of both active and associate members.

At the dinner, the Association was honored by the presence as guests, of J. Weston Allen, Esq., Republican candidate for Attorney General, and Capt. C. Sinclair Weeks, late of the Field Artillery, U. S. Army, both of whom spoke very interestingly. Mayor Childs, who is one of the associate members, also addressed the assembly in his usual happy and entertaining manner.

Governor Coolidge was unable to be present on account of his recent illness, and Ex-Senator Weeks, who is also an associate member, was obliged to speak in Malden that evening, and hoped to be able to be present for a short time, but found it impossible, much to the disappointment of all present.

A silent toast was drunk to the memory of the late Col. Isaac F. Kingsbury, who was at the time of his death, the vice-president of the Association.

A number of the associate members were present and many more of both active and associate, would have attended had the weather not been so stormy and disagreeable, no enthusiasm was lacking. A combination of circumstances, such as the political campaign, the Newton Co. of the State Guard on duty in Boston, and the weather, occasioned the non-attendance of many members. The dinner and accommodations were excellent, and all appeared to enjoy themselves.

CO. A. 11th REGIMENT

Now Doing Night Duty in Boston and long For Some Excitement

The men of Company A are doing night work this week. The whole outfit leaves the South Armory at 3:30 in the afternoon, and by 4 o'clock are posted on their routes. Then follows a long vigil well into the small hours of the morning. It is certainly monotonous. Things are quiet now. And there is little to do except watch the business of the city die down, welcome the theatre crowds and later on see them depart for their homes. Then all is fairly quiet, altho the city never sleeps. It must be awful to be a policeman or an undertaker or a fireman, and just to wait around for things to happen. One gets to wishing that someone would kindly start something.

The new Enfield Rifle was given out last week. It is a real gun, and weighs a pound less than the old field artillery we used to carry. This means a lot on an eight-hour tour of duty. Besides it looks, and is, more businesslike. What is needed now, both for comfort and for morale, is an O. D. uniform. It does seem a shame that men who at great personal inconvenience are working for City and State should not be properly clothed. And what a swell appearance A Company would make!

The members of the Company are learning a lot about housework. Some few are detailed each day to help clean up the Armory and the Officers Quarters. Men too weak to lift a broom at home are told to get busy. And there is no let up until after two hours or more of hard work. Ash trays, waste paper baskets, dusting, polishing—all are in the day's work. Wives of A Company men please take notice!

NEWTON GIRL SCOUTS

An Overnight hike to Oak Hill Proves A Great Success

NEWTON GIRL SCOUTS

TROOP 11, NEWTON

Friday, October 10th, was a red letter day for some of the Newton Girl Scouts. Eighteen girls with Captain Eddy of Troop 1, Captain Burdett and Lieutenant Burnham of Troop IV, and Miss Freeman, Local Director, went on an overnight hike to Oak Hill where through the courtesy of the Norumbega Council of Boy Scouts, the Turner Studio was put at their disposal.

The day began rather dubious but later the weather proved more propitious, and the night was perfect for such an expedition, warm and with a full moon. The girls started from Newton Centre at four o'clock, hiking through the woods to Oak Hill. After gathering together enough fire wood to last through their stay, the girls cooked supper in the open. Games were played during the evening and at ten o'clock when Taps were sounded they rolled themselves up in their blankets and lay down on the porch where they slept for the night. Saturday morning after seeing the sunrise and after having an early breakfast, the girls followed one of the many trails on Oak Hill. They left at noon, all wishing that they might stay longer and hoping that next Spring there may be many more such hikes in store for them.

NOTES FROM COMPANY A

Corporal Almy has been assigned to Headquarters. The good looking men are chosen for this work.

Last Monday afternoon the entire Company was given a twenty-four hour pass. The first time on this tour of duty. Captain Crowell, we salute you!

Miss Adelaide Ball, Captain of Troop 11 of the Newton Girl Scouts has planned a most interesting program for her Scouts for this coming year. Besides the regular Scout Work some special instruction is to be given during the Scout meetings for the Merit Badge tests. Also there are to be some good times. The first of these is to be a Halloween party. Friday is the meeting day of Troop 11 and as Halloween falls on that day, the last meeting of this month will be a party. Next month the troop is to give an entertainment, a play for which the girls are rehearsing now, followed by singing of the Scouts. Miss Evelyn Cunningham, former Captain of the Troop, who is now back from over seas, where she was in Government Service for some months, has charge of this entertainment.

Troop 11 has had a splendid garden this summer. Under the supervision of Mr. L. V. Rowe, of the Middlesex County Farm Bureau, the Scouts planted, cared for and harvested their garden. It was a most successful garden. The girls learned a good deal about gardening, and beside this, they had the satisfaction of feeling that they were doing their bit in food production. The vegetables were marketed giving the troop quite a little sum of money to put into its treasury after expenses were paid.

Besides the Garden work, Troop 11 met for hikes during the summer. Captain Ball took her girls to Lynn Beach, Nantasket, Hemlock Gorge, and Norumbega Tower. For news of Troop 11 see the next issue of this paper.

Monday evening at Channing church Miss Doris Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Holmes of Grasmere street, Newton, was married to Mr. Blanchard Stebbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stebbins of Kenilworth street, Newton. The pastor, Rev. Harry Lutz, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Charles W. Wendte, D.D.

The bride, who is one of the most attractive young ladies in the city, looked charming in a gown of cream satin trimmed with duchess and point lace. Her veil was trimmed with point lace and caught with orange blossoms.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Channing E. Harwood of Middletown, Conn., a sister of the bride. She wore a gown of orchid pink taffeta and chiffon. The bridesmaids were Miss Marion Whipple of Hartford, Conn., Miss Mary Stebbins of Newton, sister of the groom, Mrs. Alfred Lamotte of Newton Centre, and Miss Margaret Goddard of Wellesley Hills. Two of the bridesmaids wore gowns of orchid pink taffeta and chiffon, and two more lavender taffeta and chiffon. They carried orchid-colored caryanthemums.

Mr. Stebbins was at one time an ensign on the Hudson but is now engaged in the lumber business. His best man was Mr. Harry Carley of New Haven, Conn. The ushers were Mr. Channing E. Harwood of Middletown, Conn., Mr. Harold Eastis of Newark, N. J., Mr. John Stewart of Boston, and Mr. Robert J. Holmes of Newton.

Master Stephen Holmes and Mistress Lucille Holmes from Columbus, Ohio, nephew and niece of the bride, were flower bearers.

A FIRM STAND

The following resolution of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks should receive the hearty approval of every loyal American.

Whereas, the American flag is the emblem of our free government, wherein rights of persons and property are forever guaranteed by written constitution, and there appears to be a world-wide movement to subvert and destroy these rights by certain organizations and individuals through actions and propaganda inimical to our free American government and dangerous to our institutions; and

Whereas, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is distinctly American, advocating and supporting the constitution and flag of our country, and condemning all things and all persons that are in any degree, or in any manner opposed thereto;

Now, Therefore Be It Resolved that the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, in annual session assembled, does hereby pledge this Order to use all lawful means to check and prevent the extension of the dangerous doctrines that threaten our free institutions and our flag, and that no person shall be permitted to join or remain in our Order who openly, or covertly, directly or indirectly gives aid, comfort, or support to the doctrines, practices, or purposes of the Bolsheviks, Anarchists, the I. W. W., or kindred organizations, or who does not give undivided allegiance to our flag and the great principles of constitutional free government of which it is the emblem.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—The second and last week of Shakespearean production by the Craig Players will begin Monday evening with a revival of "Othello," the greatest play dealing with the passion of jealousy ever written. It will be staged with the same care for scenic beauty and historic detail that have made notable all the Craig Shakespearean plays, and the cast will insure one of the strongest performances of "Othello" ever given in Boston. Mr. Craig will appear as Othello, a role in which he gained an emphatic success several seasons. William Norton has been especially engaged to act Iago, and Miss Mary Young will give one of her most effective impersonations in the character of Desdemona. There will be only three weeks more of the Craig season, beginning next Monday.

CONSERVATION DAY

One of the most remarkable recent movements to attain national prominence is the one that has for its object the pointing out of methods by which motorists may obtain increased mileage from their tires.

One would imagine that tire dealers would be pleased to have tires wear out quickly, so that new purchases would be necessary. But this is not generally true. There is more rejoicing today over one car owner whose tires run 10,000 to 15,000 miles, than over a hundred whose lack of care prevents them from getting many miles they are entitled to.

This national tire conservation movement will reach Newton on Oct. 28th, when Tire Conservation Day will be observed. Carrying out the idea of helping all local motorists to secure more service from their tires, the Crowell Automobile Supply Co. of Newton Centre, has arranged to have an expert from The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, present at the demonstration, who will give an entire day over to the consideration of the tire problems of all local motorists, pointing out the most insignificant repairs which, if made in time, will add immeasurably to tire mileage. The tire difficulties of each motorist will be given individual attention.

Sections of tires will be exhibited showing the different kinds of wear that tires are subject to, and the methods of combating them.

MAJOR RAND INJURED

Major Waldron H. Rand, Jr., of the Massachusetts State Guard was the victim of a serious accident Sunday forenoon and is now in the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital with severe injuries to his left leg. Major Rand, who has been on duty with his battalion in Boston was enjoying a few hours off duty, in horseback riding in the Jamaica way. He was riding on the bridge path and was just crossing its intersection with a street, when an automobile crashed into his horse, which was instantly killed and throwing Major Rand violently to the ground. He immediately was removed to the hospital.

You are welcome to the showrooms of Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin street, corner Congress street, Boston, Mass. to the exhibition of the largest display of electric, gas and oil lighting fixtures in this country.

Auburndale

Mrs. H. R. Turner has returned from a visit of several weeks at her cottage at Allerton.

Mr. William Whalen of Melrose street is serving in the Motor Corps of the M. S. Guard stationed in Boston.

The Auburndale Club of men is to hold its first meeting on Saturday evening. About thirty of its members were serving in the Newton Constabulary in Boston.

The Italian needlework, which exhibited at the Woman's Club on Tuesday, was very unusually beautiful. It was made by Mrs. Darling, Miss Balch and other members of the Club.

Mr. Charles F. Towne, who is associate Principal at Lasell, addressed the Auburndale Brotherhood at their first regular meeting on Wednesday evening. His subject was "Americanization."

Mr. J. A. Mellor has sold out his grocery business here, and the store is to be occupied by another firm. Mr. Mellor had made many friends while here and his leaving will be a matter of regret.

At the recent election of the Wesleyan Societies, Miss Frances Dennett of Windemere road, was chosen a member of the Agora. Miss Helen Scott was chosen a member of the Alpha Kappa Chi.

Miss Lillian Packard of Lasell, Mrs. MacDonald of Woodland Park and Miss Norton spoke on different phases of the work. Miss Norton has been for many years connected with medical missions in China.

The two men who broke into Dr. Ufford's cottage at Winthrop a short time since, were in further trouble at Watertown last week, and after more criminal work were sentenced to State Prison for long terms.

Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Methodist Chapel. The societies are beginning the study of a new text-book, "A Crusade of Compassion" which, it is hoped, will prove of great interest to all. "Medical Missions" was the topic of the day.

Mrs. Carrie Gilman Edwards, who spent last winter in this village, and gave so much pleasure with her skill on the piano, was in town for a short time last week. Her daughter, Miss Helen, was married during the summer and Mrs. Edwards expects to make her future home in New York.

The monthly meeting of the Foreign Missionary Societies of the Congregational and Methodist Churches was held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Methodist Chapel. The societies are beginning the study of a new text-book, "A Crusade of Compassion" which, it is hoped, will prove of great interest to all. "Medical Missions" was the topic of the day.

Mr. Ralph W. Peters has accepted a position as certified accountant at Watertown, N. Y., and is removing his family there this week. Although Mr. and Mrs. Peters have lived here but three years they have made many warm friends, and they have had an influence in the church, the clubs and in the schools, which was always for good, and they carry the best wishes of their friends for them in their new home.

The Massachusetts Provincial Conclave of the Knights of King Arthur and Queens of Avalon was held at Castle Stirling last Monday. In the forenoon there was a track meet and a baseball game on the Recreation Grounds. A basket lunch was served in the dining room of the Congregational Church. The conclave was held at 12.45 P. M. The Rev. Raymond Calkins, D.D., pastor of the First Congregational Church in Cambridge, gave a very stirring address.

BOSTON OPERAHOUSE—Conforming to the generally extravagant praise which was bestowed upon the production of Monte Cristo, Jr., at the Boston Opera House on the opening night, this production has set a pace worthy of its reputation, and the Boston Opera House is crowded to the doors at every performance. Monte Cristo, Jr., is a typical Winter Garden show, possessing all the requisites expected of this form of entertainment, namely, quantities of pretty girls in all sizes, countless costumes that are ravishingly beautiful, comedians that tell all the latest jokes and bewildering changes of scenery. The cast is long and contains a number of the best head-liners in extravaganza and vaudeville. Following is the roster: Ralph Horz, Chic Sale, William and Gordon Dooley, Watson Sisters, Adelaide & Hughes, J. Francis Dooley and Corinne Sales, Katherine Galloway, George Baldwin, Esther Walker, Jack Squires, Virginia Fissinger, James Moore, Ethel Gray, Katherine Wylie, Arthur Cardinal, Eileen Rooney, John Kearns, Jim Dalley, Mart Fuller Golden, Roger Little, Edith Pierce and 205 clean-cut cuties and capering choristers. This is the third and next to the last week.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Richard Ordynski, the head director of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be in Boston to superintend the first performance of his new musical fantasy, "Fair Helen," which is the next attraction at the Majestic Theatre, commencing October 20th. "Fair Helen" is founded on "Offenbach's celebrated opera bouffe "La Belle Helene." The new-book has been written by one of America's most well known writers, Austin Strong, whose last delightful comedy, "Three Wise Fools" has just concluded a one year's run at the Criterion Theatre in New York, and is duplicating its American success in London at the present time. Charles Hanson Towne, the editor of McClure's magazine, is responsible for the lyrics of this new gay operetta, and Joseph Urban, who for the past four years has supplied the Metropolitan Opera Company with his wonderful scenic pictures, has designed and painted the three acts in which this musical offering takes place. Marcia Van Dresser will be heard in the title role. She will be accompanied by a company of one hundred and fourteen artists, including a number of the members of one of New York's most well-known orchestras.

The American Creed

I believe in the United States of America as a Government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign States; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

EDITORIAL

It is fortunate that the Republican party has only state officers to elect next month and that its platform in regard to the League of Nations is not an issue in the campaign. That plank in the platform ought to be repudiated by every Republican who is proud of his American citizenship, for it is nothing but a straddle, and a poor straddle at that. The real expression of Republican feeling was the splendid reception given to Senator Lodge, when he declared, that he must support and vote for the amendments presented by his committee to the United States Senate.

At the coming state election there will be four matters submitted to a referendum, requiring monthly interest on savings bank deposits, authorizing the establishment of continuation schools, requiring two platoons in the Fire department, and instructing our representatives to favor sale of liquor containing not over 4 per cent. of alcohol. The editor will be pleased to publish brief letters bearing on these subjects in the next two issues of the Graphic.

Governor Coolidge should be re-elected next month by an overwhelming majority, but that majority can only be obtained if every man goes to the polls and votes. Don't be a slacker on the 4th of November. You can show what you think about the Boston police situation by voting for Coolidge.

As the Commanding Officer of the Newton Constabulary, Col. James G. White was certainly the right man in the right place during the past few weeks.

— and from there we went to Japan —

Talk about adventures!

Men in the Navy come home with the kind of experiences that most chaps read of only in the books.

Here's your chance!

Uncle Sam has, as you know, a big Navy and gives red-blooded young fellows like you an opportunity to step aboard and "shove off".

What will you get out of it? Just this: A chance to rub elbows with foreign folks in strange parts of the world.

The chance for good honest work on shipboard—the kind of work that teaches you something real; the kind of work that puts beef on your shoulders and hair on your chest.

You will get 30 care-free vacation days a year, not counting shore leave in home or foreign ports.

You will have the kind of comradeship in travel that sailors know.

You will have regular pay, over and above your meals, lodging, and your first uniform outfit—good stuff all of it.

You can join for two years. When you get through you'll be physically and mentally "tuned up" for the rest of your life. You'll be ready through and through for SUCCESS.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

into the heavens, seemingly touching the very sky.

He is lord of all he surveys, he is master, chief, and king and he fills his spectators with a deep feeling of respect and admiration. In his presence all thoughts of anything save the sublime are excluded. One could not hold an unworthy thought to say nothing of committing an unworthy act, so great is the spell he casts upon the beholder.

Mt. Tacoma, as the Indians called it, was renamed Mt. Rainier in 1792 by its discoverer, Captain George Vancouver, English navigator and explorer, in honor of his friend, Rear-Admiral Peter Rainier, admiral of the British Navy. This name was officially recognized by the U. S. Geographic Board in 1889.

The mountain is 14,408 feet high, exceeded in height by no other in the United States except Mt. Whitney in California. Its snowy summit can be seen for miles and the shimmering rays from its snow fields radiate as from sparkling jewels.

Its glacier system exceeds any other in size, for twenty-eight known and named ice rivers stream down its sides. The most easily reached and well known, though not the largest, of these glaciers is the Nisqually descending directly south from the mountain's summit.

The climb to the summit requires about twenty hours for the round trip and is made on the south side of the mountain as this is the easiest and safest trail to follow.

The trails are good and wind past thousands of wild flowers of brilliant colors—blue, red, yellow, purple, pink, white. Everywhere one can stretch forth his hand and touch these huxuriant blossoms which in some places grow in close proximity to the snow. They are particularly noticeable because of their brilliant color, a characteristic common to alpine flowers.

Time allowed us to climb only a short distance and soon we came back to the Inn where lunch was served. The Inn is situated in full view of the mountain and Paradise Valley, and is constructed of logs from the neighboring forest.

As we started away after lunch I found my gaze still clinging to this towering monarch and I wondered how I should describe it when I got home. But I have found that to be an impossibility. Rainier is too big to be described, it completely fascinates and inspires the beholder, it leaves him speechless, powerless, and reverent. In the words of Bailey Willis, a geologist who explored the northern slopes of the mountain in 1881—"Whether touched by the glow of early morning or gleaming in bright noonday, whether rosy with sunset light or glimmering ghost-like in the full moon, whether standing out clear and cloudless among the mists it weaves from the warm south winds, it is always majestic and inspiring, always attractive and lovely. It is the symbol of an awful power clad in beauty."

We were indeed sorry to leave Paradise Valley, and I am already looking forward to the time when I can go there again and come once more under its magic spell. Every lover of mountain scenery should be sure to visit this great mountain, one of the greatest sights in the country, and one for which the Indian name "The Mountain that was God" is most appropriate.

I had one disappointment. It is usual in mountain scenery to stand several thousand feet above sea level so that the real height of the mountain does not manifest itself. This mountain on the contrary is within the clear view of the sea and its 14,000 feet in height is said to dominate the entire landscape. Some years ago I heard Rev. Mr. Jaynes describe his view of this mountain from the deck of a passing steamer and I greatly desired a similar sight. But forest fires and the consequent haze covered the country like a pall, and we were most fortunate in having the splendid view we did from Paradise Valley.

tain does not manifest itself. This mountain on the contrary is within the clear view of the sea and its 14,000 feet in height is said to dominate the entire landscape. Some years ago I heard Rev. We returned to Tacoma in the afternoon, Mr. Milford burning up the road once more, and arrived at the Commercial Club in time for supper.

After supper we were guests at the famous Tacoma Stadium at a concert given by Mr. Lambert Murphy, who is the John McCormack of the West.

The Stadium is very similar to the Harvard Stadium and is said to seat from 13,000 to 35,000 people, evidently depending on whether you are talking with a resident of Tacoma or otherwise. That evening it was about a third filled and the colors in the ladies hats and wraps made a veritable kaleidoscope of color. Not the least interesting were the automobiles which were packed in the space between the temporary stage, set in the middle of the arena, and the circle of seats. There had been nearly 500 of them, looking like gigantic beetles. The acoustic properties of the place were excellent, Mr. Murphy's voice being heard by everyone, and evidently enjoyed by all, if applause is any criterion.

One thing Tacoma did not do for us, and which was a cause of much regret. They were so busy entertaining us with the trip to the mountain and the concert, that we had no time to see their city, which I understand is well worth a visit. Sometime, I hope to go there again and feel sure that it will be well worth while.

Late that evening we took the steamer for Seattle after bidding our Tacoma hosts a reluctant adieu.

Swan Songs.

According to Pliny ("Natural History"), "Swans, a little before their deaths, sing most sweetly," and it is from this that the "swan-song" has acquired a figurative use—the work of a poet or musician, composed shortly before his death. To the English people of Tennyson's declining days, "Crossing the Bar" was that poet's swan-song, even as the music of "Oberon" was the swan-song of Karl von Weber.

The two teams will come together next Saturday afternoon, if the weather holds good.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs sends the following message to the women of Massachusetts through the pages of the Bulletin of the State Federation:

We are now looking upon life from the vantage point of a great victory. Lessons driven home by thunder of war must be made to serve humanity's needs. Imperative duties press upon us from every side, with relentless insistence.

We must steadily, courageously and unflinchingly face the problems of today. It is just as important to stand back of our Government now as it was during the war.

Let us keep alive that wonderful spirit of unity that bound us together against a common foe, in order that we may assist in overcoming those insidious influences that would wreck the foundations of home and nation. The general Federation is definitely committed to three paramount tasks: Americanization, Thrift and Community service.

See that the plans outlined by these special directors are used next year. Do not relax departmental work already instituted by our eleven splendid departmental chairmen.

Great new responsibilities, in the exercise of the franchise, will soon devolve upon all women. Prepare yourselves to exercise it intelligently and righteously.

Come to the 15th Biennial, Des Moines, Iowa, June, 1920, with full delegations, accurate reports, a forward-looking spirit and the determination to make it epochal in the history of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Look well after all local interests, but never allow the horizon to become limited and provincial. We are a great world family and need to give and receive messages via all legitimate channels.

Local Happenings

The first meeting of the Travel Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held at the home of the leader, Mrs. A. L. Jordan. A paper showing much study and thought was read by Mrs. Southwick on the Isle of Wight and the Isle of Man, while Mrs. Reed's interesting story of her trip to Bermuda made all her hearers want to go there at once.

Mrs. Charles Mills was elected first vice-president of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club in place of Mrs. Earl Smith, resigned, at the first meeting of the club. Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Jr., spoke of the work of the West Newton Music School and of the Drive for funds. Mrs. Thomas Aiken, chairman of the Dramatic committee, Mrs. Frank Fanning and Mrs. Willard Marcy, chairman of the Hospitality committee, were in charge of the program for the evening. The entertainment consisted of solos by Mrs. Clifford Leighton, accompanied by Miss Gladys Billings, and readings by Miss Welden and pupil. The quartette by Mrs. Aiken, Mrs. Duggan, Miss Osborne and Miss Jones caused much merriment. Ice cream and cake were served and a social hour enjoyed.

The first meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club opened with the usual business, which included a very fine report of the State Federation meeting of last June by Mrs. S. L. Eaton, vice-president, who also was the chairman of the day and conducted the program. This was a revival of a very old custom in the club of giving vacation experiences at the first meeting in the Fall. Mrs. George Philipp led with some serious thoughts on how to have right memories of vacation. Mrs. Robert Gorton followed with the story of a vacation spent in her girlhood's home when she attended college and where later, her marriage took place, so that her vacation experience were most pleasant. Mrs. St. Amant read a clever letter from Mrs. W. D. Keefe, describing a vacation trip which was full of thrills, and though accomplished all in one day "in a Ford," its memories will not soon be forgotten. Mrs. Early told a vacation experience which was calculated to revive old traditions and memories of the early days of the club. A group of songs was most delightfully given by Mrs. Robert Chapin of Newton Highlands, accompanied by Mrs. Faelton. A unique feature of the afternoon was the presentation to the president, Mrs. Early, of a bouquet of huge, yellow chrysanthemums to which were attached by white ribbons, cards of the club members with verses or quotations expressing their loyalty and good wishes for the coming year in the club. It was certainly a gala occasion, from the first greetings of renewed friendships, to the final festivities in the tea room, which Mrs. Percival Waters, chairman of Hospitality, had magically transformed into a bower of beauty with autumn leaves and trailing vines. Mrs. G. M. St. Amant and Mrs. Robert Gorton served frappa, while Mrs. W. A. Beedle and Mrs. J. A. McDonald, poured.

AUBURDALE WOMAN'S CLUB

The Auburndale Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. H. L. Dawson, the new president, presiding. A concise and interesting paper on Current Events, was read by Mrs. William Leighton, a club member. A musical treat was given by the Merriam-Capellani company, in the word pictures from the lives of the composers. Verdi Gounod and Sullivan read by Lillie Fuller Merriam, with songs from their operas and other works, by Signor Virginia Capelloni, baritone, and J. Albert Bamgartner, pianist. After the meeting, a social half hour was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

D. A. R.

Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton, held a reception for its members at the Chapter House, corner of Concord and Washington streets, Newton Lower Falls, on Monday, October 13. The hostesses were Mrs. Francis Newhall, Mrs. George Newhall, Mrs. Charles J. O'Malley and Mrs. Isaac Osgood. With them, Mrs. F. J. Fessen-den, the chapter regent, received the guests, among whom was Mrs. F. P. Shumway, State vice-regent. Music was enjoyed and tea was served, affording opportunity which was welcomed by all, to look about the very attractive Chapter House, formerly known as the "old Bury house." Many improvements have been made since the last previous meeting and gifts frequently are received to add to the already interesting collection. In September the chapter held a successful card party, at which fifty tables were filled. Through the summer many have visited the house and have enjoyed tea there. It is probable that future meetings of the chapter will be held in its permanent home.

COPLEY THEATRE—Because of the enormous success of "The Irresistible Marmaduke" as played by the Henry Jewett Players, this delightful comedy, bordering on the farcical, will be continued another week at the Copley Theatre. This play, which is being given for the first time in America, received most favorable attention from the Boston newspapers on Tuesday following its initial performance. Indeed there has been only the highest praise for the piece from press and audience alike. There are a number of situations that produce the greatest hilarity, and the Henry Jewett Players in this piece have lived up to their reputations as clever actors, whether it be in serious work or in pieces of a farcical tendency.

BADLY BEATEN

The High School football team met a crushing defeat on Monday at Everett when the local team won by the score of 41 to 6.

Newton made only four first downs in the game, three of these in the last quarter, when six substitutes were in Everett's lineup. Only in the first quarter did the heavier Newton team hold Everett.

Shortly after the opening of the second quarter, following an exchange of kicks, Kelley and Salvaggio carried the ball to Newton's 40-yard line. A forward, Kelley to Beck, netted a 25-yard gain. Everett made first down on the 3-yard line and after three attempts Salvaggio carried the ball over. Kelley kicked goal.

Sweetland slipped through the Newton line for a number of long gains. Kelley also did good work. In the last quarter, Everett's line weakened and was pushed back to the center of the field. On the next play Kelley jumped high in the air, intercepting a forward pass and ran 50 yards for the final touchdown.

greatest of the housewives' problems? Why, unexpected company gives me, or used to give me, a fit of nervousness!"

She was a practical looking woman, her face softened by a contented life among young folks. She was one of those fine women, typical of New England, and her thrift and good table had made her the leader of the younger set at the summer colony. "The girls" had fallen into the habit of stopping each morning on her big veranda, on their way to market and household topics were subjects of discussion.

"You mean that unexpected company no longer disturbs you—with the poor marketing conditions here at the lake? How do you do it?" asked one of the young married women.

"I'll tell it to you in words," she laughed. "National Biscuit Company. I'll give you acquainted good products—there's Royal Lunch Biscuits, Co. no. 1, Royal Cream Crackers, and Royal Soda Biscuits. They are the best of their kind."

"On his suggestion, when he had sold all his biscuits, I purchased some Premium Soda Biscuits."

Crackers and Royal Lunch Biscuits. With fear and trembling I placed them before my newly introduced guests in place of bread.

"They were a sensation of the evening and have been longer on the table than I do not have to work in the kitchen every evening and have been longer on the table than I do not have to work in the kitchen every evening."

"I have come to the conclusion that I do not have to work in the kitchen every evening."

Offer your family or your guests LORNA DOONE Biscuit—the modern shortbread—as a mid-morning lunch, an afternoon snack, or as a substantial part of a late-hour supper. There's a particular charm in their inviting flavor and mealy delicacy. And, while they are super-good they are not super-rich. The name LORNA DOONE is on every biscuit.

Sold by the pound and in the famous In-cer-seal Trade Mark package.

But they are vastly different, having none of the over-richness of the old-fashioned kind. They are mealy and crumbly, and have just the right amount of richness and so can be partaken of freely. In short, they have all the flavor of old-time shortbread without any of its disadvantages.

"Royal Lunch Biscuits," "palate charmers" my husband calls them, have just enough sugar in them to give them a pleasant taste.

"I have come to the conclusion that I do not have to work in the kitchen every evening."

The best attendance for the first four weeks was obtained by Miss McCarthy's sixth grade. Second place is held by the eighth grade, Miss Hanscom, teacher.

On Tuesday night Lieut. Leo Costello, Director of Athletics, who is about to start on a trip to the West, was given a handsome gold watch chain by the students, and a gold fountain pen by the cadet officers in recognition of his services to the school.

NEWTON CLASSICAL HIGH

The sophomores, juniors and seniors, attended a meeting last Wednesday, October 8, held in the Assembly Hall, for the purpose of subscribing to the monthly paper, "The Review." Benjamin Fawcett, who is manager, said a few words about the cost and advertising of the magazine, while Whitaker, editor-in-chief did his best to arouse enough enthusiasm to get the subscribers to donate stories and other articles and thus make the paper a success. During the past year and in fact all through the school term 1918-1919, the "Review" was not as interesting and not as "peppy" as it should have been, but with a great deal of support this year, the readers of the "Review" will get their money's worth.

Monday afternoon, October 13, was a bad time for Newton's football squad. Everett High piled up 41 points to Newton's 6. Newton's playing was very poor in the line, simply because they wouldn't work together. This is an extremely bad fault because it allows the men on the opposite team to break up plays at will. The backfield of Newton's team did as well as it could under the conditions, but it was very severely crippled when the end of the last quarter came. If two or three of the regulars who were badly injured in this game, are able to continue their football career this season, Newton will be fighting harder than ever to conquer the remaining Suburban League teams. Otherwise there will be several candidates fighting for two or three of the most important positions on the team. In the Dean Academy game, Newton played well, taking the contest by 25-6, but even then Newton suffered by injuries, one of its best players getting a broken nose and another fracturing his shoulder. In the contest next Saturday with Weymouth, a varied lineup is probable, but it will possess the best fighting men able to play, for scrimmages this week will be severe and "fighting" will be the keynote of all the workouts.

The tennis tournament has reached the stage of semi-finals with three fellows in the lead. Donald Hill, Stanley Lyon and Belden Sly. By next week the winner will have been decided, and the tennis team will proceed to organize for this next year.

The schedules for vacation have been announced and by all appearances, Christmas vacation brings 14 days of "rest," the Spring recess, 11 days, while June 17 has also been declared a holiday for Newton school students. The year closes June 25, which is about the same time that it has closed previously. However, no complaints will be made because all told there will be more vacation days than any student hoped to get.

Lasell is to have a school orchestra this year. The first meeting was held on Tuesday under the direction of Prof. Charles Griffith of Boston.

Prof. Charles Towne, the assistant principal of the school, will speak next Sunday on "Americanization."

The Orpheum Club has resumed its activities for the year.

What was to be the deciding game of a three-game city championship series ended in a tie when the increasing darkness stopped the game in the 11th inning between the Saxony nine and the Newton Upper Falls team at Victory Park, Nonantum, on Monday. The game developed into a pitchers' duel, Boyd of Saxony having 18. Crist struck out 12 Saxony players. Another game will be played on the same field next Saturday.

After a short business meeting there was music by the Alliance choir and a violin selection by Miss Katharine L. Stone.

—The meeting of the New England Association, Miss Maria R. Wheeler the annual meeting of the Alliance of Unitarian Women. Current religious news was given by Miss Grace M. Burt. Mrs. William B. Nichols of Quincy gave an account of the summer meetings at the Isles of Shoals and also told of the work of the Cheerful Letter Exchange, how it was started by young women of King's Chapel in 1878 and later incorporated into the work of the national women's organizations. It is similar to that of the Shut-in Society, but is entirely undenominational. The sending of libraries to distant places where books are a rare article, giving instruction by mail as well as the exchange of friendly letters are included in this activity. At the close of the program tea was served under the direction of the Social committee, Mrs. George F. Defren, chairman.

—The Eliot Church met at the church at 9.30. At 11 the Rev. John J. Walker, Secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, spoke on "The Twentieth Century Pilgrim," and Mr. Sayford spoke on the work of the Lumber Camp.

—Mrs. Mary N. Pennock, widow of Nathan L. Pennock, died Sunday at Woodstock, Vermont. She was 79 years, 2 months, and 2 days. Services were held at the house of her daughter, Mrs. George N. Putnam of Vernon street on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Laurens MacLure officiated. The burial was at Weston.

DEATH OF MR. CREHORE

Mr. Frederic Morton Crehore, a native and life-long resident of this city, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the family home in Newton Lower Falls. Mr. Crehore returned from his summer camp in Maine on Wednesday evening, in his usual health. Yesterday morning he felt slightly ill and kept to his bed all day. His condition was not thought to be at all serious and his death was unexpected. It is attributed to heart disease.

Mr. Crehore was born in the house in which he died, on July 6, 1858. He was educated at the Allen School and Harvard College, from which he graduated in 1881. He was engaged in business in Lower Falls, as a paper manufacturer, the business having been established there in 1825 by his grandfather, Lemuel Crehore. Mr. Crehore served in the Common Council of Newton in 1890 and as an alderman in 1891. He was also a valued member of the Newton Water Board from 1890 to 1894 and was a member of the school committee from 1897 to 1900, inclusive and again in 1902-03.

He is survived by a widow and one daughter, Miss Sybil Crehore. There is also a sister, Miss Elizabeth Crehore of Newton Lower Falls. The family have a winter home on Suffolk road, Chestnut Hill.

Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church, Lower Falls, tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Some Impressions and Experiences in a Summer Trip to the Pacific Northwest

Isn't it strange how the little things of life oftentimes bias our judgment and things. This was particularly noticeable in the impression I always have of the city of Seattle. Notwithstanding the efforts of the local committee and the really splendid program they arranged for, I still have a most unfavorable remembrance of our stay in that city.

The first incident was due to the over zealousness of some member of the Tacoma committee in regard to our hand baggage. This was to be reclaimed by each of us at the dock in Tacoma before we sailed for Seattle. Some one thought it would save trouble by shipping all the baggage on the Seattle, leaving only our checks to be taken up at Tacoma. We reached Seattle at 12:30 A. M. and found that the baggage room had been closed for the night and, in consequence, most of us were without pajamas, unmentionables, and toilet articles.

The second was more serious—for while at least, I had very carefully made hotel reservations at all the cities where we were to stay over night, and therefore felt little interest in the accommodations made on the boat that the hotels were crowded. Arriving at the hotel, the largest in the city, by the way, I learned that no reservation had been made for my party, consisting of myself and two ladies, and moreover, the hotel clerk evidently didn't care a hoot and could hardly deign to talk to me about it. Possibly there may be some towns worse than to be stranded in the middle of the night in a strange city with all the hotels filled to the roof and with no ladies on your hands. Some ladies in the party who had been assigned rooms in the hotel took pity on my wife and daughter and took them in, while I had to hustle for myself. I shall always recall with pleasure the courtesy of the hotel clerk at the Regis Hotel. While unable to accommodate any of us—for there were quite a number stranded like myself—he took great pains to telephone a dozen places in an attempt to find rooms for us, and while unsuccessful, I appreciate his good intentions. After some trouble I managed to get a room in a second class hotel and turned in at about two o'clock in the morning, somewhat perturbed to say the least.

The local committee, as I have said, prepared an excellent program of entertainment and we held two business sessions of the Association. The first day we had a great talk by the Mayor, Ole Hansen on Bolshevism, which offset many of the discomforts we had endured. We also had that evening, a wonderful speech from John Kendrick Bangs, on the need of aid for devastated France. I had always thought of Mr. Bangs as a mere humorist, and I found him to be one of the foremost orators it has ever been my good fortune to hear.

On Saturday we were the guests of the Skinner and Eddy Corporation at the launching of a big freighter, which in honor of our Association was to be named "Editor." Mrs. Guy U. Hardy, the wife of the president of the Association was the sponsor and my daughter was one of her assistants. The launching platform was adorned with a big pair of wooden shears, from which a paste pot was suspended. This corporation did great work during the war, employing about 40,000 men and turned out a large number of vessels.

On the way to the launching, I saw the big sign of the Bemis Bros. Bag Co., of which Mr. A. Farwell Bemis of Chestnut Hill is president.

Our visit to the launching was somewhat marred by the lack of provision for our comfort. The ladies, clad in summer dresses being forced to find a way thru crowds of workmen in dirty jumpers and overalls, and who indulged in considerable rough housing at times. In addition, as is usual at launchings, more invitations had been issued for the launching platform than there was room, and we were consequently crowded together like sardines.

After the launching we were guests of the city in a trip about the harbor, and on account of improper directions, most of us wandered around the big ship yard for nearly an hour before we found the right boat. This trip was most interesting, as the committee had placarded the most interesting things on shore with big numerals and gave us a card of explanation so that it was quite easy to learn what we

RED CROSS MEETING

Interesting Addresses at Meeting Last Saturday at Newton Club

Those who attended the Red Cross meeting at the Newton Club last Saturday afternoon came away with an understanding of the work that the Red Cross has yet to do and of why in the third annual Red Cross Roll Call from November 4 to 11 every Newton member should renew his or her membership and why everyone not now a member should become one.

The speakers were Mr. James Jackson, the New England Division manager, Mr. Cheney C. Jones, Miss L. H. Newell and Miss Elizabeth Ross. Mr. Charles E. Kelsey the chairman of the Newton Chapter introduced the speakers to the audience.

Miss Ross, who is a Cambridge girl trained as a nurse at the Newton Hospital, spoke on "Public Health" as seen by one who is a public nurse.

In Newton only 10 per cent. of the sick are cared for at the hospital and of the other 90 per cent. who suffer from illness a very large number do not receive adequate care nor attention. If the peace program of the country is to be the making of a healthier people then there should be found a way of providing more public nurses and of teaching the people how to keep well. She recited instances from her own experiences of babies born without proper preparations for their coming and under conditions that meant it almost impossible for them to live, of children attacked by scarlet fever who were sent to school for days before it was discovered they were ill and about children who grew up defective because of improper attention to their throats and teeth. All these are conditions which must be done away with if public health is to be markedly bettered.

Miss Newell, who has charge of Red Cross sewing and knitting, recently made a trip to Northern France, and to Serbia to see for herself the conditions there and to learn what was needed and what had been done with what had been sent. As she put it she "went to see what the war has done and what the Red Cross has done." At Noyon to which we went by means of a car that lost a leg and suffered from appendicitis and had to be operated on in order to complete the journey although it was said to be a perfectly good car when it was offered for use, she found four Red

GIVEN PURSE OF $3500

Rev. Dr. Edward M. Noyes Completes 25 Years as Pastor of First Church

On Tuesday evening, the Rev. Edward MacArthur Noyes, pastor of the First Church in Newton, was presented with a purse of $3,500 by the members of his parish in honor of the 25th anniversary of his pastorate.

At the supper about 250 people were present. Following the supper there was a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Noyes after which all adjourned to the church where the church orchestra of 25 pieces under the management of Mr. Ralph E. Maclean, gave a splendid concert. Miss Dorothy Drew Delyea was the soloist.

During the concert, Mr. Frank H. Stewart presented the purse to Mr. and Mrs. Noyes. All of the pastors of Newton Centre were invited though the pastors of one or two were unable to be present.

Congratulatory speeches were made by the Rev. Edward T. Sullivan of Trinity Church, Rev. Oscar B. Hawes of the Unitarian Church and by Prof. John M. English who represented the Baptist Church.

Among the out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. Edward Payson Drew of Auburn, Mass.; Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cutler of Waban, and Rev. Dr. and Mrs. George Smart of Newton Highlands; Rev. J. Edgar Park of West Newton, and the Rev. H. Grant Person of Newton, were unable to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden of Central Church, Newtonville, represented that church.

Of the four Congregational pastors of Greater Boston who have been in one pastorate 25 years, only the Rev. Samuel C. Bushnell of Arlington Heights was able to be present. Letters of congratulation were received from the other three, namely, the Rev. George A. Gordon of Old South Church; The Rev. William R. Campbell of Roxbury, and the Rev. Charles L. Noyes of Somerville.

Mr. Noyes was exceedingly overcome by the gift which was a complete surprise to him. In his reply he said that some one had recently asked him what "Utopia" meant and that he could truthfully reply that Newton Centre had been "Utopia" to him.

$1.10 FOR GAS

Hearing on Petition of Local Company To Increase Rate in this City

A hearing was given yesterday by the Board of Gas & Electric Light Commissioners on the petition of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co. for permission to increase the price of gas in this city from $1 to $1.10 per thousand feet.

Mr. Waldo A. Learned the president told the Commission that since August last an advance has been given the employees of 10 per cent. One-half of them are members of the American Federation of Labor. Because the rise in the cost of living has approximated 100 per cent. since the old days while the increase granted by the company totaled 50 per cent. Mr. Learned was of the opinion that he might confidentially look forward to further demands.

Last year the tax bill of the company was jacked up to the extent of $4,653, he said. He figured that the 10 per cent. raise in rates would bring in about $81,000, which would be just about enough to meet the soaring expenses and pay a sizeable dividend to the stockholders. The latter are getting nothing now on their investment, the dividends having been suspended since January last. During the 12 preceding months they were paid a dividend of 7 1/2 per cent.

Commissioner Solomon Lewenberg, however, was skeptical about the figures that were put forth by the company. He pared off $33,000 from the estimate of the needed revenue and challenged the company to show where it was needed. The challenge was not taken up.

The questioning then revolved around depreciation charges, in the course of which Mr. Learned said he was not familiar with some of the details.

Commissioner Morris Schaff remarked that the local officials of a corporation a part of a holding company "have nothing to do with the policy of disposing of proceeds, doing merely what they are told to do." Figures presented showing the condition of the company during the past three months, said General Schaff, indicated that it needs a higher rate, "provided the figures are correct."

Chairman Alonzo R. Weed suggested that the company present any additional data for the information of the Board. Mr. Learned promising that this would be given. The hearing then closed.

INCREASE SALARY OF MAYOR

Aldermen Also Hear Strong Protest Against a Public Garage in Waban

Waban came down en masse Monday evening to City Hall, to protest vigorously to the aldermen against the granting of a permit for a public garage on Wyman street to Edward H. Gleason. Mr. Gleason wants a garage for 20 cars and was the only speaker in favor. Emphatic remonstrance was entered by Mr. Hector M. Holmes, president of the Waban Improvement Association, C. B. Walker, Herbert J. and Arthur W. Kellaway, H. Wilson Ross, and Arthur W. Burnham. On a show of hands in the audience 35 opposed and 3 favored the permit.

The public hearing on a jitney line between Upper Falls and Watertown attracted hardly any attention, the petitioner, J. D. Aharonian being the only person present. No one appeared at hearings on private garages for C. W. Henderson, Jr., on Hampshire street and John Dolan Co. on Concord street, and on a multiple garage on Washington street for R. S. Cummings. A private garage for Russell L. Dana on Montvale road was opposed on behalf of an abuttor, Fred Brown. A sewer in Wiltshire road and Wiltshire court brought forth objections from Messrs. P. S. Cunliff, M. B. Welch, and Miss Mary E. Blake, and arguments in favor by Mrs. T. H. Tobin and Owen Sweeney.

The laying out of Charlesbank road between St. James street and the new boulevard was opposed by Mr. Fred A. Fernald on behalf of Miss Emerson and favored by Messrs. John T. Burns, Thomas L. Harney, Charles S. Nelson and Mrs. T. W. Norman. The proposed widening to 70 feet of Walnut street at Newtonville, between the railroad and Highland avenue was discussed by Mr. F. L. Richardson of the Newton Trust Co. and Mr. J. W. French for the Newton Real Estate Associates. Mr. French opposed the present building line as being a great detriment on business streets but said he was indifferent what action was taken on the widening, for if his land was taken, the city would pay for it. Mr. Richardson said that if it was proposed to keep the present width of 60 feet between Austin street and Highland avenue, he had no objection to the present line north of Austin street.

Mayor Childs sent in an estimate of $6075 for work on the temporary buildings, rear of the Technical High school and later $1,100 was voted to do a part of the work this fall.

The Mayor also sent in requests for a number of small appropriations, mostly for automobile maintenance, for $1,500 for Moth Work, $1,500 for Ground Work by the Forestry Dept., for $500 for the celebration of Armistice day by Post 48 American Legion, for $3022 additional for Linwood avenue sewer, for an increase in salary of the attendant at the city garage. He also sent in a claim for damages by Police Officer James P. Munroe, and petitions from the High School teachers for increase in salary of $400 each and from the Newton Grade Teachers for increase of $600 each. $500 was also asked by the Mayor and granted for additional expense in constructing the building on the Auburndale playground.

Petitions were granted Edward B. Stratton to move a building on Alden street, to the Liberty Motor Co. and James C. Heffron for automobile licenses, Ben A. Williams, Prospect park, for a private garage, Mrs. Frank Kerns to transfer victualer license to 1252 Washington street and of Boleslov Ebel to transfer victualer license to 1002 Chestnut street and to the Edison Co. for relocations on North street, Jackson street and Windsor road.

DON'T QUIT

By Miriam Brewer

Fight, and the crowd stays with you;
Quit, and you're out of the race;
For he who quits goes down and out,
And he who fights slips into his place.

Dig, and you reach rock bottom;
Quit, and you find only sand;
For the treasure is for the digger—
For the quitter—the rifled land.

Plow, and you turn a smooth furrow;
Quit, and your tools gather rust;
Root, and you soon learn to burrow;
Keep striving, and pay you it must.

The world lays its coin on the winner,
For the shirk it has no use at all;
So up with you; wrestle, you sinner,

Y. M. C. A.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. basketball team is rapidly rounding into form for a big season. The squad has been working hard for several weeks for the opening game with Somerville to be played on the Newton floor Nov. 6. Somerville has always had a strong team and the locals will have to play heads-up ball to get away with the game. With games coming later with such teams as Boston, Springfield, Brockton, Lynn and other teams in that class basketball fans may look forward to plenty of action this winter. All home games will be played Wednesday nights.

The line-up is practically the same as last year's fast team with a few new men added to the list as follows:—Bills and Bachmann at centre, Hunt, Shaw, Brimblecom, forwards, Farmer, Eden and O. Bachmann as backs.

Seattle has greatly enlarged its available water front by providing locks between the salt water and Union lake, and by making a connection between Union lake and Lake Washington. The territory around Lake Washington is residential in character and quite attractive. We were entertained while passing thru Union lake by a hydro plane which circled around our boat several times and made a landing in the water alongside. (Query, can anything make a landing in water?)

We were told that on account of Seattle is a live, bustling city with a great future. It reminds me very much of New York and possibly this resemblance adds to the prejudice I conceived for the place. It has a great newspaper in the Post-Intelligencer,—just think of that for a name for a daily paper.

No wonder it is called the "P. I." by the public, and no one even dreams of speaking its full name, except under compulsion.

I must confess that we left Seattle that evening with but little regret, the hotel, as a last and final kick, presenting me with a most extravagant charge for the room I finally managed to obtain.

While in Lake Washington we passed between 40 and 50 hulls of wooden vessels, moored close together in a double row. These had been built during the war at Seattle and Tacoma, and represented a part of the great waste of money and labor in making preparations during the war. We were told that there was practically no call for this class of vessel at the present time, and the boats may lie there until they rot.

Notwithstanding the hospitality extended to us on the boat, the trip was so long that when we landed about

That night there was a banquet for the ladies followed by a theatre party and a stag for the men at the Press Club. The stag was a most unique affair. Every man entering the room was required to shed his coat and hat and given a large white butcher's frock and a white paper cap. Thus adorned he was privileged to draw a paper plate with steamed clams and

THE MUSIC SCHOOL DRIVE

This is the week for you to send your contribution, or your pledge for the season 1919-'20 for the West Newton Music School. It is hoped to raise $4,000 by popular subscription, and the committee greatly desires a very large number of small subscriptions, as well as larger ones. Any amount, however small, will be acceptable, it shows an interest in the school that will be permanent. Do not forget that the school serves all sections of Newton, and that its work makes for civic betterment. An absorbing interest in music and opportunities for enjoying its pleasures in company with others is a safe-guard to boy or girl or adult. The school gives individual instruction and provides opportunities for the group-work that bring people together, in choruses, ensemble classes, and orchestra.

Please send your donation promptly to your committee member, or to the treasurer, Mrs. L. A. Kimberly, Perkins street, West Newton, Mass.

Gainaday - Washer - Wringer Does the Hard Work by the Turn of a Switch

Hundreds of Boston homes would no more think of doing the weekly wash by the old method than go back to oil lamps. Wash tubs and wash boards are fast disappearing, for in these days of high cost of living extra help and extra meals and the wear on the clothes by the old hand method soon wears the expensive clothes out.

GAINADAY Washer-Wringer is economical because it pays for itself every time you use it. Gainaday washes everything washable and with more than human care, costs but a few cents to operate and never tires and never tears.

Telephone or call any of the following stores of the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston and tell them you wish to have a Gainaday placed in your home on ten days' free trial. When you buy it, you have a year to pay for it.

NEWTON LIBRARY

Are the problems of world peace and class strife, not to mention struggle for mere existence, weighing upon you? Perhaps that is too strong, but there are not moments when you would gladly turn from your learned books of history, philosophy or economics, if you knew of a good book that would rest your bewildered brain? To be sure we must acquire ourselves with the technique of collective bargaining for the League of Nations, but have you read Mr. Dooley's experience with nationalizations in "Dissertations by Mr. Dooley," (YQ-D92 d)? Possibly you have been reading with avidity accounts of spiritualism; Stephen Leacock in "Personal Admissions" (in "Frenzied Fiction," YQ-L46 f) states in a subtly humorous fashion, his ideas of the "somewhere that is all bright and beautiful." Since the value of money is constantly decreasing, Mark Twain might interest you, in the "Esquimaux Maiden's Romance" (in "Women and Things," YQ-T91 w) he explains the mystery of becoming a millionaire on ten fish hooks. Perhaps you have not pondered on these questions but would you like to look over the half floor of the lowly Irish home with Seamus MacManus in his "Yourself and the Neighbors" (G42-M22) simple sketches but understanding as they reveal "lives not as barren as the bogs" or natures quite so rude as the hills. Alike in simplicity of treatment but far removed in setting is Lafcadio Hearn's fantastic oriental tale. In a "Cup of Tea" (Y-H38K). Still lovelier is his "Dropt of Dew"—a countless pearl of ghostly vapour." In which is fused eastern and western concepts of life.

If you are disappointed by finding too few of these, look for Jerome K. Jerome, well-known as author of "The Men in a Boat" and his solution of the Riddle of the Servant Girl, or the American Girl's Etiquette (in "American Wives and Others," YQ-148 a). Perhaps your search for some of the most recent books such as W. W. Jacobs, "Deep Waters" has been in vain, if so, why not be amused by the many complications and ingenious plans narrated in "Odd Crafts" (YQ-148 a). COPLEY THEATRE—"The Truants," a three-act comedy of English life and written by Wilfred T. Coleby, will be next week's play to be presented by the Henry Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre. The play was first produced in London at the Kingsway Theatre by Miss Lena Ashwell, the famous English actress-manager, who played the leading role, that of Freda Saville, a woman of advanced ideas, and who has written a book entitled: "Old Beliefs of the New Age." The play has some strong moments and some novel character drawing. There are excellent parts for Miss Newcombe, who plays Freda, Miss Ediss, Mr. Joy, Mr. Clive and Miss Roach. The part of Bill Chetwood will be played by a newcomer to the Henry Jewett Players, Percy Waram, who is sure to make a good impression.

THE LATE FREDERIC M. CREHORE

FUNERAL OF MR. CREHORE

Funeral services for the late Frederic Morton Crehore were held Saturday afternoon in the old St. Mary's Church, Newton Lower Falls, which he has attended all his life. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors. The service was in charge of Rev.

Lucian W. Rogers, rector of the church of the Redeemer at Chestnut Hill, and the rector of St. Mary's, Rev. Ransom M. Church. The boy choir sang three favorite hymns of Mr. Crehore, "Jerusalem the Golden," "Lead Kindly Light" and "O Paradise," hymns which had been sung at the funerals of Mr. Crehore's parents. The burial was at Mt. Auburn.

Petitions were also received for improvement in traffic conditions, Woodland road and Auburn street, for sewer in Mason road, and Pleasant street, for gravel sidewalks on Beacon street, Waban, of Fred R. Reid for a taxi cab license, of A. C. H. Walker for private garage, Canterbury road, Angelo Dinucci for pool tables at 425 Watertown street, and M. F. Reardon on account of damages for injuries received on Commonwealth avenue.

John W. Bouchard was granted Soldiers' relief, Patrick H. Hickey awarded $175 for injury to horse, P. A. Murray granted $15 for injury to property due to water leak, $3022 appropriated for Linwood avenue sewer, curbing laid on Middle street at cost of $996, sewers ordered laid in Beaumont avenue, Chandler place and vicinity and in Roslyn road, hearings ordered on the laying out of Eden avenue, on the widening to 70 feet of Walnut street, north of Washington street, and on taking land for sewer in Mason road. Leave to withdraw was granted on claims of Lillian Haigh and Gertrude Wiczorek on account of personal injuries, to K. T. Kelley on account of injury to clothing, on petition for sewer in Fair Oaks avenue, and to Lewis H. Bacon on permit to use building as garage on Chestnut street, Ward 5.

The Newton Real Estate Associates was granted permit for a multiple garage, rear of Austin street, M. L. Flaherty, licenses for bowling alleys at 357 Watertown street, Giannelli & Puccinelli to transfer pool room to 74 Elmwood street, to Lizzie H. Brett for a private garage, St. James street and the Edison Co. granted a pole location on Seminary avenue.

There was some discussion over the majority report of the license committee refusing a permit to G. W. Gordon for a 16-car garage on Centre place, Alderman Hollis suggested that the permit might be granted provided the corner owned by the Brackett Coal Co. could be widened and the matter was sent back to the License committee and the Public Works committee requested to report at once on the proposed rounding of the Brackett corner.

A statement to the voters prepared by the City Solicitor in regard to the referendum to be voted upon at the State election was approved and the state and city elections, ordered held on Nov. 4 and Dec. 9 respectively.

An ordinance allowing the school committee to have a petty cash account was ordered. There was some discussion over the ordinance establishing the salary of the mayor in 1920. Alderman Nichols explained that on account of the conflicting provisions of the Municipal Finance act and the city charter it had been found impossible to change the salary of the mayor. Legislation had been obtained this year requiring the board to establish the salary in the month of October to take effect next January, and authorizing changes to be made in the future in October of any year divisible by two. This would allow another change to be made next year. The Finance committee recommended that the salary be fixed at the present rate of $2500. Alderman Whidden suggested $3000. Alderman Angier said the salary ought not to be made so high as to lead men to seek the office for the money in it and Alderman Hollis retorted with the remark that the salary ought not to be so low as to limit candidates to only rich men. The matter was discussed by Aldermen Blake, McCarthy, and Nicholas and by a vote of 12 to 6 the sum of $3000 was adopted.

Aldermen McAulian and Holt were the only members absent. Adjourned at 10.05.

COMPANY C RECRUITING

A serious attempt is being made by the former members of Company C to reorganize the old company, and up to date over thirty men have agreed to join for the time being.

It is realized that the men who served in the World War are about fed up on soldiering but for the sake of the organization and rather than have strangers take over the work those that have signed feel that they cannot allow the old company spirit to die.

Captain Cormerais is acting as recruiting officer, assisted by Captain Edmunds and the men are signing up with the understanding that as soon as the company is formed and men can be found to take their places those who wish will retire from the service.

Credit is due to the enlisted men who have seen the service that these men have that they feel it their duty to start the company again even at a sacrifice and it is hoped that as was the case when recruiting was started for the war C Company will be the first to report that their company is complete.

Former members of the company as well as other men of other units who served in the war are requested to be at the armory any Monday or Thursday nights between eight and nine o'clock, where enrollment cards will be on hand for them to sign.

The enlistment is for one year unless sooner discharged, and while the minimum is 45 men it is hoped that this number will be exceeded in the next two weeks.

EDITORIAL

The voters of Newton irrespective of previous party affiliations have the choice on election day to declare themselves either on the side of law and order as represented by Governor Coolidge, or as bowing to the mandate of a certain class of our citizenship, happily a small minority, by voting for Mr. Long. There is but one choice. If Massachusetts is to stand before the country as a law-abiding community, it must re-elect Governor Coolidge by an overwhelming majority.

If you believe with Governor Coolidge as you certainly must believe, that "there is no right to strike against the public safety, by anybody, anywhere, any time" you will not only gladly vote for his re-election but you will urge all your friends and neighbors to do the same.

About 25 per cent of the registered voters of Newton failed to vote last year. Governor Coolidge received 3863 and Long, 1959. This year Newton ought to give Coolidge 5000 votes at least and a plurality of 3000. Will you be one?

The re-enlistment of Senator Thomas Weston, Jr., for another year of service in the State Guard indicates the spirit which animates the men of Newton of the present day.

Congratulations to the old First Church and its pastor, Rev. Edward M. Noyes, D.D., on the 25th anniversary of Dr. Noyes' pastorate.

The people of Newton are evidently not at all interested in the establishment of jitney service in this city.

COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL

Editor of the Newton Graphic: We ask the courtesy of your column to present a situation to the parents of boys who use Farlow road, Newton, Mass., in going to the Country Day School.

Farlow and Huntington roads are both blind roads, and end at about equal distances from the school. Chauffeurs who bring the scholars, through carelessness in turning at the end of Farlow road, (which is very narrow and difficult), have continually destroyed shrubbery, and in many instances have badly damaged fences, driveways, and other property of the residents at this point.

Mr. Kerns, the headmaster, has appealed a number of times to the boys to have their parents instruct the chauffeurs to turn at the junction of Farlow and Huntington roads, where there is a small park, which forms an easy turning point, and only two minutes from the end of both roads. In spite of such appeals from Mr. Kerns, and the repeated requests of the residents, who wish to save their property from further depredation, the abuse continues, and the residents, who are also interested in the vacant land beyond the end of Farlow road, see no relief, if such depredations continue, but to forbid trespassing on their property, thereby closing the path over the vacant land to the school. This action would cause a great inconvenience to the scholars.

The Country Day School is also reached by a good road from Oak Square, and also a driveway direct

Courtesy Current Affairs

The above cut represents the brass sun dial recently given to former president Henry I. Harriman of Newton, by the directors with whom he served in the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The dial is of brass and is heavily and elaborately engraved. The up-standing piece is set for the latitude of Boston and will register solar time in this latitude.

The following inscription appears on the dial:

from Kendrick street, which the majority of chauffeurs use. This appeal is directed particularly to the owners of cars, whose chauffeurs refuse to comply with the reasonable request of the property owners of Farlow road, and also to the special request of Mr. Kerns. Very respectfully, FARLOW HILL PROPERTY OWNERS

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

A meeting of the entire Local Council of the scout organization of Newton, Needham and Wellesley was held at the Newton Club last Tuesday, and the various activities of the last four months presented to its members.

Mr. J. C. Irwin, the Scout Commissioner, gave his report, stating that conditions were normal, with a membership of 428 scouts and 45 officers. Actually, Mr. Irwin said, there were more than shown by the figures owing to the fact that five troops registered in September, and all the scouts had not as yet got on the rolls. The prospects for the future were extremely bright, as negotiations for the formation of three more troops were going forward, with the prospect of others.

The appointment of two new Deputy Scout Commissioners was announced. Mr. John Benbow, of 62 Bellevue street, Newton, to have charge of the troops on the north side of the city, and Mr. W. S. Radway, of 103 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, to take charge of the south side.

This coming season, the emphasis is going to be laid on efficiency of the various scout troops already formed, rather than a drive for a large number of boys. Of course all those boys that wish to become scouts will be taken care of as far as possible, but the feeling of the scout officials is to increase the rank of the boys already enrolled, making them all first class scouts if possible. In connection with this desire of increasing the efficiency of the present scout organization, Mr. G. W. Talbot, the Scout Executive, is going to run a school for patrol leaders and assistants, the first session to occur next Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock at the West Newton Congregational Church parish house. The school is to be in charge of Mr. Harland D. Crowell, Scoutmaster of Troop 7, and he will be aided by a corps of experts, including Commissioner J. C. Irwin, Lieutenant James C. Irwin, Jr., Mr. William Irwin, Mr. E. J. Ovington, Mr. Talbot and others, and will be conducted somewhat on the lines of the Army non-commissioned officers schools. The emphasis of the instruction will be on the training of leaders among the scouts, and not on the learning of tests, although each scout will be expected to advance one grade in rank before he finishes the course. Certificates of proficiency will be given to those satisfactorily passing the course, it is hoped that a real camping trip for the highest four or five scouts may be arranged. All troops are requested to send their present scout officers, and, if they wish, two promising scouts who have the makings of a leader in them.

TROOP II BOY SCOUTS

Because of Scoutmaster Hilliard's serving in the State Guard doing duty in Boston, Troop II did not start its meetings until late in the season. At the first meeting the following officers were elected: Leonard Simonds, senior patrol leader; Cedric Valentine, junior patrol leader; Raphael Fox, George Harding, and Charles Hilliard with their assistants, Garret Houghton, Richard Walter and William Henrich of the Bear, Flying Eagle and Eagle, Patrols, respectively.

On Columbus day seventeen scouts and Mr. Ovington took an all-day hike up to a sand pit in Weston. Scouts passed the following tests: For Scout's Pace, Denty, Valley, Preston, Hall, Blamire, and Hiebeck were passed. Preston, Hall, Blamire, and Hiebeck cooked their quarter pound of meat satisfactorily. Preston and Hall baked their potatoes. Fire was lighted with two matches by Preston, Hall, Blamire and Houghton. Hiebeck passed his tracking test, while Foster cooked his twist, and Henrick felled his tree.

At the meeting Friday night at the Methodist parish house, Mr. Hilliard announced that a cup would be given to the patrol having the most points on the first of June. Points will be awarded for Conduct, First Aid, Signaling, and Entertainment.

Mr. Talbot, who happened to be at the meeting gave the plans for the patrol leaders' school.

GIRL SCOUTS

Troop 3 of the Newton Girl Scouts starts the year with seventy enthusiastic members, Fifty Juniors and twenty Seniors.

The work of the Juniors is very varied, as some are just learning to tie their first knot, while others are first class scouts, with arms already decorated with merit badges. So many of the girls have been by the sea or lakeside this summer, that we are beginning our work with the study of the compass, resuscitation, and all the other things that will help us to win the swimming and the boat-swains merit badges.

Our scouting afternoons are divided into three periods: first an opening meeting and business meeting, then a period of study of some part of scout work, and then games and fun for the rest of the time, relay races and charades being our favorites. Last week we acted out "am-big-you-us," and for the whole work had a game of leap-frog.

One of the acting lieutenants in the Junior troop, is a senior scout and a charter member of the troop. How true a thing it is when our older girls are so full of scout craft and scout spirit that they can pass it on to the younger scouts! The helpful big sisterly attitude of the seniors towards the Juniors, is of great importance for the future of scouting, for as time goes on, more and more of our officers will be ex-scouts.

The Senior troop will speak for themselves.

The senior troop of the Newton Centre Girl Scouts, under the leadership of Miss Priscilla Ordway, has started this year with the characteristic "peppy" spirit which they have shown for the past three years.

The girls have organized this year in the form of a club having five committees: outdoor, cooking, educational, entertainment, and welfare. Three weeks ago the girls had great fun sleeping out on the piazza of Mr. Turner's studio in Oak Hill. Last Saturday they rode their bicycles to the Charles River, then they went boating, working toward the boatswain merit badge. The cooking committee provides for a supper given every month as a time for general good fun to say nothing of mighty good "cater".

The educational committee has prepared for this winter a millinery course conducted by an experienced teacher. The girls are all enthusiastic and the main topic of the day is hats. In this we are doing something useful but at the same time making a game out of it. The entertainment committee is a popular one. Indeed, this next week we are going to have the best time at a Halloween party! Yea Spooks. The entertainment and welfare committees go hand in hand for we hope to produce a play for the benefit of some welfare work. We shall try to make definite use of this committee and hope Newton Centre will realize that it exists for if we should think only of ourselves we would not be good Scouts.

REPUBLICAN RALLIES

The Republicans of the city will hold a series of rallies thruout the city next Wednesday evening, culminating in a talkfest at Bray Hall, Newton Centre.

There will be automobile parades, red fire and fireworks, music by two bands, and some outdoor speaking, in each village. Later in the evening there will be addresses by Congressman Hicks of New York, Congressman Luce of this district, Mr. J. Weston Allen, District Attorney, Nathan A. Tuttle, Mayor Edwin O. Childs, and Senator Thomas Weston, Jr.

MOTHERS' REST ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Mothers' Rest Association of Newton Centre was held in Trinity Parish House, Newton Centre, last Thursday.

Reports of the year's work were given by the officers, chairman of committees, the matron, and the nurse of the Rest.

In the absence of the Rev. Edward Sullivan who was suddenly called away, the Scripture was read by Professor English of the Newton Theological Institution.

As next year will be the 20th anniversary a special effort will be made to secure 1,000 members by that date. It is hoped that some business men who appreciate the good work of the Society will contribute generously in order to celebrate 20 years of good management.

The board of managers for the following year are as follows: Mrs. Everett D. Burr, president; Mrs. Samuel Ward, first vice-president; Mrs. Cyrus S. Chapin, second vice-president; Mrs. Henry H. Kendall, secretary; Mrs. Warner R. Holt, treasurer; Mrs. William J. Phelps, auditor, also for three years, Mrs. Solomon Young, Mrs. Sylvanus G. Morse, for two years, Mrs. Charles B. ## WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

A prize essay contest on the general subject of "The Pilgrims" is a concrete piece of work for the clubs suggested by the Education department of the State Federation.

Since in this coming year, 1920, we are to celebrate the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims in Plymouth, "it is especially fitting right here in Massachusetts for the young people to recall the sturdy virtues and the no less sturdy faiths of these early settlers, whether their own family history goes back to the first decade of colonial history, to the eighteenth or the nineteenth century, or whether it began here only a decade or two ago," suggests the chairman of the Federation department. It is proposed that the contest close on April 1, 1920, but it is none too early to begin upon the arrangements.

The Federation Bulletin offers to print one of the essays in the June issue. Most appropriately such a contest was initiated and has been already organized by the Education committee of the Plymouth Woman's Club.

Club correspondents are earnestly requested to sign the reports sent in for publication in this column. It occasionally happens that two reports are received, but the club editor wishes to publish only the official one. Please address them to 94 Charlesbank road, Newton, and not to the Graphic office.

In addition to reports of Commencement and of Founder's day there will be an address on "Reconstruction Work in China" by Mrs. Matilda Calder Thurston, late president of Gilling College, Nanking, a graduate of Mount Holyoke. Newton is largely represented upon the Executive Board of the Boston Association this year, the president being Mrs. Herbert S. Kimball of Waban, a vice-president, Mrs. Wilbur D. Gilpatrick of Auburndale, a secretary, Mrs. Albert P. Everts of Newton Centre, the treasurer, Miss Marion B. Gibbs of Newtonville, the assistant treasurer, Mrs. Herbert S. Bloomfield, Newtonville, and the auditor, Miss Lena L. Clapp, Newton.

Marshall, who was in charge of the program, told facts concerning the life of Eugene Field. Selections from his writings were read by Mrs. C. H. Keeler, Mrs. Charlton D. Miller and Miss Amanda Webster.

At the meeting of the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emery W. Clark, Miss Harriet M. Ward was in charge of the work, the subject being the topic, the High Cost of Living and the American Federation of Labor. Tea was served by the hostess.

The Auburndale Review Club held its regular meeting at the home of Miss Ella B. Smith, 15 Vesta avenue, Oct. 21st. Miss Ranlett, a former member of the club, gave a most interesting and instructive lecture on Dante. Her treatment showed ability and keen appreciation of the subject.

NEWTON FEDERATION

The Executive Board meeting of the Newton Federation, which was held in Newtonville last Monday morning, was an occasion of much interest. A Rummage Sale for the benefit of the philanthropic fund of the Federation was announced by the chairman, Mrs. Ralph G. Henry. It will be held on November 19-22, in Newtonville if possible. Trucks will collect donations in all parts of the city. It is not too soon to search the back eadles in our attics for the idle articles which will be of service, both to the Philanthropic fund, and to their buyers.

The opportunities and needs of the West Newton Music School were dramatically presented by Miss Elizabeth Fyffe, and Mrs. Howland. The school is making a genuine contribution to the civic betterment of Newton. Miss Carrie H. Hull, the new Executive Secretary of the Newton Welfare Bureau, gave a vivid account of the activities of that organization. The Bureau does not speak of "charity." It does "family social work," co-operating with the various social agencies of the city. There is a great need of friendly visitors, who can tactfully take the American idea into homes. Mrs. Hull will conduct a class for volunteers.

Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, of the Civics and Social Service Committee, reported three hundred and fifty girls as having graduated this summer from the Girls' Health League course. "Mary" the demonstration doll proved very popular. Much has been done in the interest of children's health in the public schools. Books and quiet toys are needed for the waiting room of the dental clinic. Some of the other interests of this committee are the "well baby clinic," continuation schools, and scholarships.

Mrs. Edmund I. Leeds, chairman of the Education Committee, reported her committee as keeping in close touch with the High School lunch rooms and considering various problems of interest to teachers and pupils.

The President announced the Fall meeting of the Federation to be held in Masonic Hall, Newtonville, on Wednesday, November 5, at 2.30 P. M. Miss Georgie A. Bacon, First Vice-President of the General Federation, will speak on Federation Interests, emphasizing the nation-wide thrift campaign. A discussion on thrift will follow, led by Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, Thrift chairman for Massachusetts. The chorus of the Newton Community Club will furnish music and tea will be served after the meeting.

IMPRESSION OF FRANCE AND BELGIUM

Interesting Letter from a Resident of Newton, who has Recently been Abroad

The following letter was recently received from a Newton gentleman, who went abroad this summer. "Ned" is to whom he refers in his son.

Brussels, Sept. 14, 1919.

My dear Ned—
I have just returned from a wonderful trip to the Flanders front with a Belgian officer, who fought all over that country, finally bringing his gun across over Yser at Dixmude in 1918. He was Ned's captain and we went over much of the ground where he got his baptism of fire and where he won his Croix de Guerre. We started from Brussels about 4 P. M. on Sept. 12th and drove to Ostende, via Ghent and Bruges. Not much to see there, except the destruction of the trees along the road, every bridge blown up and occasional gaps in the road, crossed by temporary wooden structures, where the Boche had blown up the road during their retreat. We spent the night at Ostende, where by the way, I met Tucker Brown, and started the next morning on our trip. We took the road along the beach, where we could and began to see our first evidences of war: concrete gun foundations, abris (shelters), pill-boxes for machine guns, an occasional abandoned gun, barbed wire, and ruined houses. At Westende we had to go inland as the road was impassable along the beach. Pretty soon Capt. Aubon said "We are now coming to Nieuport and the famous Yser." We passed thru what had been a wood of several acres in extent—now nothing but a few stumps, pitted and ripped by bullets, crossed a temporary bridge, near the blown up locks, and stopped in Nieuport. It was on a city of 8000 or more, I should guess—now it is a heap of bricks—I mean just what I say! Two or three ruined houses and for the rest, a wall or two, or a heap of brick. From there to Ramskapelle, where we looked over the position held by Aubon's battery, before Ned joined, visited the abris where he (Aubon) lived, studied the map of the land toward the Boche position, etc., etc. Our next stop was Dixmude, or what they said was Dixmude, for there was nothing to indicate a town, except a few piles of brick. Here the Boches were on one bank of the Yser and the Allies on the other, and they were pounding each other all the time. The Yser is about as wide as the Charles at Rivieride. We did not see it, but went on a few miles to the position held by the 11th Battery at the end of the first day of the 1918 offensive after the Belgians crossed the Yser. It stayed here for 2 days, "in the air." Something held up the advance on its right, and it didn't know whether the Boche would slip around its right and take it in the rear or whether it would make liaison with its friends. It also had about a dozen rounds per gun. Here we lunched, and, as this is not a prohibition country, drank a health to the 11th Battery, 5th Regt. F. A. Armee Belge, the finest Battery in the service. Then thru the Paschendale wood (if that's the way you spell it?) to Ooskerke where Ned won his Croix.

It is impossible to describe the wood, except to say that there isn't any. As far as one can see, there is a few stumps standing, ground pitted with shell holes, covered with concrete pill boxes, barbed wire, ruined farms, etc., etc. At Ooskerke I was interested to see Ned's abris, about 6 ft. x 4 ft., in which 4 men lived; now with 6 inches of water in it, and a pair of old shoes—well, we all wondered whether they were his or his present (then future) brother-in-law's. I also saw the road down which he and the above mentioned brother-in-law carried a wounded man for one-fourth of a mile—the Boche line was only about 750 metres away and pounding the road steadily.

Then we drove to some other places of minor importance, but interesting to me because one was where Ned joined the famous 11th Battery and came under fire for the first time. At last we came to Ypres (Wipers). Incidentally I discovered why Tommy Atkins calls it Wipers—the name, in Flemish—is Yser and if that isn't Wiper I don't know what is! Words fail me! It was a beautiful little Flemish town of 17,000 people, with certain wonderful buildings, the Cloth Halls especially, were unique examples of their period of architecture. Now it is the abomination of desolation! It is useless to try to describe it. Words fail and couldn't do justice to it, at that! Photographs cannot show it—you can take in a few square meters, but that is all. There the desolation is measured by square miles. As we drove into the square, on our left were the ruins of the Cloth Halls, in front, something else, St. Martin's Cathedral, maybe—on the right 4 Boche howitzers, and a small one-story wooden shack, where we got some beer, for it was hot. There was nothing much else to be seen, except piles of brick. The square was filled with people, sight seeing soldiers, group of Boche prisoners, marching under guard, vendors of souvenirs, pictures, etc., autos coming and going, like a Kermesse or a cattle show at home. Over all a blinding hot sun and a cloud of dust. After we had washed the dust out of our mouths, we decided to call it a day, it was nearly 4 P. M. and we were 5 hours away, so we started home. We turned out of the square and drove for several miles along a straight road. Formerly it was lined with trees and had smiling fields and gardens on both sides; now not a tree to be seen except the usual occasional stub, the once pleasant fields were pitted with shell holes and littered with abandoned equipment. Here and there a tank, some standing on end, others half buried by a shell explosion; all ripped and torn with shot, and rusty with the weather but even at that grim and powerful looking.

Imagine several square miles of territory pitted with holes from 5 to 25 ft. in diameter and from 3 to 10 ft. deep, and you have the appearance of the terrain. Up and down the road, heavy lorries loaded with every imaginable form of rubbish are moving. There are frequent signs, as "Heavy Artillery Ammunition dump." Danger, keep out," etc. Gangs of Boche prisoners, guarded by Belgian soldiers with fixed bayonets, suddenly cleaning up, loading and unloading lorries, etc. Swarthy East Indian soldiers driving mule teams, Chinese coolies jabbering along the road, Belgian peasants helping build roads, motor cycles, automobiles, horse drawn carts, an English officer passing in an auto, looking calm, cool and clean with the general air of owning the universe and over all a dust cloud. That is the picture.

From there we passed thro Menin, Courtraix, Tournai and Mons—all showing signs of Boche destructiveness. In the villages every house was marked with the number of men it could accommodate.

Finally at 9:30 we reached our destination, Le Pachy, very dirty, very hungry and very thirsty. At 11:30 to bed in Mariemont, well sated with battlefields. I may go to Rheims next week at that.

It is great fun living in the lap of luxury. I arrive at Mariemont; the man takes my valise, conducts me to my room, unpacks my valise, brings hot water with everybody's hat, C. pere, wishes the auto to go to Le Pachy? I state my wish: at the appointed time, a discreet tap on the door: "Mons. C. l'auto est ici." I go down, the liveried chauffeur touches his hat and says "Bon jour, monsieur." I reply, get in and off we go! On arriving, a man in livery helps me out, takes my hat and cane and I go in, shake hands with everybody, have a cigarette and drink if I want it. Pretty soon the door opens and a liveried man comes in, bows before Madame—says "Madame, est servi." I hasten forward, offer my arm; Mons.—offers his to the chief lady and we go into the dining room. Mme. takes her seat, and I sit on her right, Mons. sits opposite Mme.

With his lady on his right, the next important male guest sits on Mme.'s left. Then comes the meal: at least 2 men in livery; the ladies are served first, starting with the one on Mons.' right and ending with Mme. Then the men; beginning with me! Each course is offered twice, the meal ending with a desert, some fruit and usually, candy.

Meanwhile the major-domo has been circulating about, filling your glasses and murmuring in your ear "Chateau Yquem," "Chateau Leville," "Cham-bertin," etc. You usually have a white Bordeaux, a red Bordeaux, a Burgundy (red) and a champagne, and your glass is filled as soon as emptied. When all is over, Mme. rises. I present my arm and we walk out. Here we have cigarettes, coffee, fine champagne (cognac in this case 50 years old) Benedictine, etc.

The whole business takes from 1-1 1/2 to 2 hours, then you do as you please till dinner, when it is all done over, only more so. About 11 P. M. champagne, mineral water, ale, beer, and whiskey, is brought in, you take your choice and then, if you are wise, you say "Good night" and go to Mariemont. Here the man asks what time you wish breakfast; you tell him and go to your room, undress, hang your clothes outside your door, put out your shoes and go to bed. In the morning at the proper hour, your hot water and breakfast arrive, your clothes, carefully brushed and folded and your shoes properly cleaned are brought in. You arise, shave, wash and have breakfast. Coffee, milk, sugar (there is none in Paris, only saccharine and water, beastly stuff), rolls, butter, eggs and for me a bottle of mineral water. After breakfast, dress and amuse yourself. About 12:30 an auto arrives, you go down, the chauffeur touches his hat and says "Bon jour, monsieur." You reply and say "Est Vons, van R—vennant avec moi?" that isn't French but the chauffeur understands and says "Oui, monsieur, il descend a l'instant."

Pretty soon van R—comes down, we take off our hats, bow, shake hands and say "Bon jour, monsieur, avez vous bien dormez?" "Oui, tres bien monsieur, at vous?" "Bien, aussi, monsieur." "Ah! cest tres bon." We then do "after you my dear Alphonse" for a bit in front of the auto, and finally I yield, bow and get in; van R—follows, closes the door and we go roaring off to Le Pachy to begin it all over! When you are leaving you mention to "le bon Charles" that you are leaving at such an hour; he says "Oui, monsieur" and you slip him a folded bill, you got to Le Pachy; at the appointed hour, the car arrives, with your valise, etc., in it, you say "Good bye" have a last whiskey and soda and drive off to Brussels, 50 kilometres away, arriving there in one hour. Speaking of speed, our speedometer stood at 110 for 10 minutes the other day! That is kilometres, of course, not miles but even at that is some speed; I think about 67 miles per hour, and the car was a Cadillac! Nothing could touch us and luckily nothing did or I wouldn't be writing this. The folded bill is a great institution. I went to see about my passage home just after arriving—nothing doing in the 1st cabin till the end of November, so I booked 2nd for Oct. 1st. Today, on arriving here in Paris, I went down again, same reply. I said "Well, I am booked 2nd cabin for Oct. 1st." The young man said "Yes sir. Is that satisfactory?" I said "No, it's not. If anyone wants to change to a later date, I am willing to pay 100 francs for the accommodation." He thought a minute and then said "I expect a gentleman to give up his passage. Can you return at 1:30 and I think I can give you something on Deck D." I said "All right, I'll be here!" I was and got an outside room on Deck C. I slipped him a folded bill and the deed was done! Simple as rolling off a log—if you know how! Of course, I am not alone, but I know the cabin and it is very comfortable assembled for a discussion of culinary problems.

"To digress a moment, young ladies, compare the lot of the housekeeper of to-day with that of the housewife of but a decade or two ago. In those days it was a case of bake, bake, bake, everlastingly. The four walls of the kitchen spelled 'prison' to many a woman who should have been out enjoying the fresh air, or extending her sphere of usefulness beyond that of house-keeping. Can any of you tell me one thing in particular that has come to vary the monotony of the work, and give an example? Yes, Miss Walker."

"I would say that ready-to-serve foods are one of the greatest boons to the modern housewife. We all know what they are—from canned goods to cookies. But there is one line of products, in particular, which I should like to mention."

"The floor is all yours, Miss Walker."

"The products of the National Biscuit Company, which I have used for many years, are the most convenient and perfect in the line of products, in particular, which I should like to mention."

"In my kitchen, which is so small, I find the products of the National Biscuit Company, which I have used for many years, are the most convenient and perfect in the line of products, in particular, which I should like to mention."

Today, what a difference! Instead of an hour or two spent every day at the batter bowl, or with the cookie-cutter and rolling pin, followed by another hour or so of hot waiting at the oven, the modern woman simply telephones her grocer for certain well-known table dainties baked by the National Biscuit Company.

A meeting of the members of Company C who served in the World War was held at the Armory on Monday evening for the purpose of organizing an association.

Captain Comerai called the meeting to order and explained its purpose, suggesting that the men should get together and keep up their interest and associations formed while they were in the United States service. He also suggested that the officers should be filled by the men themselves and not by officers.

Thomas Hickey was elected commander; Wesley F. Pease, vice-commander; George Henriks, adjutant, and Robert Cunningham, finance officer.

Captain Comerai on account of having led the old company into the service was elected honorary commander and Captain Edwards a former lieutenant who was promoted to Captain and awarded the D. S. C. for gallantry was elected honorary vice-commander. An executive committee consisting of Captains Comerai and Edmunds, Frank Wilcox, Arthur L. Gaw, and James McDevitt was also elected.

Dues were placed at a dollar a year and an effort will be made to have every man who was a member of Company C on August 5th, 1917, present at the next meeting which will be held November 3d at the Armory where plans for a reunion will be discussed.

A committee consisting of the vice-commander, the adjutant, finance officer, Messrs. Wilcox, Gaw, and McDevitt was appointed to draw up a set of by-laws and after voting that the name should be The War Veterans of Company C of Newton, the meeting adjourned.

LODGES

On Monday evening, Oct. 27th, Mt. Ida Council, No. 1247, Royal Arcanum, will entertain the members of the Council, who served their country in the World War. Mayor Edwin O. Childs will present each one with a certificate of Honorable Commendation from the Supreme Council.

District Deputy Henry A. Rambonet will make an official visit accompanied by several members of the Grand Council. This meeting coming so near the date of the Armistice a year ago, should be an incentive for an extra effort to get together on this occasion.

the commonwealth was imposed upon this department at the time of its establishment. Accordingly a comprehensive survey of the purchasing methods of the state have been made and records have been kept of articles purchased and prices paid. Early in the study a conclusion was reached that the installation of a central purchasing agent and staff for all purchases of the state, with the addition of a storehouse, and a distributing and accounting system would involve the commonwealth in such a tremendous overhead expense that the saving obtained would not be material by comparison, while the administering machinery would of necessity be complicated.

At the same time it was appreciated that the abuses under the present methods of purchasing were grave and serious enough to demand radical changes. The general scheme which appeared practical was a consolidation of purchases under some branches and stricter control in others with a supervisory function with power to regulate over all of the activities. As a result of these conclusions a report was submitted to the General Court of this year which recommended the creation of the office of Superintendent of Buildings at the State House, who should have charge of the purchasing of all office furniture, fixtures and equipment, stationery and office supplies for all executive and administrative departments and divisions and boards thereof, except the paper for the state printing contract. The bill accompanying this report was embodied in the so-called consolidation bill and as such enacted into law.

The further study of the purchasing and handling of supplies is still going on and the unsettled condition prevailing in markets of all commodities have rendered impractical the framing of rules and regulations to govern the action of departments and institutions in this field, so that the only rule proposed has been that governing the purchase of motor vehicles.

It has been realized all along that the consolidation of departments and centralization of the control of institutions would greatly simplify the problems of purchasing and distribution, and I have felt that a complete system of purchasing and detailed regulations governing it could be more satisfactorily arranged after a change in organization had been effected. The investigations undertaken in this study of purchasing and the records thus obtained have been of real value in the review and preparation of the budget estimates.

I have tried to tell briefly of the larger undertakings of the office, but perhaps the biggest task of all is the constant attention required for the mass of small matters which either come to the Supervisor's office because of definite authority conferred upon it or for suggestion as to what should be done. The Governor and Council may call for information with regard to the administration of any department, institution or individual; the legislature may call for an investigation of the delay in the printing of a document or the methods obtained in an undertaking only in process, and the nature of the study of yesterday may bear no relation to that of today.

It is the endeavor of this office in every case to approach the investigation with open mind, with a desire to see all appropriations and expenditures which are spent, interpreted into deeds of real accomplishment, and an intention of recommending practical solutions of problems based on experience and business judgment rather than experimental theorizing. The two factors which I believe to be responsible for the results of the past three years have been the spirit in which the work was undertaken by the office and the commonwealth.

I have spoken of the Supervisor's office as a control office. It could perhaps be better described as the control agency of the Governor and Council on the one hand, and the legislature on the other hand; a connecting link between the executive and the legislative and an investigating agency for both. (Current Affairs.)

NEWTON CLASSICAL HIGH SCHOOL

The students who have been taking English, and who were interested in the recent production of "Hamlet" at the Tremont Theatre, were given a special chance last Friday afternoon, and enjoyed a very profitable and pleasurable matinee.

The head of the English Department has recently suggested a new form of study, which seems to have met with remarkable approval among most of the English classes. The plan provides for one day each week, on the Tremont Theatre, were given a special chance last Friday afternoon, and enjoyed a very profitable and pleasurable matinee.

The Student Council held its first regular session last Wednesday, the girls meeting in the Library, while the boys took up their business in the Lecture Hall. Among other important things was the election of officers, and the establishment of different committees to look after the activities which require such direction. Newton has never been governed wholly by a student body, but this Council has always helped to carry out such a policy, and has not often failed to show to the pupils the need for caring for school property, and obeying school laws.

The tennis tournament has finally come to a close. Donald Hill won the finals from Willis Bell by taking three sets out of five. The contest was full of interesting plays and exciting moments both fellows exhibiting fine tennis. The winner is only a sophomore, so that with two or three years in the ranks of Newton's Tennis Team, he certainly ought to be a great asset.

Next Saturday Newton meets Somerville in football for its second game in the Suburban League. It is very probable that the team will be strengthened by the return of Robert Garrity, Seavey, who is still unable to work regularly, will be replaced by Smith, who showed up well for a new man, in the Everett game. The line, has been trained to work with unity and speed, during the past week and it is hoped that its showing will be in general far superior to any former performances. Keith will undoubtedly be unable to play his regular position, and Annabelle, a back who has lately come to the front will fill his place.

Newton Vocational School

Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead addressed the school Oct. 20th on "The League of Nations." Mrs. Mead presented the need of the League in her usual clear and convincing manner, and described conditions in Europe as she observed them in 1919.

Principal M. W. Murray will present the subject of "Prison Reforms" at the Assembly, October 27th.

Dr. Brewer, head of the Vocation Bureau at Harvard, will speak to the teachers of the city upon Vocational Guidance, Thursday, October 24th.

The lecture by Earl Barnes this week will be upon the subject, "Nationalism Versus Internationalism."

In his lecture to the Vocational teachers last week he discussed "The Psychology of the Imagination."

Stearns School

The furniture for the portable building has been delivered and placed in the assembly hall thus making a full session possible for the first and second grades.

The dressmaking and millinery classes, held in the evening, continue to be well attended, about twenty-five girls being present Tuesday evening. Much interest and enthusiasm has been shown in the work.

Stearns football team has accepted the challenge of the Burr team and a hard game is expected next Tuesday afternoon on the Stearns Playground when these two teams meet. This should be a near championship game, as both teams have acquired the habit of continued success and do not know what defeat means.

The autumn dance of the Girls' Club was held last Friday evening in the school hall. Seventy-five couples enjoyed the music furnished by the Crescent Orchestra. A feature of the evening was a novelty dance, each couple being numbered. One by one the couples were called off the floor until but one couple remained. This couple was given a box of candy.

The Mothers' Club held its first meeting of the season on Monday evening. There was a large attendance and

The school football team played the Mason School team at Newton Centre. The score was nothing to nothing, but the Wolcott team has challenged the team to finish the game at the Waban playground. The Wolcott team was led by J. Evans; it, R. Marsh; J. K. Allen; centre, D. Dinrock; rg, C. Stahlicher; rt, E. Symonds; re, L. Reeves; qb, M. Hill; rh, H. Johnson; fb, R. Hunt; lb, A. Burnett.

The Girl Scouts of Waban are playing a tennis tournament. The winners so far are: Dorothy Frost and Frances Sutton. They are both in the eighth grade.

Mason School

Miss Vera Willard, fifth grade teacher was married on Oct. 9 to Dr. Charles Wakeling. Mrs. Wakeling will continue teaching until the end of the school year.

Miss Mildred MacFadden, teacher in grade six has resigned and gone to a new position in Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Edith C. Arey, sixth grade teacher has resigned to accept a position in Lasell.

A chorus from the school sang "America" at the unveiling of the memorial tablet to Dr. S. F. Smith, on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 21.

The fourth grades, in automobiles, toured the city last week and learned much about Newton.

Classroom discussion of the trip is planned for Friday afternoon.

Much interest is already being manifested in the plans for the next trip arranged for Nov. 6, 1919, to the Athenaeum Press of Ginn & Co., in Cambridge.

Burr School

The two 8th grade rooms of the Burr School have formed a Current Events Club. Each room has a separate club. Miss Kelley's room meets Wednesday. The other club meets Friday. Several members of each room have been invited to the meetings of the other club.

A request has been made that the people of this district who own automobiles lend them for a trip through Newton for the members of the 4th grade. On Wednesday Mr. Dinneen of the Williams School is planning to take the 4th grade on such a trip.

Roger Wolcott School

Miss Grace A. Hubbard is now teaching the seventh grade in sewing. They are doing Junior Red Cross work, the material coming from the Red Cross Headquarters. The "layettes" that they are now making, are going to France and Belgium and consist of a complete outfit, including a bonnet, a dress, booties, a packet, and a shirt.

Clafin School

The Clafin School eighth grade football team beat Clafin School seventh grade team 6 to 0 Wednesday afternoon at Pulsifer's field.

The Clafin School paper, "Clafin's Own," is progressing and expects to have the first edition out about Christmas time.

Country Day School

The senior class at the Country Day School has elected as seven members of the class book committee, Frank M. Seamans, Jr., of Weston, James J. Phelan, Jr., of Boston, Louis R. Nichols of Brookline, Morgan H. Harris of Chestnut Hill, Henry N. Pratt of West Newton, Rhodes Lockwood of Boston and Winthrop S. Clapp of Newton Highlands. The committee members have organized by choosing Seamans as chairman, Clapp as business manager and Harris, treasurer. Lockwood was appointed art editor, Phelan photographic editor, Nicholas, sporting editor and Pratt, editor in charge of school notes. The selection of Frank Seamans as chairman of the committee completes a unique list of honors bestowed and you'll find Polarine is the right oil," remarked the veteran transportation manager. "Give a truck or a passenger car the right dose of Polarine and your motor will stay powerful and keep remarkably free from carbon."

"The reason? Polarine retains its body at cylinder heat. That means full compression and the utmost power from every drop of gas. Properly used, Polarine burns up clean and goes out with the exhaust. Means a lot in keeping down fuel bills and costs for overhauling."

Newton Community Club

Professor Elizabeth F. Fisher of Wellesley College gave a most interesting and enlightening lecture before the Community Club yesterday afternoon on "The Conservation of Natural Resources." Conservation, in the last few years has come to be narrowed down to merely one phase, that of sacrifice and saving, chiefly of food, but in reality it is a broad thing applying to the misuse of all the products of the earth. It means so to use the natural resources upon which food, fuel, and clothes depend, that we may have what we ourselves need, and that there be some left for the coming generations.

Conservation received its first impetus from the conference of governors called by President Roosevelt, a second impetus has come through the war. The speaker told how an inventory of all the countries' natural resources had been made before the war and how patriotic scientific men unable to go to war were sent out by the government to hunt for needed minerals; how potash has been found in rich lake deposits in California and in Nebraska and how it has been made from kelp; how we have succeeded in extracting nitrogen from the air—all these activities having been brought from other countries before the war. The progress of making dyes until we are now well equipped was touched upon. She stated that the present known supply of petroleum will not last more than sixteen years and that we have used already about one-half of all the merchantable timber. The possibilities of water-power and the urgent necessity of employing it in order to conserve fuel were stressed.

THE LEONARD GALLERIES

ENTERTAINS CO. A

The officers of Company A, Newton Constabulary, Mass. State Guard, entertained the men of that Company at the Newton Club last Saturday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon, a group photograph was made of the Company and bowling, billiards, pool, squash and handball were played.

An excellent banquet was served at six o'clock, at which Capt. Joseph A. Bryant presided. There was a good cabaret consisting of songs by the Company quartet, Messrs. Sydney A. Clark, Percy R. Ziegler, Harlan H. Ballard and Herbert G. Sumner and by two colored professionals.

An unusual feature of the affair was the fact that every man present, some sixty or more made a speech.

Capt. Bryant was presented with a fine travelling bag as a souvenir of the occasion.

The body was cremated at Mt. Auburn and the ashes buried in the Newton Cemetery. The pallbearers included his brothers, Charles L. Coppins and Alfred F. ## THE STATE GUARD

The Newton Company of the State Guard was partially relieved last Saturday, when 44 men were furloughed home, leaving but 38 men on duty. The latter have been consolidated with platoons from Clinton and Southboro, covering the same territory as before and retaining their headquarters in the South Army. They are in charge of Lieut. MacClellan.

The men furloughed and those to stay on duty was determined by lot. On Friday afternoon there was an interesting event, when the company presented Captain Henry W. Crowell with a handsome gold watch, chain and Masonic charm. The presentation speech was made by Private Alfred N. Miner. The watch bears the inscription, "To Captain Henry W. Crowell from Company A of Newton, 11th Infantry, M. S. G., October, 1919" and expressed the appreciation of the men for Captain Crowell's "unselfish, sympathetic and manly leadership."

10 CENT FARES

To Take Effect Tomorrow on Local Street Railway Lines

The fare on all lines of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway system for the next three months at least will be ten cents as the Massachusetts Public Service Commission has just approved the request of the company to that effect. The Commission, however, does not approve the request for a two-cent transfer charge. The new rates go into effect tomorrow.

The company has been charging 7 cents, with an additional transfer charge of 3 cents, on all its lines in Waltham and Newton, except those formerly owned by the Lexington & Boston, the Newton & Boston and the Commonwealth Avenue street railway companies. A fare of 10 cents, with free transfer privileges, has been charged on the remainder of the company's lines.

As a result of the increase in wages granted to employees of the company, amounting to an additional financial burden of from $140,000 to $180,000 a year, the company filed a new schedule of fare, to be effective Sept. 20, for a uniform fare of ten cents on all its lines, with a charge of two cents for all transfers. This schedule was suspended by order of the Public Service Commission, to October 20.

After various hearings on the matter, the commission suggested a rearrangement of the existing free zones and the establishment of a five-cent fare without transfer privilege. While that plan provided a lower rate for short-haul riders, it fixed a rate for long-distance riders higher in some cases than the tariff proposed by the company. Many of the communities interested in this fare, question approved the suggested plan, but the company argued for further experiment with the ten-cent fare.

COZENS—FARNHAM

The best man was Mr. Hawley Rising of Boston, and the ushers were Mr. Ralph Farnham, brother of the bride, Mr. Morton Cole, Mr. Harrison Hyslop of Newtonville, and Mr. Frank Badger of Brookline. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony.

After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cozens will live at 68 Allerton road for the winter.

RE-ELECT NATHAN A. TUFTS DISTRICT ATTORNEY

"Mr. Tufts has been one of the most efficient district attorneys in the history of Middlesex County. He has been complimented repeatedly on the handling of cases. Superior court judges have recognized his fairness in dealing with defendants, and his zeal in going after downright rascals. He has been acceptable to all concerned except cold-blooded criminals with whom society cannot compromise. He should receive the biggest vote ever given a district attorney of Middlesex County." (Lowell Courier-Citizen).

NEWTON CLASSICAL HIGH SCHOOL

Wednesday morning, October 22 the three upper classes went to the Assembly Hall, where they listened to one of the most interesting talks that has been given there, for a long time. Miss Margaret MacGill told of her work and experiences, while overseas, where she was engaged in all kinds of Y. M. C. A. duties. She was first stationed in Liverpool, Eng., and later in the Duchy of Luxembourg, with the 33rd Division. She was sent over with a detachment of women workers from Mt. Holyoke College, and before her return, had served in about every capacity among the soldiers, that was possible. Her accounts of the British "Tommys," the life and feelings of the "Yankies" who passed through her rest camp, the people of Luxembourg, and of her trip over and back were most interesting, and especially so since she was a teacher in our own school.

All the marks for the first five weeks of school work have now been handed out, and the excitement caused by them has for the most part subsided. Accompanying each report card was a letter addressed to the parents, which told of the relation that social duties of each pupil should have to the regular school work. In this letter form the principal urged that parents try and arrange to have all social functions for their children come at times, which would in no way interfere with three hours of study each day out of class. Furthermore he showed that too much exercise each afternoon tended to degrade the work of the pupil in school, because exhaustion was apt to be the result in such a case.

The football team lost its second game last Saturday, when Somerville managed to score 20 points, while Newton did not succeed in getting the ball behind Somerville's goal, once during the whole game. However, Newton played much better football than she displayed at Everett the preceding Saturday. The forward passes worked to perfection, while the line plays were far from being poor. Newton's defensive work did not for the most part, come up to standard, but at the same time there certainly is a lot of credit due to some of Newton's line and backfield. Cody succeeded in stopping a great many of the opponent's plays, while Guilian intercepted one or two of Somerville's forward passes which might have added a considerable score to the 20 points. In general the line worked together, and worked hard, aided a great deal by the return of Seavey to the line.

The backfield men were also successful in checking numerous plays, and were aided by the addition of Robert Garriy. Despite the fact that the team has begun to show the football spirit, there is much improvement due before the season closes, and all enthusiasts can be assured that Newton will fight harder than ever to win the remaining five games.

The golf tournament has now passed the stage of semi-finals, with MacGillivray and Hodder matched to play the finals. The semi-finals were between Edward Learnard and MacGillivray, the latter winning 1 up, and Hodder and Holmes, the former winning 3 and 2. Hodder has appeared before, in junior golf tournaments and certainly has a fine record for all his golf matches. The other contestant for the honors in the high school tournament, MacGillivray, is not as well known, but it is safe to say that he will put up a good fight.

The class field hockey teams for the girls have been chosen and already, one or two games have been played. The seniors won their first game Monday with a score of 3-2. The school team, made up of the very best of the class teams, has several fine players. Last year's aggregation, including Dorothy Stebbins, Eleanor Lyon, and Anne Bruner. With several other promising players the team looks forward to more or less success.

HALLOWEEN

Dame Pumpkin's eyes will ne'er grow dim.
A constant light shines from within.
Searching out bugaboos, goblins and things,
Startling witches, as the curfew rings.

Bobbing for apples and popping the corn,
Inquiring wee faces put failure to scorn,
As deep in the water their eager heads dip,
And out of the tub, rosy apples they flip.

Rat-tat-tat on the window pane!
The vanishing shadows we hunt for in vain,
Little white fleeing Klu Klux brandishing in air,
Torches and lanterns and masks with red hair.

Down through the quiet streets shouting with glee,
Scampering wildly, quick footsteps to flee,
And home to their downy beds, filled with delight

THIRD RED CROSS ROLL CALL

for the Renewal of Memberships and the Enlisting of New Members

Have YOUR DOLLAR for a year's membership ready.

Be among the first to wear the 1920 Red Cross button. Wear it during the whole of the Roll Call season. Don't go out Armistice Day without it. Be sure of yours. Get it early.

Keep Newton in the lead. Roll up a membership that will show Newton remembers what the Red Cross has done and believes in keeping the Red Cross able to carry on its work for soldiers and soldiers' families and keeping it ready to meet home emergencies.

One year ago Newton had a right-at-home example of the value of Red Cross preparedness in the work the Newton Chapter of the Red Cross did in the influenza epidemic. In forty-eight hours after the need for it was known the Newton Red Cross, in addition to carrying on its war work, had opened and was operating the Red Cross Emergency Hospital to care for influenza patients who could not be cared for elsewhere. It kept the Hospital open and cared for the sick until the emergency was over.

The Newton Red Cross was able to act quickly because it was prepared and organized. It could get in action just as quickly today if the need should arise. In the days of its war activities the Newton Red Cross built up lists of those ready to help in many different ways. Because of the information it has, because of the organization it has created it does not have to waste time learning how to meet an emergency, it is ready and able to act and mobilize at once. The Newton Chapter of the Red Cross is the embodiment of Newton preparedness against emergencies. Newton can not afford not to support its Red Cross and the way to support it is to join it, to pay One Dollar for a year's Membership.

This year the canvassing for members from Sunday, November 2 to Armistice Day, November 11, will be carried on by the women. This means more of the canvassing will be done in the day time than in the evenings. The men's job this year will be to see to it that the money is left at home to pay for memberships for every member of the family. "The better the day the better the deed." The canvassing will begin Sunday. If everybody will be ready thousands will be enrolled by Sunday night and the 1920 Red Cross button will be worn by every Newton man on his way to business Monday morning.

EDITORIAL

There are five referendums on the state ballot next Tuesday, some of which are fairly well known while others have had as yet, but little publicity.

There should be no question in regard to a favorable vote on the rearrangement of the state constitution. The real fight on that matter came last year with the adoption of the nineteen amendments submitted by the Constitutional Convention. The present vote is merely to endorse a rearrangement of the remaining provisions of the old constitution and the incorporation of the amendments adopted last year.

The matter of interest on bank deposits is also something of a last year's bird nest. The first action taken by the Legislature of this year was not satisfactory to some people who promptly got out a referendum. While this was being taken the Legislature reconsidered its first action and then passed a bill, substantially the same as that on which the signatures for the referendum were being obtained. The necessary signatures were obtained and the matter is therefore on the ballot. Favorable action should also be taken on this matter, otherwise there will be some complications which are not at all necessary. From a strictly local point of view, the referendum on the question of establishing a two-platoon system for the Newton Fire Department has the greatest interest. This question might have been, and as we believe, should have been submitted to the mayor and aldermen under the present law, at any time during the past ten years. Instead, under a law passed the present year, friends of the firemen have secured the necessary number of signatures to place the matter on the ballot next Tuesday. This matter, and every other matter involving the financial affairs of the city should be settled by the city government and not passed upon by the individual voters, who do not know the effect the expense of this plan will have on the finances of the city, or whether such expense is justified in view of all the demands on the taxpayers. We have always believed that the two platoon system for the Fire Department is both logical and proper, and should at some time, be put into effect, but in view of the great expense which should be incurred by the city in giving our school teachers a much deserved increase of salary, this matter can well afford to lay over until a more favorable opportunity. In place of the two platoon system at the present time, we would suggest that the firemen be given the same salary as the policemen, and feel sure that the money would be far more welcome than the time.

If there is a favorable vote on the matter of establishing continuation schools in this city, Newton will come under the mandatory clause of the statute and would be obliged to incur an unknown expense to carry out its provisions. Vote NO on this referendum.

The last referendum on instructing the representatives from this city in regard to the sale of liquor containing 4 per cent. of alcohol, is under the so-called public opinion act. We earnestly hope that our citizens will vote No on this measure, not only on its merits, but because we believe that our representatives should be allowed to exercise their own judgments on this as well as on other matters. If they do not represent the sentiment of the city it will be very easy to elect men who will.

With the Federal government fixing the limit of intoxicating liquors at 1 1/2 per cent., it would be the height of folly for Massachusetts to attempt to fix the limit at 4 per cent. Be sure and vote NO!

Newton congratulates the men returning to Newton this week from weeks of patriotic service in the State Guard. They have made a splendid sacrifice of their time and comfort to support the principles of good government and we are proud of them and what they have done. The Newton Company of the State Guard as well as the Newton Constabulary unit have been most fortunate in having competent officers in command, and great praise is due to Col. James G. White and to Capt. Henry W. Crowell for their work in making the duty as light and as comfortable as possible.

It seems almost inconceivable that the grand old Commonwealth of Massachusetts, with its splendid record and great achievements should for one moment tremble in the balance between supporting a program of law and order as exemplified by Governor Coolidge, and one of truckling to deserters of duty, to appeals for personal advantage and to open bidding for support from the worst elements of society, as exemplified by Mr. Long.

There is no middle ground between these two men. The issue is not a party one, but a patriotic one. The defeat of Governor Coolidge next Tuesday would throw society open to every element which would seek its own ends with force and riot if necessary, certain that the public authorities would not dare to interfere.

The issue is of great concern to the large middle class of our people. While the richer classes can protect themselves by hiring guards and private police, and the lower classes have nothing in particular to protect, the smaller store keeper and the average citizen depends on public authority to protect him and his family in his legal rights. When that fails him his property is subject to riot and pillage, and his family may be subjected to the shame and outrage which was inflicted upon innocent women and girls on the night of September 9 on Boston Common. Just because your wife, or sister or daughter, was not insulted that night, is no reason why it may not occur again, if you neglect your plain duty next Tuesday and fail to support Governor Coolidge and the "supremacy of the law" for which he stands.

Newton residents are up in arms to protest against the sentiments expressed in a recent political advertisement this week by Edward Moore, a teacher of history in the Fessenden School for Boys in this city. In fairness to Mr. Fessenden it should be stated that he knew nothing of this letter until it appeared in print, and while a life-long Democrat himself, is reported as being a supporter of Governor Coolidge at the coming election.

Mr. Moore's antagonism is explained by the fact that his brother was one of the deserting policemen of Boston, and it is evident from the tone of his letter, that "birds of a feather flock together."

We were prepared to write a scathing editorial on this matter, but have given up that idea since the above fact became known. What's the use of wasting time on such a biased situation. We are glad however, that our children are not under the influence of such a teacher.

Four weeks ago there was no question as to the triumphant reelection of Governor Coolidge on November 4th. Today a great change is noted, largely due to a wave of maudlin sentiment which is sweeping over the state towards the deserting policemen and to the attempt to swing the labor unions against the Governor. The result cannot be forecast at the present time, we can only urge every patriotic citizen to be sure and cast his vote next Tuesday and to allow nothing to interfere with that important duty.

Too many men let their duties as a citizen lay so lightly on their shoulders that the important matter of voting is oftentimes neglected. Let us remind you, to so arrange your business next week as to leave you ample time to express your attitude on the great issue of law versus riot, which is to be settled next Tuesday in this Commonwealth.

Some one has well said that the coming election is not a mere election as it is a census of the patriotic citizens of the Commonwealth. Where do you stand on the maintenance of law and order?

It is a striking commentary on the innate human desire to "raise the devil" that an extra police force must be put on in the so-called good city of Newton to restrain the youth of the city.

On account of the crowded condition of our columns this week, a large amount of local news has been postponed to our next issue.

Be ready to renew your membership in the Red Cross. Newton must not fall behind its record of last year.

ORGANIZED GOVERNMENT

The Only Means of Protecting the Rights of All the People Is to

CALVIN COOLIDGE

"The Pilot Who Weathered the Storm"

The question at issue now is not one of party politics. It is not a matter that can be left to committees or organizations. It can only be met by a swift acceptance of personal responsibility and the maximum of individual effort. And the time is short. Tuesday, November 4th, will decide whether Massachusetts is to stand before the nation as repudiating or rewarding a Governor who, in time of stress and peril, did his duty fearlessly, maintained the laws and protected the public.

The opposing candidate is vilifying the Governor by false and reckless accusations. He is trying to win votes by all sorts of promises. He is making political capital, or trying to, out of the faithlessness of the Boston police force and the looting and rioting that followed its defection. He is promising the reinstatement of the men who broke their oaths and forsook their posts. For his own personal interest, as he sees it, he is trying, at this critical time, to cater to the forces of disorder and lawlessness.

This is no time for any mincing of words or disguising of issues. The question for the individual voter is not: How do I feel about the importance of defending the government and the public peace? but, What am I going to do about it?

Never was a cause more clearly expressed in a single personality than the cause of good government and righteous laws is expressed in the candidacy of Calvin Coolidge for re-election as Governor of Massachusetts. The result of the election will be of nation-wide significance; and the aim in view should be not merely his re-election but his re-election by a majority so great as to leave no doubt as to where Massachusetts stands.

RUSSELL

FOR

DISTRICT ATTORNEY VOTERS OF NEWTON WHETHER YOU BE REPUBLICAN OR DEMOCRAT

Among the many Middlesex cases which I have investigated are the following, which apply particularly to the City of Newton:—

The records show that there were returned by the Middlesex Grand Jury indictments against Charles Wiseberg, Benjamin D. Solomon, Carl Rudnick and Joseph Rudnick for conspiracy to burn a dwelling house on February 16, 1917, the property of Benjamin D. Solomon, on Centre Street, Newton, and to defraud insurance companies thereby. This indictment was nol-prossed July 8, 1918.

Joseph Levine in November 1916 was indicted for defrauding an insurance company by setting fire to a house in Newton. This indictment was placed on file January 28, 1918.

Joseph Levine and Benjamin D. Solomon were indicted November 1916 for defrauding an insurance company, and the indictment was placed on file December 17, 1917.

Levine was indicted in June 1918 as an accessory before the fact to the burning of a house in Newton. This indictment is also filed.

Charles Wiseberg was indicted in June 1918 for the setting of the same fire charged in the foregoing indictments. He was sentenced on November 13, 1918 to two and one-half to three years in the state prison, where he now is.

At the trial of the case of Benjamin D. Solomon against an insurance company in June 1918 to recover under a policy of insurance for damage by fire to the house owned by Solomon and which was the house referred to in the previous indictment the Court found for the insurance company, and at that trial Wiseberg testified that he was employed by Joseph Levine to set the fire and was paid $50.

Nothing has ever been done by the District Attorney in the way of prosecution of the men higher up in this case, though a Superior Court has already found that the story of Wiseberg, the "torch", that he was employed by the owner to burn the property and was paid for the act was true.

Only one month after the trial of the civil case, which was in June 1918, Mr. Tufts, with the stroke of his pen, nol-prossed the indictments which involved Solomon and the Rudnicks.

Do you think that an administration, as evidenced by the foregoing, warrants your confidence in, and a re-election of, the District Attorney?

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert's first of a brilliant series of musical revues, "Shubert Gaeties of 1919," bewitching with fun, music and sartorial display, will be the attraction at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, next week, beginning Monday, November 3rd. This huge, rollicking revue, which is in two acts and twenty or more scenes, was seen for the first time at the 44th Street Theatre, New York, last July, and after a run of several months, was transferred to the Winter Garden in order to provide a more ample seating capacity. The new "Gaeties" at the Winter Garden proved quite as alluring as anything ever seen at that famous playhouse. The book is by Edgar Smith, the lyrics by Alfred Bryan and the music by Jean Schwartz. The piece was staged by J. C. Huffman, the Winter Garden's famous producer. While there are twenty or more scenes in the "Gaeties of 1919," whisking one about from one place to another in the mad life of New York, this alluring concoction is based around an interesting story and one that lends itself capably to this species of entertainment.

COPLEY THEATRE—So pronounced a success has "The Truants" made at the Copley Theatre, as played by the Henry Jewett Players, that this intense English play is to continue the attraction at this theatre for another week. "The Truants" was well received by the critics of the Boston papers in following the opening performance, and all the members of the company got high praise for their work; in fact, they all gave an able performance.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

A large audience listened attentively to Mrs. Lawrence Thurston of Gilling College, Nanking, China, who addressed the Woman's Association Tuesday morning at Eliot Church.

Mrs. Thurston spoke in part as follows:

"This college was opened in 1915 with only nine pupils, but in these four years the attendance has increased eight times.

Their first college year was a difficult one, both for faculty and pupils, for while the former must teach, they were also learning Chinese, and the latter with their varied dialects, could not understand each other.

In China there are 25 missionary schools, but owing to the fact that there is but one teacher where three should be, they are very badly conducted.

The need of women and men working together is being felt in China, not only in order to put women on an equal footing with men in the home, but so that the women may teach in elementary schools and elsewhere, as they have never done in the past.

The students from Gilling College are now conducting a half day school of which they also take the entire financial care. They give lectures on hygiene, biology and other vital subjects to the women who, but for one day of the year, are shut away from the world in their courts.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

"Stop and think, sit down and read, and reflect," was the admonition of the chairman of the Literature department of the State Federation at the Presidents' Conference at Lowell last week. "We cannot be continually giving out without taking in." And so she made a plea for the club women to read thoughtfully, with discrimination and with a purpose.

The whole atmosphere of the conference showed that the various departments are realizing that conditions are not what they were before the war and that special work is needed for this great reconstruction period.

"Do work of prevention, be temperate, live well, sleep well, play well and eat well," was the advice of Mrs. Sumner Coolidge, chairman of Public Health. A modern health crusade, especially against tuberculosis, is uppermost in the plans of her department. Dr. Lily Owen Burbank said that the clubs have not yet realized their full power to do good and made a special plea for interest in another factor growing out of the war, the social hygiene movement. "We can't pass it over. It is a problem for all people."

Training in the duties of citizenship and fire protection are new topics being considered by the Civics department. "An art critic in every club," is the slogan of the Art department, while the Education department proposes to make a drive for better speech for better Americans. "At present we are perfectly willing that the speech of our neighbors be better than our own." Miss Agnes Donham, chairman of Home Economics, wants working committees in the clubs; the budget and the child being the topics upon which attention will be focused this season. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer made a plea for Thrift, urging the women to be thrifty of their time, of their strength and of their energies, as well as of material things and so make economy respectable for all. The Music department suggests concentrating upon one good musical program, rather than having mediocre music at every meeting; that clubs learn all the patriotic songs. A protest against the desecration of our flag will be made this year by the conservation department. These are but a few of the points brought at the conference, but they will serve to show that the Federation is very much in earnest and wishes to steer the clubs towards things which are worth while.

EVERY SATURDAY CLUB

On October 18th the first meeting of the Every Saturday Club for the year 1919-1920 was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Davidson, 19 Prescott street. It being the beginning of the fiftieth year in this unique club's history.

The club is to study "Puritanism" for its jubilee year and the subject for the first meeting was "Milton"—"The Intellectual," what "Puritanism" thought.

This subject was most skillfully handled by the committee-chairman, Professor J. B. Taylor, assisted by Miss Lydia Richardson and Mrs. Charles W. Davidson.

The second meeting of the Every Saturday Club will be held on November 1st at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Prescott, 271 Crafts street. The subject for the evening will be "Cromwell. The Militant." What Puritanism did. The committee in charge are Mr. J. B. Willis, chairman, assisted by Mr. Wallace C. Boyden and Miss Mabel C. Bragg.

On Tuesday afternoon the Newtonville Woman's Club for its first regular meeting of the season co-operates with the Teachers' Club in the closing lecture in the series by Earl Barnes. The first of the Current Events lectures by Professor George H. Blakeslee, under the auspices of the Newton Community Club, will take place at the Hunnewell Club on Thursday, November 6, at 3 o'clock. Tickets may be secured from Mrs. Francis E. Stanley. The course is open to all who may be interested, both men and women.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold its regular meeting in G. A. R. Hall, Newtonville, on Thursday, November 6, at 2 P. M. The president, Mrs. William H. Brown will preside and desires to meet every member possible. Important plans for the winter will be discussed. Tea will be served and a social hour follow.

The opening reception of the Newtonville Woman's Club took place at the Central Congregational Church on October 29. Miss Margaret McGill, who has recently returned from France, was the special guest and gave the members the benefit of some of her experiences during the year abroad. Mrs. Joseph C. Hagar, the new president of the club, together with Miss McGill welcomed the members. A trio, violin, cello and piano, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Cabot, contributed numbers to the program. Tea was served by a special committee.

A very successful Charity Bridge was held by the Waban Woman's Club last Friday afternoon at the Neighborhood Club House. The party was arranged in order that the club may give away more money this year; and it is expected that a large sum will be realized. Afternoon tea was served.

On Friday, October 24, the meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was in charge of the Home Economics committee, Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald, chairman. A group of songs was pleasingly rendered by Mrs. Laura Cobb Thompson, accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Stratton Watson. Mrs. Ida St. Harrington was introduced as Home Demonstration Agent of the Middlesex County Farm Bureau, and gave a practical and helpful talk on "Home Renovation." She also answered many questions which brought out interesting points, proving that we were all seeking just the information she had come to give. A genuine Halloween tea followed to which all were silently beckoned by two real ghosts, who dispensed good things from the table, while still more goodies were served by a surprisingly hospitable old witch in the corner.

The Travel Class meeting at the home of Mrs. Wells was unusually well attended and in the story of English Possessions most interesting papers were given on "The Fiji Islands and Tasmania," by Mrs. Wells and "The Channel Islands," by Mrs. Jordan.

A RECENT DEATH

Edward Graham Parker, senior officer of the Medical Corps at the Navy Yard, Washington, D. C. died suddenly in that city, October 4, 1919, after nearly twenty-one years of service in the United States Navy.

He was born October 7, 1870, at Auburndale, Mass.; educated in a private school at Newton; graduated from the Harvard Medical School in 1898; and received his commission as naval surgeon from President McKinley in January, 1899.

Serving alternately on sea and shore duty ever since, he has been a hard and faithful worker, with practically no rest between his various assignments. Among the United States ships on which he has seen duty were the Pensacola, Hartford, Adams, Wheeling, California and South Dakota, some of them belonging to the Atlantic Fleet, which went round the world several years ago. During these voyages, he has crossed the equator seven or eight times.

In 1907-8, he was on duty at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and then was sent to sea again, travelling 100,000 miles between 1908 and 1910. In the latter year he was appointed a delegate to the International Congress of Medicine and Hygiene at Buenos Aires, his ship being ordered to attend the centennial celebration there. This involved, as he expressed it, "another little trip of 30,000 miles."

His next appointment was to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, where, from January, 1911, to September, 1914, he had medical charge of the wives and families of the numerous officers stationed there.

Dr. Parker was twice appointed resident physician at Saneos, 1904-7 and 1914-17. It was during this second term of service, that the hurricane and earthquake of February, 1915, occurred, after which he "ably directed much of the relief work," according to the Red Cross Magazine for August of that year, which also quotes extracts from his reports to the Navy Department.

During the latter part of the World War, he was on American ships doing patrol duty on the Atlantic ocean. In 1917, he attended officially, at a cathedral in Rio Janeiro, a thanksgiving service for the taking of Jerusalem by the English. This was his last sea-duty.

Returning to the United States in February, 1918, he was appointed to the post in Washington which he occupied at the time of his sudden and much-lamented death.

His funeral was held on Monday, October 6, from St. Thomas' Church in that city, with full military honors. One attendant at this service said that he "must have been greatly esteemed by his associates." Burial took place at the Arlington National Cemetery. His body was wrapped in the Stars and Stripes.

Dr. Parker belonged to a distinguished family. His father, the late Charles Edward Parker, was a noted Boston architect, who superintended the construction of the Boston post-office, sub-treasury building, and other public edifices. His mother, Isabella Graham (Jennings) Parker, was the daughter of a clergyman, a graduate of Lasell Seminary, a woman of rare mental and musical gifts, for forty years a church organist, and a co-worker with her son, the famous Horatio Parker, Dean of the Music School at Yale University.

Dr. Parker was married, May 9, 1902, to Miss Charlotte Linne, who survives him. He also leaves a daughter, Catherine Isabella, and a son, Edward Perry Linne, who, during the present year, won a scholarship at Mt. Tamalpais Academy, California.

Of his immediate family there remain his older brother, Horatio Parker; a sister, Mrs. Stephen A. Bailey of San Francisco; two step-brothers, Henry E. Parker of Newport News, Va. and David F. Parker of Pasadena, Cal.; and an aunt, Miss Alice Jennings of Melrose Highlands, sister of his mother.

NEWTON VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

NEWTONVILLE, MASS.

At the Monday morning assembly, October 27th, Principal M. W. Murray addressed the school upon the subject of "Prison Reforms."

Mr. Murray was a consulting expert of the New York Prison Survey Commission in a recent investigation of the prisons of New York.

Mr. Earle Barnes will address the teachers of the city this week upon "Woman's Place in the Modern Social Order."

Mr. Barnes' lecture before the vocational teachers will be upon the psychology of the vocational movement.

A large addition of books has been added to the vocational school library in memory of a teacher and several pupils who have died during the past year.

AN APPEAL FOR THE TEACHERS IN THE NEWTON SCHOOLS

It is probably human nature; it surely is the American disposition, to get along as comfortably as we can without worrying ourselves about matters that would disturb our comfort. This "Laissez Faire" tendency encourages us to neglect our duties to others, until some crisis, which arouses the good people in the community; when by concerted action the evils are corrected.

Probably nine-tenths of the citizens of Newton do not suspect that the salaries of teachers in the public schools are inadequate to enable them to live; nor do they know the privation, and in some cases suffering, which some, who have others more or less dependent upon them, are, owing to the high cost of living, called upon to endure.

Good teachers, as a rule, are men and women of refinement and superior education, who have given from ten to fifteen years of their life to preparation for their work, and who are constantly studying to keep abreast of the time.

Until recently their compensation has enabled them to live moderately well, especially in Newton, where, although salaries were not the highest, still the compensation was above the average in the smaller towns, and enabled our superintendent of schools to secure superior teachers.

A few years ago, it would have been unusual to appeal to women on public questions, but they are now becoming a strong factor and can exert a powerful influence in righting wrongs, and if they will investigate the present trying situation of the school teachers, I feel sure that they will take some action that will provide adequate salaries for the teachers in Newton promptly.

It is possible that the appropriation for the departments in the City Government of Newton are all placed; that there are no unexpended balances in any of the departments. Possibly no new indebtedness can legally be incurred at this time for such a purpose; but it is not possible, provided the city will agree to make good from income of next year; that a number of Newton tax payers could lend their joint credit to secure funds to pay the teachers a "living wage?"

Teachers, as a rule, are high toned, fine grained, sensitive people, who shrink from association for the purpose of forcing their claims upon the community, and look to the public to act towards them fairly and justly.

Already there is a scarcity of good teachers, and there is danger that young men and women in the future will be forced to seek other fields for their life work.

Does not this subject appeal to every one? What will become of our children; neglected at home, who get their only training in the schools?

EVENING CLASS AT Y. M. CATHOLIC ASSOCIATION

The evening classes of the Young Men's Catholic Association, held in the Boston College High School building on James street, Boston, have opened for the season for 1919-20.

Special classes will open this week in advertising and salesmanship, real estate practice, Latin, typewriting and shorthand, and pupils will be admitted to these classes for the next two weeks. The rates are very low and the service of the highest grade.

The classes are attracting men and women from all over Greater Boston and the total registration will reach the high mark of over two thousand pupils.

The classes in civil service offer an exceptional opportunity to those preparing for all civil service examinations and the grammar school course affords a chance to mature people whose early education has been neglected.

Catalogues describing all the forty courses which are given by the school may be had on application to the secretary, 41 East Newton street, Boston.

MR. HOLT RETIRES

Mr. Warner R. Holt of Rice street retires tomorrow as postmaster of the Boston and Albany railroad company after 39 years of service. It is interesting to note that the B. & A. has had two postmasters since that office was created in 1859, Mr. Holt and his father, Mr. Albert Holt.

The first monthly payroll was $28,000. Now it is more than $100,000. Albert Holt was postmaster 43 years, retiring at the age of 70. His son was born in Springfield in 1860, educated in the public schools there and for a time worked in a Springfield bank. In 1880 he entered the office of his father, the postmaster, then located in Springfield. In 1889, when the office was removed to Boston, he took up his residence in Newton Centre. He has been postmaster since 1901.

BREAD MAKING

A trip to the Manufacture of the Grocers' Baking Company at 21 Hillsboro street, Dorchester would be well worth making arrangements for.

To see the different processes whereby the highest grade flour, combined with the purest of lard, milk and sugar is converted into the thirty-five styles of bread and rolls made by this company, and to see the neatness of the entire manufactory is an interesting and instructive sight.

Their big specialty is T. H. Best Celebrated Milk Bread, "the kind that's mixed with milk," and its immense increase in this loaf especially is simply amazing.

CHURCH NOTICE

First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton. Player's Hall, Washington street, West Newton. Sunday service 10:45 A. M. Subject of lesson-sermon: "Everlasting Punishment." Sunday school 10:45 A. M. Testimonial meeting Wednesday 8 P. M. ## SCHOOL NOTES

Edited by Dorothy Drake

Bigelow School

Friday afternoon Miss Coyle's class of the Bigelow School had a most instructive Geography tour through the Newtons under the supervision of Miss Bragg.

Places of Historical interest were visited, also mills and factories in different parts of the city. Upon reaching these places Miss Bragg assembled the children and gave interesting descriptions of the subjects under discussion. After such a tour the pupils certainly have a better understanding of the beautiful city in which they live.

The School Orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Chase has weekly practice in the Hall. The players are violins, Mabel Williamson and Alfred Hanson; 'cello, Julian Hutchinson; mandolin, Dawson Alexander; cornet, Portia Russell; French Horn, Mr. Chase; drum, William Duly; and piano accompanist, Miss Leach.

Hyde School

The children in the fourth grades had their annual ride around Newton last Friday under the leadership of Miss Bragg. The following people loaned their automobiles for the trip: Mrs. Edward Savage, Mrs. Walter Godsoe, Mrs. Edwin S. Drowne, Miss Esther Cummings, Mrs. H. C. Marcy, Mrs. E. W. Warren, Mrs. Benjamin Hall, Mr. Woodworth, Mr. R. J. Wilkie, and Mr. Leon Dabman.

A poultry club of eight members has been organized in the Hyde School.

The south side branch of the West Newton Music School is now in operation here, holding its sessions Tuesday afternoons and Saturday mornings.

The Thrift certificate issued by the state society for 100 per cent participation in buying thrift stamps has been presented to Mrs. Blakemore's seventh grade.

Miss Kuntz's third grade for the second time since the opening of school holds the record in stamp purchases: $14.75 last Friday.

Clafin School

The Clafin Eighth Grade football team has been merged into a school team, the players belong to the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Miss Celia F. Tucker has been placed in charge of the new fifth grade.

Stearns School

The two-room portable building now under construction at the Stearns School is nearly completed.

The fourth grades of the Stearns and Elliot Schools went on a Geography trip with Miss Mabel E. Bragg, assistant superintendent of schools, Monday afternoon. About 70 children were taken over the city of Newton in automobiles. These cars were obtained thru the co-operation of the Stearns School Centre. Four stops were made on the trip. The first where Cheesecake Brook flows into the Charles River; the second at Newton Lower Falls, where samples were obtained from Mr. Sullivan of The Wool Extracts Co.; the third, at Echo Bridge, and the last at the Elliot Memorial. The children enjoyed the stop at Echo Bridge the most. The ride will long be remembered by them.

Thursday evening, October 23, a Community churches was organized in the Stearns School Hall. The chorus work is under the direction of Miss Blake who is connected with the West Newton Music School. During the evening two pupils of Miss Blake gave vocal and violin solos. This chorus is to meet regularly every Thursday evening at 7.45 in the Stearns School Hall. At each gathering some special musical feature will be presented.

At the meeting of the Girls' Club, Tuesday evening, Miss Bertha Wood of the Boston Dispensary spoke to the girls on "Thrift and Budgets." There were about thirty present and nearly all were anxious to start a budget and save a stated amount each week. The banking is to be done at the Stearns School, at the business meeting, which is held the second Tuesday in each month. When a dollar has been saved it is transferred to the Newton Savings Bank.

The subject for the next Mothers' Club meeting which will be held Monday, November third at 7.30 P. M. is "Milk and its Value in the Diet." Stereopticon slides will be shown and a fairy story will be told by Mrs. Jennie McCrillis of the Boston Milk Campaign.

Stearns football team ran true to form Tuesday afternoon on Cabot Park defeating easily the strong Burr team, 86-0. Burr claimed the championship of the city, challenging the title, but after Tuesday's game, wondered why it hadn't considered Stearns. Stearns claims the championship and hopes a worthy challenger will appear before the close of the football season.

The Boy's Club met Monday evening at the school. Officers for the ensuing year were elected, and much important business completed. The committee for the dance planned for Nov. 7th, reported on its work and the club members expect to be the hosts to the largest dance gathering of the year.

Lasell

Next Sunday the students of Lasell are to attend the Methodist Women's Missionary Jubilee Meeting at People's Temple at 3 o'clock. Three hundred missionaries are to be present, and one hundred are to receive their commissions. Mrs. Bishop MacDowell, National President of the Woman's Missionary Society, will give the commissions.

Mr. George Dunham, head of the music department at Lasell is to have charge of the music of the Pageant at Symphony Hall Thursday and Friday nights when 500 are to sing in the chorus. He will be assisted by Miss Louise Parkhurst of Lasell.

MR. BANGS' LECTURE

Central Church, Newton, 1c, was filled to its uttermost capacity Monday evening to hear Mr. John Kendrick Bangs on "The Wake of the War."

In his opening remarks, Mr. Bangs referred humorously to his experiences with other audiences, and expressed himself glad to be once again in whatever Newton this might be.

Mr. Bangs then went on to speak seriously of the war and its effects. He said that the war was by no means yet over, that in every state of the Union insidious propaganda was still going on, slurring remarks were being made in regard to Great Britain and France in order to discredit these nations in our eyes. He said that it ill became us as a nation to speak slightly of Great Britain when it was owing to her protection that 1,000,000 of our boys crossed the ocean in safety, nor should we speak slightly of France who gave 1,000,000 of her boys before we entered the war.

He described in vivid terms the fearful desolation of France, particularly of Rheims and of Lille. In the latter city all of the machinery has either been taken to Germany, or wantonly destroyed so that the city has nothing with which to build up her industries.

In his two and one-half months' stay he said that he did not see any place in France where a man could earn his livelihood through agriculture. In 63 villages—63,407 trees had been utterly destroyed. It will cost, he said, $10,000,000 to remove the ruins from Rheims.

As a contrast to this he described conditions in Germany where, he said, apparently nothing was changed, not a leaf on single tree seemed gone. There are two types of Germans to be found in Germany today: the fawning type seeking to ingratiate himself with the Americans for what he may be able to get out of them, and the utterly selfish, complacent, arrogant type that brought about the war. No where, he said, did he see any consciousness of defeat, or any sign of repentance. Somehow Germany has lost something in moral values. The armistice coming just when it did he regarded as a crime, and he firmly believes that we will have more trouble with Germany.

Mr. Bangs paid a beautiful tribute to our boys over there, and to the work of the Red Cross. He said he once asked a group of intelligent men what they remembered about the Crimean War, and they had forgotten the names of the battles, and even of the causes of the war, but all remembered Florence Nightingale. So, he said, the Red Cross will be remembered when all else has been forgotten, and he called upon all present to support the Red Cross in helping to "carry on."

SARAH HULL CHAPTER D. R.

Sarah Hull Chapter D. R. held its October meeting in the Newton Club last week on Thursday afternoon, and was glad to welcome back so many of its members after the summer's separation, and also to greet a number of guests.

At the business meeting, which Mrs. Leonard conducted most successfully, Mrs. Pearson read a delightful report of the May outing to Camp Devens, and the chapter was glad to accept the suggestion of the State Society that it take the apron and household table at the State Fair.

Thrift circulars heralding Mrs. Myra B. Lord's talk to the chapter were distributed.

The hostesses for the day, Miss Gertrude Ensign, Mrs. Adelbert Fernald, Mrs. Frank Fletcher, Miss Mary Fox, Miss Lucretia Fuller and Mrs. Elmer L. Gibbs, provided a pleasing program consisting of the personal reading of the prize essays by the Stearns' School pupils.

Miss Lillian LeBlanc, first prize, told of "Colonial Days." Miss Estella Holmes' subject was "A Colonial Sabbath," while Miss Emma Boisclair told of "Colonial Lives."

After these glimpses of the past, Maj. C. Raymond Colot spoke touchingly and to the point on the subject of "France to America."

At the close of the program the hostesses received informally, while the refreshments served as a happy means of prolonging social intercourse.

Intoxicating Liquor will be defined by the United States Government at one-half of one per cent alcohol. For Massachusetts to define it at 4 per cent alcohol, (5 per cent. by volume), is to defy the Government. Stand by the Federal Government.

Mrs. Joseph R. Draper gave an interesting paper on "The Modern Poster," followed by a short exhibit of posters. Maude Evelyn Bradley talked on the evolution of dress, telling of the essentials to good dressing, which she illustrated with crayon sketches. She was assisted by local models—club members—in period costume—from 1820 to 1912.

Miss Margaret Longfellow, Miss Elizabeth Wells, Miss Annie Bunker, Mrs. W. J. Spaulding, Mrs. R. H. Fisher, Mrs. W. H. Cady, Mrs. N. H. Cardwell, Mrs. P. T. Crosby, Mrs. G. N. Marston, Mrs. J. H. MacNaughton, Mrs. A. T. Freeman, Mrs. J. Scott Ryder, Mrs. Feather, Miss Alice Furbish, Mrs. Charles Field.

The professional models were sent out, from Boston shops. The 1920 costumes consisted of a beautiful display of evening dresses, evening wraps, afternoon dresses, suits, sport clothes, and the millinery. Mrs. L. D. MacNutt, accompanied with period music.

The meeting of the Auburndale Mother's Association will be held Wednesday afternoon, November 5 at 3:00 P. M. in the Episcopal Church. The speaker will be Miss Alice Jordan, head of the Children's Department of the Boston Public Library. Miss Jordan spoke to us last year but the stormy afternoon kept many at home and we hope a large number will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear her at this meeting. Small children will be cared for.

D. A. R.

At the meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution held last Wednesday and Thursday at Stockbridge, Mass., the following were present from Newton: Mrs. William H. Lucas, Mrs. Francis E. Stanley, Mrs. Edwin F. Fearing, and Mrs. Alexander Bennett.

Hicks of New York, Congressman Robert Luce of this district, Mr. J. Weston Allen, candidate for attorney general, District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts, Mayor Edwin O. Childs and Mr. William F. —Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Jones of Gray Cliff road, announce the engagement of their son, Chester M. Jones, M.D., now in the Massachusetts General Hospital, to Miss Katherine Jones of Ontario. On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jones are giving a party in honor of the engagement to which the members of Dr. Jones' Whist Club are invited.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Union of the First Baptist Church was held last Tuesday. The afternoon was spent in sewing for the Red Cross, followed by a supper to which the men of the church had been invited. At the close of the supper a half hour was spent in singing, with Mr. Everett Greene making an enthusiastic song leader, and with Miss Mary Colburn at the piano. The meeting then adjourned to the auditorium of the church and was thrown open to the public, many coming from the other churches in Newton, to witness the pageant, "The Striking of America's Hour," given by the World Wide Guild. Over 40 young women and girls participated in beautiful and picturesque tableaux with appropriate music, vividly teaching the lesson of America's opportunity. The pageant was given under the direction of Mrs. William Hodges, leader of the W. W. G. music was furnished by Miss Evelyn Bickel. This meeting was the result of the effort of the Woman's Union to interest the men of the church in their work and to get in closer touch with the young women and girls. Other gatherings of like nature are contemplated for the coming season.
